Brink's Loot May Total $3 Million!

MONTREAL, Canada (AP) — Brink's has had another million-dollar robbery, and the loss may exceed the record $2,775,395 holdup of the armored car company in Boston 26 years ago. A four-man team with a 10mm antiaircraft machine gun covering them hijacked a Brink's security truck with at least $1.5 million in cash aboard from an alley alongside the St. James St. branch of the Royal Bank of Canada in Montreal's financial district Tuesday.

Police said they believe a fifth man was in the gang, but they were unable to name any suspects. No shots were fired and no one was injured, police said. Unconfirmed reports said the total haul may be $3 million. In the Boston robbery, $1,218,211 was in cash and $1,557,000 was in money orders. Almost $1 million was never recovered.

A dramatization of the Boston robbery appeared on a U.S. television network earlier this week. In another U.S. television show aired in Montreal recently, bandits used a bazooka to hijack an armored car. Police gave this account of the robbery Tuesday: The Brink's truck drew up alongside the bank branch about 2:35 p.m. and three guards went into the bank, leaving driver Gilles Lachapelle alone in the truck.

Soon after, a panel truck drove up and blocked one entrance to the alley, while a white van backed in from the other end. The machine gun was in the white van, behind a protective wall of sandbags. Two men approached Lachapelle as two others trained the machine gun on him from the van. The driver "didn't hesitate when the hijackers asked him to open the door," said a police spokesman.

The three Brink's guards were in the bank no more than five minutes before they returned to find their truck gone. The white van and the armored truck were abandoned less than half an hour later on Nun's Island, south of downtown Montreal. Lachapelle was handcuffed, gagged and bound with adhesive tape in the back of his truck but freed himself and called the police from a nearby public telephone.

A Brink's official said the company is offering a $25,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the bandits, and Commercial Union Assurance Co. Ltd. is offering up to $100,000 for recovery of the stolen money.

Upper Central Michigan Twister Kills 1, Hurts 15

WEST BRANCH, Mich. (AP) — State Police launched cleanup operations today in Ogemaw County in the northern Lower Peninsula after a tornado touched down Tuesday, leaving one dead, 15 injured and dozens of homes damaged.

The victim was identified by State Police as 80-year-old Patricia Van Tyle. Officials said Mrs. Van Tyle's husband and daughter apparently were not at home at the time and escaped injury.

Two of the 15 injured were in critical condition early today, officials said.

Police said they are trying to locate the owners of the damaged homes and summer outages so they could make an estimate of destruction left in the tornado's wake.

The storm struck just south of this northern Lower Michigan community of 2,100 about 3 p.m. "It got really dark, then it cleared," one trooper said. "Then we got a telephone call from a man and another from a C-Box (Citizens Band radio operator)."

"Then it was bang, bang, bang, and all hell broke loose."

Five other twisters were reported in other parts of Ogemaw County and in the counties of Iosco, Clare and Mecosta, officials said.

Mrs. Van Tyle was found trapped in a home just outside West Branch in the southwestern portion of the county, troopers said.

Police said an estimated 17 homes were damaged in that section of the county, with at least twice that number reportedly damaged or destroyed near Sage Lake.

"We had hail the size of golf balls," a trooper at West Branch said.

A spokesman said troopers from neighboring regions were being sent into the West Branch area to secure it for the night.

"I know it's hard to believe, but we have hooters up here just like they do in the big city," the spokesman said.

Other severe weather battered Lower Michigan, with State Police reporting cars overturned on Interstate 75 near West Branch. At least four persons were reported injured in that incident.

One-inch hail covered the ground near Roscommon, troopers said, while high winds caused portions of downtown Owosso to go without power for a time.

Power was restored to most areas within half an hour, according to Consumers Power Co.

'Blues' Bills To Rise 29%

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield subscribers will pay 28.8 per cent more this year to renew their health insurance policies following a decision today by State Insurance Commissioner Thomas Jones. Jones awarded the state's largest health insurer a $284 million rate increase, saying, "Had the company acted responsibly and cooperatively in the past, the increase would not have been so large."

"The temptation is to reduce the rate increase so the public does not pay the cost of past mismanagement," Jones said. The rate increase he awarded is less than the $355 million the Blues sought.

Blues officials had threatened to drop the aged and frequently ill from their coverage if the rate award was not substantial enough.

Jones said the new rates will take effect July 1, although the Blues wanted the increase to become effective Thursday.

Jones also ordered the Blue Cross-Blue Shield board of directors to start filing quarterly reports on the company's financial condition.

"The State Insurance Bureau can no longer rely on annual rate reviews as the method for gauging the company's performance," Jones said. "Action must occur before inefficiencies cause extra cost and increased rates for subscribers," he said.

The Insurance Bureau staff, after reviewing the Blues' financial data, recommended a $275 million increase, independent hearing officer Spencer Kimball recommended a $304 million increase after listening to testimony from the Blues and Insurance Bureau staff.

Two Sides 'Far Apart' On Money Issues

By CHERYL DEBES
Associated Press Writer

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — Teamsters union and trucking industry negotiators remained "far apart" on crucial money issues today as the mid-night deadline for a nationwide truck strike approached, federal labor officials said.

Labor Secretary W.J. Usery Jr. said contract negotiations were bogged down over four or five economic issues. Although he declined to elaborate, those issues reportedly include a difference of 75 cents an hour in wage increases, $8 a week in other benefits and cost-of-living allowances.

Usery and James Secareo, acting head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, planned to continue meeting with both sides today in anticipation of the midnight expiration of the National Master Freight Agreement.

The current contract covers about 400,000 truckers and warehousemen who move about 80 per cent of the nation's total output of manufactured goods.

Usery reported late Tuesday night that some progress was being made and said he felt enough time remained to fashion a settlement.

He added, however, "I am hopeful, but at this moment I certainly cannot in any way indicate ... I see an agreement. We're talking about a national agreement that has many implications not only for this industry but for the nation this year."

The Ford administration is concerned that a large settlement in favor of the Teamsters would have an inflationary impact on upcoming contract negotiations in the rubber, construction, electrical appliance and auto industries.

In weekend voting by union members across the country, Teamsters leaders received overwhelming authorization to call a strike if a settlement is not reached before the present contract expires.

Usery said Tuesday that no decision had been made to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction and invoked an 80-day cooling-off period, but federal sources said preparations to seek the necessary court order were being made in Washington.

An injunction would order resumption of work for the cooling-off period if a strike is called. (See back page, sec. 1, col. 3)

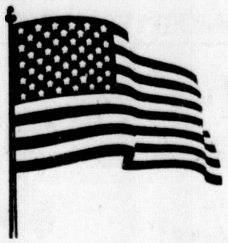

Be It Today Or Tomorrow, Right Turn On Red Legal

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Starting today, Michigan motorists are allowed to turn right on red lights at most intersections under a new state law, but State Police say some law enforcement agencies have not yet gotten the word. Many state laws go into effect April 1, exactly 90 days after the legislature adjourns, Dec. 31. But 1976 is a Leap Year and so there is an extra day. That makes the effective date of the law March 31. "It all my years at the department I don't recall such confusion over a new law," said State Police Lt. Bernie Schlehuber. "One (police) department even put out a brochure with the April 1 effective date on it. But that's wrong. You can start making the right turns on Wednesday." State Police Sgt. Robert Johnson said persons ticketed by local police for turning right on a red light today should argue the point.

Girl Student Knifed During Fight At Allegan School

ALLEGAN — Allegan sheriff's deputies said today they are seeking two girl students at Allegan high school in connection with a knife fight at the school Monday in which a 12-year-old girl suffered slash wounds. Deputies said the injured girl, Tonya Compton, a ninth-grader at Allegan junior high, was treated and released Monday night from Allegan general hospital for wounds on her face, neck, chest and arms. She is the daughter of Arthur Compton and lives at route 4, Allegan, the school said. Deputies said the knifing was believed to have stemmed from an argument between the Compton girl and two other girls in the girls' locker room.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Political Reform Sent Back For Repairs

By a 5-2 vote on Monday the Michigan supreme court found a comprehensive political reform statute to be constitutionally objectionable.

The majority declared the new law violates a clause in the 1963 state constitution which reads that no statute may embrace more than one subject.

The act, one ramrodded through the legislature last year by Common Cause, targets on four principal subjects: it limits substantially how much can be contributed to a candidate's campaign; lobbyists are put in a goldfish bowl; public officials are placed under severe restraints insofar as conflict of interest is concerned; and a fund is created to finance partially future gubernatorial campaigns with tax dollars.

All this adds up, in the majority's view, as trying to cover too many bases at one time.

The minority opinion felt the law to be on solid constitutional ground because its underlying theme is "money for votes."

The technical setback leaves standing an older, ambiguous collection of statutory material on public behavior which would have gone by the boards when the new law took effect on April 1st.

Governor Milliken and the leaders in the legislature, upon hearing of the decision, immediately stated every effort should be made to draft new, acceptable legislation to cover this year's campaigns rather than to allow the vacuum to carry over into 1977 or later.

At the same time the legislative chieftains expressed doubt on the ability to draw up four separate acts attacking separately the problems blanketed in the omnibus statute.

Before rushing to the drawing boards, Milliken and the legislative leaders might better wait until hearing further from the court.

Four justices indicated they will issue advisory opinions on the substantive acceptability of the major areas in the omnibus statute.

Better to wait on learning what may be legally in bounds than to dash off something which another court contest might throw out.

A more compelling reason to abstain from going full speed ahead is to correct some of the absurdities written into the reform act by reason of the Watergate syndrome which blanketed the country last year.

The new law, for example, puts a ceiling on money contributions but places no restriction whatever on so called volunteer services in behalf of a party or a candidate. Obviously, anyone supported by a tightly-knit, fully-disciplined special interest group gains an automatic advantage over an opponent who must hire people to peddle literature, staff a headquarters, jingle telephones, haul voters to the polls, and so on.

Another failure in the law is the assumption that public financing of a candidate for governor, through the checkoff on the income tax return, somehow instills loftier motives in the candidates than if they fund their own campaigns or pass the hat for that purpose. The common Cause theory on public funding is that it will blunt the influence of well-heeled individual contributors or special interest groups having fat treasuries.

The U.S. Supreme Court a month ago said restricting what one person or group can do toward footing a candidate's bills is an unconstitutional interference with freedom of expression.

The law's conflict of interest provision is the most sensible among the four target areas, but even this has been carried to extremes. A well qualified person for a seat on a city council, a township board or a school board, who happens to work for the local bank, is barred because the local bank may use his bank as a depository.

Another gimmick in the law which needs remedying relates to an ethics commission created to enforce its provisions. Everything done by the commission has to be performed in secret and it is a punishable offense to report complaints to the commission or what action it takes.

This is peculiar doctrine indeed for Common Cause to deploy a Star Chamber to police conduct which has been castigated because of being carried on in a cloakroom.

Whatever revisions are written, they need less Common Cause and more common sense.

Latest Crime Statistics Nothing To Gloat About

If the United States had not been experiencing serious increases in crime for a number of years, last year's increase of 9 percent nationally in serious crimes would have been bad enough. But coming as it does on top of all the previous crime increases, 1975's further increases represent another failure for a law-abiding society.

Never mind that in 1974 serious crimes increased 18 percent, a rate of increase which was cut in half last year. An increase of 9 percent in the crimes of murder, rape, robbery, assault, burglary, larceny and motor vehicle theft in one year is nothing to gloat over.

Only one of these crimes classed as "serious" by the FBI showed a national decline last year. Murder was down 1 percent. But even in that statistic there is little cause for rejoicing. While the total decreased 1 percent, murder was up 1 percent in the suburbs, up 3 percent in cities of less than 10,000 population and up 5 percent in rural areas.

That is the performance — not how much worse it might have been — upon which 1975 crime is to be judged. Obviously not enough people have involved themselves sufficiently to bring about a true improvement in the crime picture. It can be turned around, in fact as well as statistics. But only if enough people want it to happen.

Precarious Sort Of Medicine!

Student Presents Arguments For Closing St. Joe Schools

Editor,
I have been sitting back long enough reading about the opposition. Now it is time someone presented the other side — IN FAVOR of closing Jefferson and Milton schools.

Taxpayers, I can't believe you are being so prejudiced. Talk about being hypocritical — you have already proven that you don't wish to spend any more money by voting the millage down. Yet, when a way is found to save thousands of dollars, you refuse to accept it!

I attended both Lincoln elementary and Milton Junior high. I walked to both, but I had several friends who rode the bus and seemed to manage fine. The faculty and administration at Lincoln are some of the best in the system, so I feel the Jefferson students would not suffer, but benefit scholastically. Having attended Milton for three years, I hold many fond memories of my time spent there. Yes, it is sad to see it close, but due to declining enrollment, it is inevitable.

Statistics show that the population of school age children is decreasing. St. Joseph high school was built for 1,500 - 1,600 students. It now holds less than 1,200 and contains 12 empty classrooms. The ninth graders could easily be accommodated and the transfer of faculty would maintain the student-faculty ratio of 22-1. Granted, there would be a greater demand for shop, gym and art classes, but this could be resolved. Oh, I forgot, those were some of the "luxuries" you taxpayers suggested cutting as an alternative for saving the money.

Do you realize what you are saying? This is one of the many things that keeps the St. Joseph school system great — our well-rounded curriculum. This is something that took years to achieve. Many students are given opportunities they otherwise would not be able to afford. Students planning a vocational career are given first hand experience in the industrial arts department. Music majors can try composing and conducting music for the choir or band. Is that a luxury? Preparing a student for his lifetime career, in my opinion, is the purpose of school.

Taxpayers, aren't you the same people who so proudly support our sports and fine arts productions? Of course you are! This is one of the things that keeps our fine community strong and prosperous — your continuing support of its activities.

Jefferson parents, I respect your feelings and understand your concern. Why not prove that concern by voting for the next millage increase?

Every Man For Himself

WASHINGTON (NEA) — From time to time through America's history it has been suggested that if the strongest features of conservative and liberal thought could be formally fused, the resulting political alliance would be the answer to the ages.

Ah, well. Now that the poles have been brought together, in a consequence called the Libertarian Party, it rather appears that the hopes for its social influence have been somewhat exaggerated.

Officially formed five years ago in Colorado the L.P. was organized to promote the conservative theory of small government and the liberal insistence on maximum individual freedom.

Underlying, the thesis is wonderful. "Libertarians hold that every person should be treated as an end in himself or herself, never merely a means to the ends of others." And that "every individual is the sole owner of (his) life, free to do with that life whatever (he) wishes." But after holding these truths to be self evident, Libertarians wishes begin decidedly to sound like organized naivete.

They are against taxation, believing that government should instead be financed by voluntary contributions. They are against Social Security, believing that people should have the good sense to provide for their own pensions. They are against municipal police forces, any controls whatsoever on private firearms, the licensing of professionals such as doctors — and so forth. Did I mention public schools? Libertarians would abolish the damn things.

The personification of the rugged Libertarian, perhaps, is 48-year-old Roger MacBride, the party's candidate for president. Harvard-educated, an attorney, also co-producer of a moneymaking television show ("The Little House on the Prairie," which is based on stories written by his grandmother), MacBride is supremely confident that his is the way of the light.

MacBride is particularly confident that Libertarians have the answer to the nation's ever more expensive and burdensome military. Unlike some in the party, MacBride does not personally advocate a privately held American army; instead he would make it an absolutely voluntary agency, with soldiers able to quit at will. The idea here is that the military force should be defensive in nature, and as such can rely on people to respond (fight) for reasons of self and national survival.

Indeed, Libertarians seem to have much more confidence than expertise as regards most social and political dilemmas. Perhaps because the evolution of their philosophy has not yet reached land, and never will until they consider that the freedom of the individual is conditioned on the freedom of the group, not the other way around.

Changing Of The Guard

WASHINGTON (KFS) — The oldest man in the entire Congress is Democratic Rep. Ray Madden of Indiana, who turned 84 last month.

He is the only octogenarian in either the Senate or the House of Representatives, although there are several septuagenarians. He is serving his 33rd year; only six sitting Congressmen and two Senators have served as long or longer.

Madden is chairman of the Rules Committee, one of the most powerful positions in the House. An able legislator with a progressive, pro-labor reputation, Madden has clung successfully to his power despite the reforms that in recent years have enabled younger, more active members to topple or at least weaken other aging chairmen.

But there comes a time when vintage is no longer a political asset, and that time may have come for Ray Madden. His physical health seems to be fine and he does not seem to have consciously reduced his duties. But he frequently becomes confused about familiar names. His powers of concentration appear to have declined. At a Rules Committee hearing last week he delivered a talk which left witnesses in the room to feel he didn't understand the bill before him.

Forty Representatives and eight Senators have announced this year that they will not seek re-election, because of age, frustration with the legislative process or a better job offer. But there is no mandatory retirement age in Congress (although it is frequently discussed), and Madden has stubbornly refused to quit.

He may, however, be forced to leave involuntarily. State Senator Adam Benjamin Jr., 40, is heavily favored to beat him in the Indiana Democratic primary on May 4. And his friends say privately that he has made little effort to campaign.

Madden is relying on the Lake County Democratic organization, and organized labor, to pull him through, as they have 16 times before. But this year labor is not knocking itself out for Madden.

Next in line of succession is James Delaney of New York, a conservative maverick who is anathema to labor. But under last year's reforms, chairmanships no longer pass down automatically to the next in line. Next after Delaney is seniority is Rep. Richard Bolling of Missouri, a popular and well-respected liberal who has been considering seeking the job of majority leader next year. Most observers believe that Bolling could handily defeat Delaney for the chairmanship.

Thus, Madden is in deeper trouble at home than he appears to realize.

It is always sad to watch a distinguished and triumphant career end in abrupt defeat at the polls. But a public figure has a responsibility to sense the proper time to move over and make room for another generation. No matter how healthy he may be, a man in his 80s simply cannot have the energy and mental flexibility required to be a top-notch Congressman. Madden refused to face reality, but the voters may sensibly do it for him.

Political Reform Sent Back For Repairs

By a 5-2 vote on Monday the Michigan supreme court found a comprehensive political reform statute to be constitutionally objectionable.

The majority declared the new law violates a clause in the 1963 state constitution which reads that no statute may embrace more than one subject.

The act, one ramrodded through the legislature last year by Common Cause, targets on four principal subjects: it limits substantially how much can be contributed to a candidate's campaign; lobbyists are put in a goldfish bowl; public officials are placed under severe restraints insofar as conflict of interest is concerned; and a fund is created to finance partially future gubernatorial campaigns with tax dollars.

All this adds up, in the majority's view, as trying to cover too many bases at one time.

The minority opinion felt the law to be on solid constitutional ground because its underlying theme is "money for votes."

The technical setback leaves standing an older, ambiguous collection of statutory material on public behavior which would have gone by the boards when the new law took effect on April 1st.

Governor Milliken and the leaders in the legislature, upon hearing of the decision, immediately stated every effort should be made to draft new, acceptable legislation to cover this year's campaigns rather than to allow the vacuum to carry over into 1977 or later.

At the same time the legislative chieftains expressed doubt on the ability to draw up four separate acts attacking separately the problems blanketed in the omnibus statute.

Before rushing to the drawing boards, Milliken and the legislative leaders might better wait until hearing further from the court.

Latest Crime Statistics Nothing To Gloat About

If the United States had not been experiencing serious increases in crime for a number of years, last year's increase of 9 percent nationally in serious crimes would have been bad enough. But coming as it does on top of all the previous crime increases, 1975's further increases represent another failure for a law-abiding society.

Never mind that in 1974 serious crimes increased 18 percent, a rate of increase which was cut in half last year. An increase of 9 percent in the crimes of murder, rape, robbery, assault, burglary, larceny and motor vehicle theft in one year is nothing to gloat over.

Only one of these crimes classed as "serious" by the FBI showed a national decline last year. Murder was down 1 percent. But even in that statistic there is little cause for rejoicing. While the total decreased 1 percent, murder was up 1 percent in the suburbs, up 3 percent in cities of less than 10,000 population and up 5 percent in rural areas.

That is the performance — not how much worse it might have been — upon which 1975 crime is to be judged. Obviously not enough people have involved themselves sufficiently to bring about a true improvement in the crime picture. It can be turned around, in fact as well as statistics. But only if enough people want it to happen.

What ever revisions are written, they need less Common Cause and more common sense.

Statistics show that the population of school age children is decreasing. St. Joseph high school was built for 1,500 - 1,600 students. It now holds less than 1,200 and contains 12 empty classrooms. The ninth graders could easily be accommodated and the transfer of faculty would maintain the student-faculty ratio of 22-1. Granted, there would be a greater demand for shop, gym and art classes, but this could be resolved. Oh, I forgot, those were some of the "luxuries" you taxpayers suggested cutting as an alternative for saving the money.

Do you realize what you are saying? This is one of the many things that keeps the St. Joseph school system great — our well-rounded curriculum. This is something that took years to achieve. Many students are given opportunities they otherwise would not be able to afford. Students planning a vocational career are given first hand experience in the industrial arts department. Music majors can try composing and conducting music for the choir or band. Is that a luxury? Preparing a student for his lifetime career, in my opinion, is the purpose of school.

Taxpayers, aren't you the same people who so proudly support our sports and fine arts productions? Of course you are! This is one of the things that keeps our fine community strong and prosperous — your continuing support of its activities.

I have been sitting back long enough reading about the opposition. Now it is time someone presented the other side — IN FAVOR of closing Jefferson and Milton schools.

Taxpayers, I can't believe you are being so prejudiced. Talk about being hypocritical — you have already proven that you don't wish to spend any more money by voting the millage down. Yet, when a way is found to save thousands of dollars, you refuse to accept it!

I attended both Lincoln elementary and Milton junior high. I walked to both, but I had several friends who rode the bus and seemed to manage fine. The faculty and administration at Lincoln are some of the best in the system, so I feel the Jefferson students would not suffer, but benefit scholastically. Having attended Milton for three years, I hold many fond memories of my time spent there. Yes, it is sad to see it close, but due to declining enrollment, it is inevitable.

Activities, and other activities are available through local organizations outside of school. I urge the school board to take a critical look at the budget and see what can be cut to provide money to keep out elementary schools open. We parents are willing to do everything we can to cooperate with the school board and to work with them in

WASHINGTON (NEA) — From time to time through America's history it has been suggested that if the strongest features of conservative and liberal thought could be formally fused, the resulting political alliance would be the answer to the ages.

Ah, well. Now that the poles have been brought together, in a consequence called the Libertarian Party, it rather appears that the hopes for its social influence have been somewhat exaggerated.

St. Joseph City Hall Staff Aims To Stay Small

Three Major Department Heads Wear Number Of Different Hats

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor
Who says that big government is good government?
Certainly not St. Joseph city officials, who declare they're doing everything in their power to keep the city's government as small as possible.

"We should minimize city hall in any respect we can," says City Manager G.W. Heppler. "I know that's not the trend everywhere, but it's going to be. People are getting sick of bureaucracy."

According to Heppler, St. Joseph presently has only 17 employees in its general government offices, including the city clerk, city attorney, assessor, purchasing department, housing code enforcement, city hall custodian and Heppler's own office.

The total budget for these offices and the city commission, he says, is $322,000 — less than 14 per cent of the city's general operating expenditures — and this includes a $24,000 tab for the housing commission that is completely reimbursed with federal funds.

Heppler says the pattern for government economy is set by the city commission, which has a budget of only $5,750 for the current fiscal year.

A bulk of this total — $4,200 — is for mandatory publication of commission meeting minutes, Heppler says, and commissioners still receive only $2 per meeting with a maximum of $100 each during any one year — limits established by city charter in 1928.

Many cities in recent years have set up new departments to handle functions like city planning, grant applications and social programs, but Heppler says St. Joseph has resisted this trend.

"We do the same doggone things in a limited way, but we don't set up new offices to handle them," he says. "We aren't going to have a planning director set an office and build up his staff."

"The only planner we've hired was during our urban renewal program, and he had only one girl on his staff. When the project was over, he left, the girl left and the office was gone."

As a result of this policy, Heppler says, most city hall department heads wear several hats.

City Assessor Dick Kiesel, for example, also functions as assistant city manager and coordinator of Community Development and planning commission activities, including the current downtown development plan.

He also is responsible for collecting rent from tenants at the Lakeside Terrace senior citizens' apartment building and for screening potential tenants on a priority basis.

City Clerk Patrick Phelan supervises billing and collection of water and sewer fees and city, county and school taxes as well as issuing various licenses and voter registrations and directing all city elections.

He also functions as director of finance, which involves auditing of city expenditures, preparing all payroll checks and paying all bills and supervising all investments made by the city.

His office even sells plastic rubbish bags — a $12,000 item in the budget — as a service to residents.

Heppler says that preparing and supervising the city budget is the "biggest single item of importance" for his own office, which also authorizes payment of all bills and maintains personnel records for all city employees.

As chief administrative officer for the city, he also conducts all contract negotiations, represents St. Joseph in a variety of governmental functions and serves as initial contact for organizations having requests or proposals for the city.

"We get constant walk-in trade," he says. "This is the place most people come to begin processing their business with the city."

Although city hall officials have been doing several jobs, they have been doing them well, Heppler feels.

"We haven't been in turmoil as a result of lawsuits for doing a job wrong and getting sued for it," he says. "We haven't had any problems with our elections."

"We're small...we don't try to take on the world. We can't do everything for everyone. We just try to do a good job of the things we do."

BH School Board Calls Meeting

The Benton Harbor board of education will hold a special meeting at 6:30 p.m. Monday, at the school administrative office, 711 East Britain avenue, Benton Harbor. School officials said personnel matters will be on the agenda, and the board also will adopt the 1976-77 allocation budget for the Berrien county tax allocation board.

BH Recallers Hand Out 57 Commendations

The Benton Harbor recall committee Tuesday night awarded 57 certificates to citizens and organizations for "contributions to the City of Benton Harbor...in an effort to re-establish responsible legislative leadership."

Nine of the certificates went to city officials, but all officials available for comment this morning said they were not a part of the recall effort, as the certificates might imply. Commissioners Charles Yarbrough and Edmund Ertman, however, added that although they have not been participants in the recall movement, they are in sympathy with the efforts to recall Mayor Charles Joseph and four other commissioners.

Any involvement in the recall effort was totally disavowed by five city employees on the list of recipients — Chief of Police Andrew Rodez, City Clerk Evelyn Greenawitzke, Deputy City Clerk Barbara Talley, Fire Chief Harold Gaddie and Deputy City Manager Melvin Farmer, Jr.

Del. L. Al Edwards was out of town and unavailable for comment and City Commissioner Arnold Dolin said that he stood by a previous statement that he would not play a role in the recall campaign.

Also disavowing any connection with the recall campaign were The Herald-Palladium and radio stations WIFB and WSJM, the only organizations included on the list.

The certificates were presented "in recognition of contributions to the City of Benton Harbor and its residents in an effort to re-establish responsible legislative leadership without regard to personal interest and demonstrating genuine concern for others through self-sacrifice and dedication to the upgrading of the quality of life in our community."

They were signed by three leaders of the recall campaign — Maurice Bishop, chairman; Carl L. Brown, vice chairman; and Murgan L. Hager, coordinator. The three recall leaders were also named for awards.

The committee already has filed petitions seeking an election to recall Mayor Joseph and Commissioners Charles Shepherd, Alfred Williams, Barbara Huckaby and Winston Minott.

W.J. Banyon, president of The Palladium Publishing Co., owner of WIFB and The Herald-Palladium, said:

SJ Township Municipal Building Plan Has $708,000 Price Tag

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

A St. Joseph township building committee is considering a two-phase construction program, expected to cost $708,000 and include a $429,800 municipal office building and a $279,000 fire station-public works building.

Construction would be on a 10-acre tract, owned by the township near the northwest corner of the intersection of Washington avenue and Nelson road.

The plans may spark controversy at the annual township meeting, scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday, at Fairplain West elementary school, 1901 Fairplain avenue. Cost estimates were confirmed by Frank Yureus, a member of the building committee who is critical of the costs. Yureus also is chairman of the township park board.

Supervisor Orval L. Benson told this newspaper he is not aware of the reported estimates. Benson also said only the matter of a municipal office building will be brought up at the annual meeting. He asserted plans are too incomplete on the fire station-public works building. The township would have to sell its fire station number 1 at Washington and Jilton, slightly more than a mile from the Washington-Nelson road site, the supervisor indicated.

Benson said, "We're just playing around with cost figures, but we hope to have reasonably accurate figures by Saturday (for the annual meeting)."

Yureus said the cost estimates were presented to the building committee earlier this month by the architectural firm of Wayne C. Hatfield & Associates, Benton Harbor. Yureus said Benson was present.

Yureus said, "What started out as a $200,000 building is now rising toward a million..." Yureus said operating money has been put into a building fund and added, "It's immoral to take operating money for a building fund and then ask the people to approve higher operating taxes."

Township residents at the May 18 presidential primary election will be asked to approve up to one and a quarter mills for police protection for four years; one-half mill for park improvements for four years; and one-half mill to support Debt-A-Ride for one year. The township currently levies 4.5 mills, including 1-mill for police, through 1977, 1-mill, each, for the general fund and interceptor sewer service, and 1.5 mills for rubbish pickup.

Some 200 residents at a special township meeting last November agreed that they didn't want a new township hall in Fairplain. Township officials at that time planned a $301,000 hall at Napier and Fairplain avenues.

Benson said the township about five or six years ago began budgeting money in varying amounts each year from the general fund into a building fund for a new government complex. Benson said the fund now has about $140,000. He said the diversion from the general fund is permitted under law, and no election was needed. Benson said Lincoln township did the same thing, with a township hall in mind.

Yureus asked how St. Joseph township could build an 11,000 square-foot-plus hall for an estimated $429,800, when actual construction bids this month in Lincoln township ranged from $411,000 for the lowest acceptable bid to $450,000 — for a township hall of only 6,800 square feet.

The Hatfield architectural firm estimated the cost of a Lincoln township hall at $312,480. The firm's estimates for the $429,800 St. Joseph township hall include $382,000 for construction, $37,000 for paving, and walks, and $10,000 for landscaping.

The $293,000 estimate for the fire station-public works building include $253,000 for construction, $21,000 for paving and walks, and $5,000 for landscaping.

The $708,000 grand total was reported to include contingencies of 5 per cent, decorating (drapes and carpet) furniture and equipment, architect fee, legal fee, insurance, interest site and off site utilities.

During the March 17 building committee meeting, it reportedly was agreed that the township hall should be built according to present plans, with the alternative of a "bare bones" building, such as block walls in the interior, no carpeting and unfinished basement. Also, the parking lot could be reduced and Nelson road entrance eliminated.

Reported present, besides Benson and Yureus were: Township Clerk Bill Payne Smith, Trustees Robert DeVries, Carl L.G. Reschke, and Carroll Gerbol; Planning Commission Chairman Ernest Knapp; Mrs. Beverly Hicks, Joe Yantis, Homer Pavlides, and Architect Wayne Hatfield.

Yureus suggested that money should not be put aside for a township hall, but instead used for parks, and police. He suggested a smaller township hall, use of the present township hall as a police station. Present plans call for selling the township hall at 145 West Napier avenue, Fairplain.

PROPOSED BUILDING SITE: St. Joseph township officials expect someday to build municipal office-fire station-public works complex on this 10-acre site, owned by township off Washington avenue, north of Nelson road. Total cost of complex is reported to be an estimated $708,000, including $429,800 for office building and $279,000 for fire station-public works building. View is looking west from Washington (below). Row of houses (far left) front Nelson road, with back yards abutting township property. (Staff photo)

No 'Right-Red' At 2 SJ Turns

Two intersections in St. Joseph are exempted from Michigan's new "right-turn-on-red" law that is effective today, St. Joseph police reported.

Because of heavy traffic flow, right turns on red lights are prohibited at the intersections of Main street and Niles avenue and the Upton drive entrance ramp onto the Blossomland bridge. Police said signs were to be posted at these intersections.

Under the new law motorists may make right turns after coming to a complete stop for red lights where turns are not prohibited. In Benton Harbor four intersections are exempt from the new law: Britain avenue at Pipestone street, Broadway and Empire avenue, Empire and Colfax avenues, and Wall and Market streets.

Kelley Wants Court Ban Lifted On Car Repair Law

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said today he has asked the state Court of Appeals to lift an Ingham County Circuit Court order which stopped enforcement of the state's new auto repair law.

Kelley asked the court to overturn an injunction blocking enforcement of the law. Judge James Kallman issued the injunction last week, ruling in a court suit filed by independent repair shop owners.

Kelley argued the lower court's action was improper because Kallman issued his order without finding the law unconstitutional.

"A law must be found either unconstitutional or improperly enforced before an injunction should be issued stopping its enforcement," Kelley said.

"A court should not enjoin a statute simply because some people don't like it," Kelley said. "To do so would result in government decisions by those who can shout the loudest."

Kelley noted the law underwent lengthy legislative revision last year after being passed the year before. The legislature removed some of the provisions objected to by shop-owners.

"The people have already waited too long for this protection," Kelley said. "It would be too bad that a ring of low trucks around the courthouse could lead to any further delay."

Kelley was referring to a rally at the circuit court which accompanied the hearing in Kallman's courtroom. The gathering followed a mass protest at the state Capitol against the law.

The new law provides for the registration of repair shops and the licensing of all auto mechanics by 1981. It includes various consumer protection measures, such as written estimates and examination of replaced parts.

The garage owners argued that the law discriminated against them economically, and said many smaller shops would be forced out of business. Kallman issued his injunction pending a hearing on the merits of the case, saying there was evidence the shops would incur irreparable damage if the enforcement of the measure was to take effect.

The law was to have taken effect March 1.

St. Joseph City Hall Staff Aims To Stay Small

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor
Who says that big government is good government?
Certainly not St. Joseph city

officials, who declare they're doing everything in their power to keep the city's government as small as possible.
"We should minimize city hall in any respect we can," says City Manager G.W. Hepler. "I know that's not the trend everywhere, but it's going to be. People are getting sick of bureaucracy."

According to Hepler, St. Joseph presently has only 17 employees in its general government offices, including the city clerk, city attorney, assessor, purchasing department, housing code enforcement, city hall custodian and Hepler's own office.

The total budget for these offices and the city commission, he says, is $322,000 — less than 14 per cent of the city's general operating expenditures — and this includes a $24,000 tab for the housing commission that is completely reimbursed with federal funds.

Hepler says the pattern for government economy is set by the city commission, which has a budget of only $5,750 for the current fiscal year.

A bulk of this total — $4,200 — is for mandatory publication of commission meeting minutes, Hepler says, and commissioners still receive only $2 per meeting with a maximum of $100 each during any one year — limits established by city charter in 1928.

Many cities in recent years have set up new departments to handle functions like city planning, grant applications and social programs, but Hepler says St. Joseph has resisted this trend.

"We do the same doggone things in a limited way, but we don't set up new offices to handle them," he says. We aren't going to have a planning director set an office and build up his staff.

"The only planner we've hired was during our urban renewal program, and he had only one girl on his staff. When the project was over, he left, the girl left and the office was gone."

As a result of this policy, Hepler says, most city hall department heads wear several hats.

City Assessor Dick Kiesel, for example, also functions as assistant city manager and coordinator of Community Development and planning commission activities, including the current downtown development plan.

He also is responsible for collecting rent from tenants at the Lakeview Terrace senior citizens' apartment building and for screening potential tenants on a priority basis.

City Clerk Patrick Phelan supervises billing and collection of water and sewer fees and city, county and school taxes as well as issuing various licenses and voter registrations and directing all city elections.

He also functions as director of finance, which involves auditing of city expenditures, preparing all payroll checks and paying all bills and supervising all investments made by the city.

His office even sells plastic rubbish bags — a $12,000 item in the budget — as a service to residents.

Hepler says that preparing and supervising the city budget is the "biggest single item of importance" for his own office, which also authorizes payment of all bills and maintains personnel records for all city employees.

As chief administrative officer for the city, he also conducts all contract negotiations, represents St. Joseph in a variety of governmental functions and serves as initial contact for organizations having requests or proposals for the city.

"We get constant walk-in trade," he says. "This is the place most people come to begin processing their business with the city."

Although city hall officials have been doing several jobs, they have been doing them well, Hepler feels.

"We're small...we don't try to take on the world. We can't do everything for everyone. We just try to do a good job of the things we do."

Fifty-eight homemakers in Berrien county received certificates of recognition March 27 for completion of nutrition instructions at the Second Annual Berrien County Expanded Nutrition program recognition night held at Second Baptist church, Benton Harbor.

The Expanded Nutrition program is funded by United States Department of Agriculture in cooperation with Michigan State university and Berrien county to improve the eating habits of families enrolled through nutrition education.

Nutrition aides teach homemakers in group sessions and on a one-to-one basis about well balanced diets and how to prepare them. The aides also instruct homemakers on how to plan, purchase, and store food for their families.

Three community agencies and organizations were also awarded citations for the cooperation spirit and support given to the Expanded Nutrition program. They are Benton Township Blossomacres Housing Commission, First Presbyterian church of Niles, and Fairplain Presbyterian church.

The Expanded Nutrition program is administered through the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State university. The program has been in operation in Berrien county since March of 1969 and has assisted over 800 families in improving their nutritional habits.

Those receiving certificates of recognition for completion of the program were Willie Mae Allen, Lois Andrews, Eve Barnes, Johnnie Bell, Eva Birch, Shirley B. Bracken, Hermina Bradley, Erma Brown, Charlene Burnett, Geneva Campbell, Mussilene Cheers, Annie Cloy, Theresa Dallger, Sandra Davis, Willie B. Plant Liberty Tree

Brown School Students

First graders in Eleanor Stange's class at Brown elementary school, St. Joseph, as part of a Bicentennial program, planted two "Liberty Trees" March 28 on the school playground.

The program, "Plant a Tree in '76," it's a Bicentennial Event," is sponsored by the Berrien County Bicentennial Commission and the Berrien County Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State university.

The trees, Shade Master Locusts, will be permanently recorded with the Berrien County Bicentennial Commission.

After taking a tour of Nye's Blossomland Nursery, Stevensville, the students selected the trees. With their teacher, they also chose the locations for planting.

Money for the trees was raised by the students, with the help of their mothers, through popcorn sales.

FRANKLIN STOVE

Highlight Heritage

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

Two American composers whose songs have become part of the American heritage were highlighted this week for Monday Musicals club.

Featured were the works of Stephen Foster who composed folk-like songs for a young country during the 19th century and those of Irving Berlin who has provided popular music for Americans since his first success — Alexander's Ragtime Band — in 1911.

The talent and charm of two Monday Musicals members were featured in solos in the program held at the First Congregational United Church of Christ in St. Joseph.

Dolores Gunn sang Stephen Foster's reverent Give Us This Day Our Daily Bread, his lively Oh, Susanna; his serious Oh, May the Red Rose Live Always, an exuberant Cumpston Races, the sentimental Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair, and the philosophical Hard Times Come Again No More.

Sue Warren chose a variety of Berlin times: the lively There's No Business Like Show Business, the sentimental Always, the humorous Doin' What Comes Naturally and the stirring God Bless America.

Monday Musical chorus, garbed in new gowns, under direction of Jean Bartz, combined talent and scores arranged to bring full justice to the words and music of both composers.

The chorus sang Foster's Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming, Some Folks Do, and Beautiful Dreamer. Their Berlin selections were Remember, Give Your Tired, Your Poor, I've Got the Sun in the Morning, and Easter Parade. The entire program was charmingly tied together with the narration of Betty Binyame and the accompaniment of Esther Shoemaker.

Mrs. John Stafford was program chairman.

Art display for the day were Berrien County Bicentennial muffs.

Certificates Awarded

NUTRITION PROGRAM: Graduates of the Berrien County Nutrition program received certificates at the second annual recognition night March 27. Program, funded by United States Department of Agriculture in cooperation with Michigan State university and Berrien county, is designed to improve eating habits

Fifty-eight homemakers in Berrien county received certificates of recognition March 27 for completion of nutrition instructions at the Second Annual Berrien County Expanded Nutrition program recognition night held at Second Baptist church, Benton Harbor.

The Expanded Nutrition program is funded by United States Department of Agriculture in cooperation with Michigan State university and Berrien county to improve the eating habits of families enrolled through nutrition education.

Nutrition aides teach homemakers in group sessions and on a one-to-one basis about well balanced diets and how to prepare them. The aides also instruct homemakers on how to plan, purchase, and store food for their families.

Three community agencies and organizations were also awarded citations for the cooperation spirit and support given to the Expanded Nutrition program. They are Benton Township Blossomacres Housing Commission, First Presbyterian church of Niles, and Fairplain Presbyterian church.

The Expanded Nutrition program is administered through the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State university. The program has been in operation in Berrien county since March of 1969 and has assisted over 800 families in improving their nutritional habits.

Plant Liberty Tree

Brown School Students

First graders in Eleanor Stanage's class at Brown elementary school, St. Joseph, as part of a Bicentennial program, planted two "Liberty Trees" March 26 on the school playground.

The program, "Plant a Tree in '76, It's a Bicentennial Event," is sponsored by the Berrien County Bicentennial Commission and the Berrien County Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State university.

The trees, Shade Master Locusts, will be permanently recorded with the Berrien County Bicentennial Commission.

After taking a tour of Nye's Blossomland Nursery, Stevensville, the students selected the trees. With their teacher, they also chose the locations for planting.

Money for the trees was raised by the students, with the help of their mothers, through popcorn sales.

FRANKLIN STOVE

The stove invented in 1742 by Benjamin Franklin was called the "Pennsylvania Fireplace."

BICENTENNIAL: Among first grade students at Brown school in St. Joseph who helped plant a Liberty tree at the school, were, kneeling, Lisa Frietas and Peter Osmani, and standing, Lesley Atkins and Jonathon Wuepper. (Staff photo)

Highlight Heritage

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

Two American composers whose songs have become part of the American heritage were highlighted this week for Monday Musical club.

Featured were the works of Stephen Foster who composed folk-like songs for a young country during the 19th century and those of Irving Berlin who has provided popular music for Americans since his first success — Alexander's Ragtime Band — in 1911.

The talent and charm of two Monday Music members were featured in solos in the program held at the First Congregational United Church of Christ in St. Joseph.

Dolores Gunn sang Stephen Foster's reverent Give Us This Day Our Daily Bread, his lively Oh, Susanna; his serious Oh, May the Red Rose Live Always, an exuberant Campdown Races, the sentimental Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair, and the philosophical Hard Times Come Again No More.

Sue Warren chose a variety of Berlin tunes: the lively There's No Business Like Show Business, the sentimental Always, the humorous Don't What Comes Naturally and the stirring God Bless America.

Monday Musical chorus, garbed in new gowns, under direction of Jean Bartz combined talent and scores arranged to bring full justice to the words and music of both composers.

The chorus sang Foster's Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming, Some Folks Do, and Beautiful Dreamer. Their Berlin selections were Remember, Give Your Tired, Your Poor, I've Got the Sun in the Morning, and Easter Parade.

The entire program was charmingly tied together with the narration of Betty Burgoyne and the accompaniment of Esther Shoemaker.

Mrs. John Stafford was program chairman.

Art display for the day were Berrien County Bicentennial motifs.

Cooking Puts Damper On 'Spring Fever'

WATT WATCHERS MEATLOAF

The thing with spring is — there are so many things you'd like to be doing, besides cooking.

As the crocuses start to burst forth, you suddenly get a burst of enthusiasm for tasks like cleaning the yard, straightening out the garage, putting winter clothes away.

But there are still meals to be gotten and that can put the damper on "Spring Fever."

Here's a couple new recipes that help save your energy for the things you'd rather be doing.

WATT WATCHERS MEATLOAF

One egg
One-half cup tomato juice
One and one-half pounds ground beef
One and one-half cups soft bread crumbs
One envelope (one and one-half ounces) sloppy joe seasoning mix
One-half cup chopped green pepper
One-half cup shredded Swiss or Cheddar cheese

Beat together egg and tomato juice. Add beef, bread crumbs, contents of seasoning mix envelope and green pepper; mix well. Pack lightly into loaf pan or shape loaf in shallow baking pan. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 400 degrees for one hour. Makes four to six servings.

SPRINGTIME POTATO BAKE

One package (five and five-eighths ounces) scalloped potatoes
One package (ten ounces) frozen chopped broccoli, thawed
One teaspoon grated lemon rind

Prepare potatoes as directed on package, except increase water to two and two-thirds cups and use two-quart casserole. Stir in broccoli and lemon rind. Bake at 400 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes, until potatoes are tender. Makes five to six servings.

Spring comes to various parts of the country at different times. One of the first areas to "welcome sweet springtime" is the Mississippi Delta — New Orleans country, home of Creole cuisine.

SHRIMP CREOLE

Four tablespoons butter
Four tablespoons flour
One cup chopped green onions
One-half cup sliced celery
One-half cup chopped green pepper

Two tablespoons chopped parsley

One garlic clove, crushed
One (eight ounce) can Spanish style tomato sauce
One (one pound) can whole tomatoes

One and one-half cups hot water
One and one-half teaspoons salt

One-eighth teaspoon cayenne pepper
One-fourth teaspoon Tabasco sauce

One-fourth teaspoon leaf thyme
One bay leaf

One-half teaspoon sugar
One and one-half pounds frozen shelled raw shrimp

Melt butter in a large skillet. Make a roux by stirring in flour and cooking over low heat until it is golden brown. Add onions, celery, green pepper, parsley and garlic; cook, stirring constantly, about five minutes. Stir in remaining ingredients except shrimp.

Cover and simmer 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Bring to a full boil and add frozen shrimp. Stir and bring to a second full boil and remove from heat. Serve with rice.

FRESH FRUIT BOWL

Two bananas, sliced
One-fourth cup orange juice
Two and one-half cups orange sections

One pint strawberries, halved
Two cups fresh or canned pineapple wedges

Sugar
Three-fourths cup Kirsch (optional)

Chop banana slices with orange juice to prevent darkening. Place fruit in layers in serving bowl saving the perfect pieces for the top. Sprinkle sugar over berries and fresh pineapple. Arrange fruit in pretty pattern for top of bowl. Pour Kirsch over all. If desired, garnish with sprigs of mint. Makes six to eight servings.

PECAN PRALINES

One pound brown sugar
One-fourth cup water
Two tablespoons butter
Three-fourth cup pecan pieces
One-fourth cup pecan halves
One-half teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar and water in heavy saucepan. Bring to a boil and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, to soft ball stage or 238 degrees on candy thermometer. Remove from heat; stir in butter, then pecans and vanilla. Beat until mixture begins to sugar, about 30 seconds. Immediately drop by spoon onto waxed paper lined cookie sheets or buttered marble slab. Remove when firm.

To get more enjoyment out of your winter tomatoes, buy them several days before you plan to use them. Let them live in your warm kitchen until they ripen nicely. Then store them in the refrigerator until needed. But, let them come to room temperature once more before serving them. An hour at room temperature is about right.

Egg and Bacon Stuffed Tomatoes are colorful, delicious and nutritious.

EGG AND BACON STUFFED TOMATOES

Salt
Ground white pepper
Six hard-cooked eggs, chopped

One-third cup mayonnaise
Three-fourths cup diced celery

Two tablespoons chopped parsley
Six slices bacon, cooked and crumbled

Hold tomatoes at room temperature until fully ripe. With a sharp pointed paring knife, make zig-zag cuts about one-third way down from top of tomato all around circumference of tomato; remove top and reserve. Carefully scoop out pulp (save pulp and tops for Savory Stewed Tomatoes recipe which follows or use in soups, stews, etc.).

Sprinkle tomato shells lightly with salt and pepper; set aside. Combine eggs, mayonnaise, celery, parsley, one teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon white pepper; gently stir in bacon. Use to fill reserved tomato shells, piling egg mixture high. Serve on a lettuce-lined platter, if desired. Makes six portions.

Certain wines, such as true Beaujolais and some Loire Valley wines, are best drunk young before their freshness is lost. Ageing improves great red wines and some white wines. Red wines are aged in bottle, wooden barrels and in bottles. In contact with a well-chosen wood, usually oak, the wine acquires a very pleasant taste and aroma from the resins in the wood. Oxygen seeps through the wood and causes oxidation. Gradually the colour, bouquet and taste are modified, and lose the characteristics, especially the acidity of a young wine. Except for high-quality red wines, the wine is bottled within six months of fermentation.

Our personnel at RITTER'S LIQUOR LOCKER, 3872 Red Arrow Hwy., 423-2221 are very knowledgeable about all kinds of wine and we invite you to stop by and ask us any questions you may have. You will be delighted with our fantastic inventory which also includes whiskies, brandies and cordials. Hours: Mon.-Sat. 10 am-11 pm, Sun. noon-8 pm

WINE WISDOM:

Keep your wine bottles laying horizontally so that the cork in the bottle will stay moist.

No Fooling--Sauerkraut Cake

All Fool's Day

All Fool's Day is the first day of April when practical jokes are played by sending a friend on a fool's errand or duping them into doing or believing something absurd.

Although the practice of this day's origin is somewhat obscure many folklorists believe that the custom of playing someone for a fool began in France in 1564 with the adoption of the reformed calendar. Persons who resisted changing New Year's Day to Jan. 1 were victimized by pranksters.

Widespread observance of the day began in England in the 18th century, yet in Mexico All Fool's Day is celebrated on Dec. 28.

Join in the fun of celebrating All Fool's Day by being one step ahead of your family and bake them an unusual yet deliciously tasty chocolate sauerkraut cake. The taste of the chocolate cake is not changed only the texture which is almost like coconut.

CHOCOLATE SAUERKRAUT CAKE

One six-ounce pkg. (one cup) semi-sweet chocolate chips
Two cups unsifted flour
One teaspoon baking powder
One teaspoon baking soda
One-fourth teaspoon salt
One cup rinsed and drained sauerkraut
One-half cup butter, softened
One and one-fourth cups sugar

One teaspoon vanilla extract

Two eggs

Three-fourths cup water

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Melt over hot (not boiling) water, semi-sweet chocolate chips. Remove from heat; set aside. In small bowl, combine flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; set aside. Chop sauerkraut very fine; set aside.

In large bowl, combine butter, sugar and vanilla extract; beat until creamy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour mixture alternately with water. Blend in sauerkraut. Pour batter evenly into two greased and floured eight or nine-inch cake pans.

Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Remove from oven; cool 10 minutes. Remove from pans; cool completely. Fill and frost with Velvet Frosting.

VELVET FROSTING

One six-ounce pkg. (one cup) semi-sweet chocolate chips
One-half cup sour cream
One measuring teaspoon vanilla extract
One-fourth measuring teaspoon salt

Two and one-half cups sifted confectioners' sugar

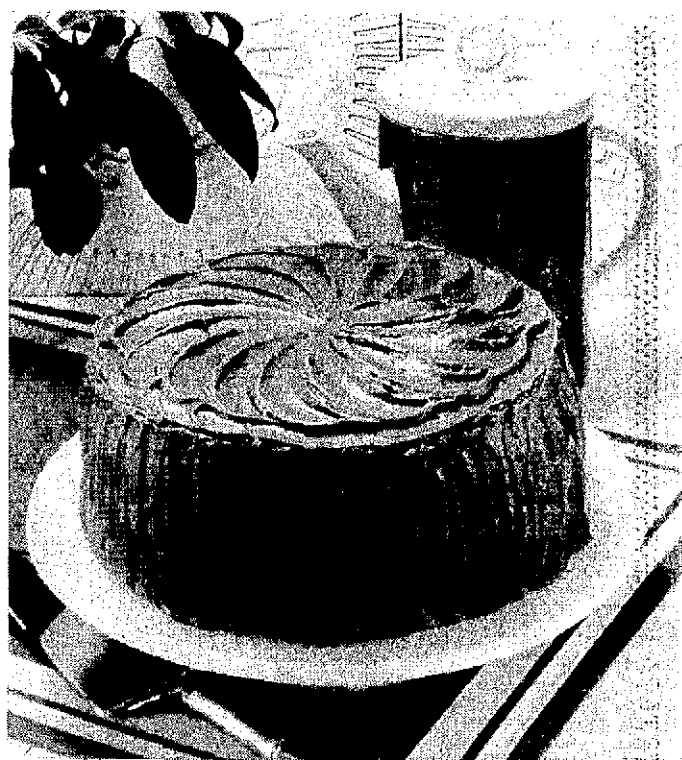

Melt over hot (not boiling) water, semi-sweet chocolate chips; remove from heat. Blend in sour cream, vanilla, extract and salt. Gradually beat in confectioners' sugar.

In keeping with the spirit of the day, why not serve an imaginative meal filled with two hidden surprises.

One is that the meatloaf mixture is made with a perfectly blended onion-mushroom mix. The other April Fool's trick is that the meatloaf has a surprise hidden filling in the center — a combination of hashbrown potatoes, green peppers and Cheddar cheese.

SURPRISE MEATLOAF

One-fourth cup cooking oil
Two and one-half cups frozen hash-brown potatoes, partially thawed (about twelve ounces)

CHOCOLATE SAUERKRAUT CAKE

One-half cup finely chopped green pepper

Three-fourths cup shredded Cheddar cheese

One envelope onion-mushroom mix

One-half cup water

One and one-half pounds ground beef

Three-fourths cup soft bread crumbs

One egg

Onion-Mushroom Cheese Gravy

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In medium skillet, heat oil; add potatoes and green pepper and cook covered seven minutes. Cool slightly; stir in cheese.

In medium bowl, combine onion-mushroom mix and water; add ground beef, bread crumbs, egg and catsup, mixing thoroughly.

In shallow baking pan, shape one-third meat mixture into rectangle (about eight by four-inches); top with potato mixture. Cover with remaining beef mixture, shaping into loaf, and sealing edges tightly; bake one hour or until done. Serve, if desired, with Onion-Mushroom Gravy. Makes about six servings.

Onion-Mushroom Cheese Gravy: In medium saucepan, combine one envelope onion-mushroom mix with two tablespoons flour. Stir in one and three-fourths cups water; blend until smooth. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and stir in one cup shredded Cheddar cheese. Simmer, stirring frequently, until gravy thickens, about five minutes. Makes about two cups gravy.

In shallow baking pan, shape one-third meat mixture into rectangle (about eight by four-inches); top with potato mixture. Cover with remaining beef mixture, shaping into loaf, and sealing edges tightly; bake one hour or until done. Serve, if desired, with Onion-Mushroom Gravy. Makes about six servings.

Onion-Mushroom Cheese Gravy: In medium saucepan, combine one envelope onion-mushroom mix with two tablespoons flour. Stir in one and three-fourths cups water; blend until smooth. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and stir in one cup shredded Cheddar cheese. Simmer, stirring frequently, until gravy thickens, about five minutes. Makes about two cups gravy.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Wife Tells Her Feelings

Dear Ann Landers: I'm the wife who sat in the front row of the church when they buried the man I was married to for 38 years. His mistress of 11 years described how she felt — "sitting in the back like a stranger," although she said, "I know I was first in his heart."

My husband was not enough to be her father. He had grandchildren. At no time during his terrible illness did he call her name. He kept telling me how ashamed and sorry he was that he had treated me so shabbily. But it was too late. All this love and respect I had for him had been killed many years before.

He was a miserly father and a cruel and selfish husband. I couldn't begin to count the women in his life. The mistress who wrote was the one he kept, but while he was seeing her he had two others.

I'm sorry I didn't write to you 20 years ago. You might have changed my life. Bless you, Ann, for the good you do.

Longtime Friend

Dear Friend: Thank you for sharing your life's story. I hope you will find peace and happiness in your remaining years.

Stumped

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem with my mother I can't handle. She lives in another state and comes to visit quite often. I love her very much, but some of her peculiarities got on my nerves. For example:

After spending three or four days with us, she'll say, "I'd better go home. I don't want to be in the way." (Our children sleep on cots when Grandma is here but they don't mind doing it and have told her so.)

At breakfast, if I ask her if she wants eggs, she'll say, "I can get along without them."

When I ask if she'd like some jelly on her toast, she says, "I can eat it this way." She never asks for cream for her coffee until I notice she isn't using any. When I offer it, she says, "I can do without it."

On her last trip, I could see she was having trouble with her back. When I asked if she wanted me to make an appointment with the doctor, she said, "It would take too much gas."

What can I do with this woman? I really am stumped for a solution. — A Loving Daughter

Dear Daughter: The answer is — nothing. You aren't going to change your mother. So — fix her some eggs, give her jelly for her toast, cream for her coffee, and make a doctor's appointment if you think she is ill.

No Change

Dear Ann Landers: You owe an awful lot of people an apology. In a recent column you referred to Herpes Simplex II as a venereal disease. It is actually a virus that invades the blood stream and can be transmitted in many ways other than by sexual intercourse. Kissing, for example,

ANN LANDERS

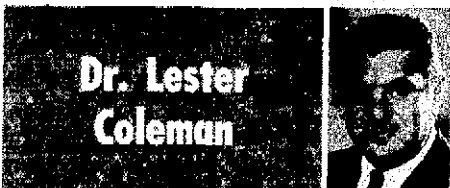

I have not had any sex life for over four years and I caught Herpes Simplex II just a few months ago after I drank out of a tainted cup. It looks exactly like a cold sore on my upper lip because that is what it is. Nothing more.

Thank you for setting the record straight. — Tampa

Dear Ann: What I said was, "Herpes Simplex II is rapidly becoming a venereal disease" — and that's what I meant. Because of an increase in sexual promiscuity as well as oral sex, this once "old-fashioned" cold sore has begun to appear on genitals, and THAT doesn't come from drinking out of a tainted cup, my friend.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Now that we are in the middle of a flu epidemic, would you discuss your feelings about the value of the flu vaccine?

Mr. K.R., Pa.

Dear Mr. K.: Your question is a very sound one. All physicians have been asking themselves this question. The influenza vaccine that was suggested to the elderly, the infirm and those with chronic debilitating diseases had limited validity. It is difficult at the present time for public health officials to track down the particular virus responsible for the present epidemic. It may turn out to be a totally different virus from the one that was included in the injections given in November and December of 1975.

The question always arises as to how much sicker would victims have been today had they not been given the inoculation against the flu.

Even in retrospect, public health officials believe that their recommendation was correct.

When is X-ray treatment against a tumor used instead of surgery?

Mrs. G.L., La.

Dear Mrs. L.: Malignant, or cancerous, tumors can be treated by surgery, by cobalt-X-ray treatment, by chemicals and by any combination of these. The decision depends entirely on the nature of the tumor, its location and its extent.

There are some tumors that are highly radio-sensitive and disappear when they are bombarded with cobalt radiation.

Others must be removed surgically. When there is any extension of the tumor, the surrounding area may, as a preventative measure, be treated with X-ray.

The decision to choose one of more methods of treatment is a highly critical one and depends on many factors. Patients, therefore, are not in a position to make such a choice. It can only be done by those highly experienced in the treatment of such conditions.

After giving birth to a child, I developed a milk cyst. I wonder if this could ever become cancerous. I wonder, too, if the doctor is telling me the truth when he says that it is nothing to worry about.

Mrs. H.L.M., Mich.

Dear Mrs. M.: A "milk cyst" is known as a galactocele. It occurs occasionally in women who have just given birth to a child.

The tiny duct, or tube, that carries milk to the nipple may become blocked, enlarged and painful. Most of them are readily controlled by local treatment and rarely do they need surgery.

You can be certain that your doctor is not deliberately trying to spare you any knowledge of your condition. Living under that assumption would only exaggerate your fears. Most emphatically, let me assure you that a milk cyst never undergoes malignant degeneration.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has a special eye-care booklet available called, "What You Should Know About Glaucoma and Cataracts." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Eye booklet), P.O. Box 3178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Ask the Jacobys

Several readers have asked us about the five-club response to a Blackwood four notrump.

In the original convention five clubs showed no aces and five notrump showed all four. Within a few years the convention was changed to use the five-club response to show no aces or four aces. It is assumed that the Blackwood bidder can tell which number is being shown.

Super Children Make The Team

As a grandmother, I intend to be an absolute bore about my grandchildren. I intend to travel with a projector, a screen and 200 lifelike slides showing them chewing on clothespins and standing on their heads. I will produce from my handbag (with or without request) recent urine samples, a tape of them gargling milk at the dinner table and clever sayings that will put Art Linkletter out of business.

As a mother, however, I refuse to inflict my children on anyone. (God knew what he was doing when he gave them to a dictator.)

Consequently, I often find myself at the mercy of women with Super Children. Super Children are unmitigated joy. They can always be counted on to do and say the right thing. They always make the team, have fewer cavities, skip acne, know what they want to be in the third grade, have their paper displayed at Open House, and always remember to bring home the Mother's Day card from art class.

I have made a study of Super Children and have come to the conclusion that the only difference between Super Children and Normal kids is in the interpretation. For example:

Normal Kids	Super Children
Forgetful	Preoccupied
Fat	Healthy
Sloppy boasts	Academically geared
Weirdo who won't get a haircut	Nongovernment
Lazy bum	Deep thinker
Flunked out	Victim of a poor teacher
TV addict	TV critic
Cut from the team	Saved from a prejudiced coach
Forgot me on Mother's Day	Saving his money for my operation
Oversleeps in the morning	A recessive gene

I recently decided to test my theory on two mothers of Super Children with kids away at college. I ambled over to one and said, "Does Martha write home much from school?"

"No," she answered, "Martha is so well adjusted and secure that she can cope with independence. What about your daughter?"

"She doesn't write either."

"Too bad," she sighed, "I guess that tells you where you rate."

I went on to the other woman and asked, "Does Phyllis write home often?"

"Oh, yes," she said, "Three times a week. Phyllis is a very loving girl. She has always been close to me. What about your daughter?"

"She writes three times a week, too," I said.

"What a pity," she said, "I'd worry to have a child so dependent."

I got the feeling I lose the minute I open my mouth.

Cass Extension Offers Home Repair Classes

Cass County Extension Family Living Aides will offer a program in five communities to teach homeowners how to do simple home repairs.

The class will offer instruction in simple repair and maintenance jobs such as replacing plugs and wall switches, leaky faucets, interior and exterior house painting, wood finishes, carpet care, weather stripping, appliance care, wall repairs and building kitchen storage.

The classes will be offered at: Southwestern Michigan College's Continuing Education Center, Dowagiac, Monday, April 5, at 1:30 p.m.; Village Hall, Vandalia, Tuesday, April 6, at 1 p.m.; Old Howard township hall, Niles, Wednesday, April 7, at 1 p.m.

Also United Methodist church, Cassopolis, Thursday, April 8, at 1 p.m., and Hudson Memorial Building, Marcellus, Friday, April 9, at 1 p.m.

To combat inflation, more and more Michigan families are becoming "do-it-yourselfers," according to Lois F. Marsh, Cass County Extension Home Economist. "Because a house generally represents the largest single expenditure a family makes, it's important the investment be protected by regular maintenance."

Spring Concert
NEW BUFFALO — New Buffalo high school will present a spring concert Thursday, April 1, at 8 p.m.

The band will perform under the direction of Thomas Holets in the high school gymnasium.

"No," she answered, "Martha is so well adjusted and secure that she can cope with independence. What about your daughter?"

"She doesn't write either."

"Too bad," she sighed, "I guess that tells you where you rate."

I went on to the other woman and asked, "Does Phyllis write home often?"

"Oh, yes," she said, "Three times a week. Phyllis is a very loving girl. She has always been close to me. What about your daughter?"

"She writes three times a week, too," I said.

"What a pity," she said. "I'd have said a child so dependent."

I get the feeling I lose the minute I open my mouth.

Cass Extension Offers Home Repair Classes

Cass County Extension Family Living Aides will offer a program in five communities to teach homeowners how to do simple home repairs.

The class will offer instruction in simple repair and maintenance jobs such as replacing plugs and wall switches, leaky faucets, interior and exterior house painting, wood finishes, carpet care, weather stripping, appliance care, wall repairs and building kitchen storage.

The classes will be offered at: Southwestern Michigan college's Continuing Education Center, Dowagiac, Monday, April 5, at 1:30 p.m.; Village Hall, Vandalia, Tuesday, April 6, at 1 p.m.; Old Howard township hall, Niles, Wednesday, April 7, at 1 p.m.

Also United Methodist church, Cassopolis, Thursday, April 8, at 1 p.m., and Hudson Memorial Building, Marcellus, Friday, April 9, at 1 p.m.

To combat inflation, more and more Michigan families are becoming "do-it-yourselfers," according to Lois F. Marsh, Cass county Extension Home Economist. "Because a house generally represents the largest single expenditure a family makes, it's important the investment be protected by regular maintenance."

Senate Defeats Land Sale Bill

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has defeated attempts to force the sale of public lands in the Upper Peninsula and advanced a bill establishing a fund to acquire recreational land.

The bill, approved Tuesday, would use state royalties from any gas and oil drilling permitted in the Pigeon River Country State Forest to set up a "state recreational land acquisition fund."

The fund would be used to purchase public land for recreation.

The measure is up for a final vote today but may see further attempts to alter it.

The Senate rejected three attacks on the bill by Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, who has introduced several measures to weaken environmental laws. The votes against his proposals dealt the U.P. lawmaker an unusual setback.

for he traditionally has swung great power in such matters.

Mack first offered an amendment to the bill which would have required the state to sell public lands in the U.P. if needed for industrial development and expansion.

Mack, contending the state owns more than two million acres in Upper Michigan, said mining companies need the land to dump tailings since no private land was available adjacent to the mines.

Under his proposal, the state would sell such land if the Natural Resources Commission or the director of the Office of Economic Expansion determined the sale was required for industrial development or expansion.

"We should sell some of this land so we can have the jobs and development we need," Mack argued. He said the proceeds from the sale would go into the land acquisition fund to buy more public land where it was needed.

House Approves Ballot Limit Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation supporters say will help prevent chaos in November, but which opponents say infringes on voting rights, is headed for the Senate.

By a 52-38 vote Tuesday calling for immediate effect, the House approved the measure, which is designed to limit the size of the November ballot.

The bill, sponsored by State Sen. Patrick McCullough, D-Dearborn, returns to the Senate for concurrence in amendments the House added.

The bill is designed to limit the number of parties on the November general election ballot so that the state will not have to switch from voting machines in paper ballots, supporters said.

Under the bill, any party which obtains three-tenths of one per cent of the August primary vote — about 4,000 votes — would qualify for the November general election.

To get on the August ballot, the parties would have to obtain about 18,000 signatures.

Under the bill as the Senate passed it, the Republican and Democratic parties would qualify automatically for the November ballot based on their performances in past elections. The House amended the bill also to give the Human Rights and American Independent parties an automatic berth on the ballot.

Current law requires minor parties that want to get on the November ballot to collect 18,000 signatures.

The Secretary of State's office says that voting machines, used by 70 per cent of Michigan's voters, can accommodate only nine parties.

Eight parties already have qualified for the November ballot under current law and six more are circulating petitions, according to supporters of the bill.

They say that switching to paper ballots might mean long lines, high error rates, and lengthy delays in tallying results.

Under the bill, parties which qualify for the primary by filing signatures also win the right to select their candidates in caucuses instead of during the primary. Only the party's logo would appear on the August ballot for a vote of their supporters.

Rep. Jackie Vaughn III, D-Detroit, called the bill a "stop backwards." He said the argument that the bill is needed because the voting machines can't handle large ballots is "the worst excuse I could hear. I should think we should welcome the opportunity for a difference of opinion."

Edison Unhappy Over Rate Hike

By SURAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Public Service Commission has granted Detroit Edison a $62.4 million rate increase, a move which the utility branded as "shockingly out of line with reality."

The state's largest utility had asked for permission to raise rates by $173 million, or three times as much.

PSC Chairman Daniel

Demlow said the decision, and other significant changes in rates ordered Tuesday, added up to "the most innovative, creative and realistic approach ever taken by this or any other commission" in the country.

He said the changes would help Edison "restore its financial integrity," while keeping rates as low as possible for the company's 1.6 million residential customers.

Edison immediately announced it would challenge the decision in Ingham County Circuit Court. Board chairman William Meese called it "irresponsible, grossly unfair, contrary to law and shockingly out of line with reality."

Another Edison spokesman said the size of the increase could mean blackouts and brownouts by 1978 since the company may be forced to cancel plans to finish two partially built generating plants.

Under the increase approved 2-1 Tuesday, bills of Edison's 1.6 million residential customers will increase by about 3.9 percent or 78 cents a month for those who use 500 kilowatt hours a month or less.

Under a new plan used in another state but California, residential customers using more than 500 kwh a month will pay more per unit. PSC chairman Daniel Demlow said "if they are going to use more electricity they must be willing to pay for it."

Those using 1,000 kwh will be charged an average $2.52 a month or 7 percent more. Those using 1,500 kwh a month will see their bills go up by about $5.28 a month or more than 10 percent.

The new rate plan does not apply to customers using space heaters or to water heating rates.

Commissioner William Halls dissented from approving the increase. He said Edison should get only $21.6 million in higher rates, though he approved of the new rate structure and other changes.

Among major changes ordered by the PSC were:

—A new inverted rate structure charging those who use more electricity more per unit. The charge per kilowatt hour will be 3.8 cents for 500 or less, 3.8 cents for 500 to 1,000 and 4 cents for 1,000 or more. Supporters say the plan will help conserve energy.

—Limiting Edison's ability to recoup immediately higher fuel costs to 90 percent of its total expense. Edison now can charge customers monthly and without PSC review for 100 percent of its higher fuel costs.

James Callaghan Appears Sure Of Becoming Britain's New PM

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary James Callaghan appears certain to succeed Harold Wilson as Britain's prime minister next week after taking the lead over left-winger Michael Foot in the second round of voting by members of the ruling Labor party in the House of Commons.

Results of the secret mail ballot announced Tuesday night gave the 64-year-old Callaghan 141 votes to Foot's 133. Callaghan failed to get the majority necessary for election because another moderate, Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey, was still in the race and got 38 votes.

Two votes apparently were lost in the mail. The other three Laborites in Commons are Scottish nationalists who are abstaining from the voting.

The third ballot, to be counted next Monday, will be between Callaghan and Foot, and most or all of Healey's votes are expected to go to Callaghan.

Foot, 62, refused to concede, saying, "I shall fight on. The whole thing is wide open. I think I'm still in with a chance to win." But the trend already was away from the left.

In the first round last week, three candidates from the party's center and right wing got a total of 170 votes, while three left-wingers got only 144. Foot, instead of attracting needed support from the other side of the party, apparently failed to hold on to 11 of the votes that went for the other two leftists last week.

The Laborites are choosing their party leader, who under the British parliamentary system then becomes the prime minister. After the race is over, Wilson will go to Buckingham Palace, submit his resignation to Queen Elizabeth II and recommend that she summon the new party leader to become prime minister and form a government. Constitutional tradition requires that she carry out his recommendation.

Under a new plan used in no other state but California, residential customers using more than 500 kwh a month will pay more per unit. PSC chairman Daniel Demlow said "if they are going to use more electricity they must be willing to pay for it."

Those using 1,000 kwh will be charged an average $2.52 a month or 7 per cent more. Those using 1,500 kwh a month will see their bills go up by about $5.28 a month or more than 10 per cent.

The new rate plan does not apply to customers using space heaters or to water heating rates.

Commissioner William Ralls dissented from approving the increase. He said Edison should get only $21.6 million in higher rates, though he approved of the new rate structure and other changes.

Among major changes ordered by the PSC were:

—A new inverted rate structure charging those who use more electricity more per unit. The charge per kilowatt hour will be 3.6 cents for 500 or less, 3.8 cents for 500 to 1,000 and 4 cents for 1,000 or more. Supporters say the plan will help conserve energy.

—Limiting Edison's ability to recoup immediately higher fuel costs to 90 per cent of its total expense. Edison now can charge customers monthly and without PSC review for 100 per cent of its higher fuel costs.

James Callaghan Appears Sure Of Becoming Britain's New PM

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary James Callaghan appears certain to succeed Harold Wilson as Britain's prime minister next week after taking the lead over left-winger Michael Foot in the second round of voting by members of the ruling Labor party in the House of Commons.

Results of the secret mail ballot announced Tuesday night gave the 64-year-old Callaghan 141 votes to Foot's 133. Callaghan failed to get the majority necessary for election because another moderate, Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey, was still in the race and got 38 votes.

Two votes apparently were lost in the mail. The other three Laborites in Commons are Scottish nationalists who are abstaining from the voting.

The third ballot, to be counted next Monday, will be between Callaghan and Foot, and most or all of Healey's votes are expected to go to Callaghan.

Foot, 62, refused to concede, saying, "I shall fight on. The whole thing is wide open. I think I'm still in with a chance to win." But the trend already was away from the left.

In the first round last week, three candidates from the party's center and right wing got a total of 170 votes, while three left-wingers got only 144. Foot, instead of attracting needed support from the other side of the party, apparently failed to hold on to 11 of the votes that went for the other two leftists last week.

The Laborites are choosing their party leader, who under the British parliamentary system then becomes the prime minister. After the race is over, Wilson will go to Buckingham Palace, submit his resignation to Queen Elizabeth II and recommend that she summon the new party leader to become prime minister and form a government. Constitutional tradition requires that she carry out his recommendation.

Wallace, Jackson Targets Of Abuse

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — "They will grow up," said George C. Wallace after hecklers wearing Arthur Bremer masks and pushing wheelchairs tried to disrupt a campaign appearance here.

Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson, like Wallace a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, was the target of similar abuse later Tuesday. "What happened to me, that doesn't matter," Jackson told reporters. "Bringing in Bremer on Wallace, that was sick."

Bremer was convicted and sentenced to 63 years in prison after attempting to assassinate Wallace during the 1972 presidential campaign. Wallace was paralyzed from the waist down and now uses a wheelchair.

In Washington, meanwhile, President Ford announced the appointment of Rogers C.B. Morton as manager of his campaign for a full term in the White House.

And former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who is challenging Ford for the GOP nomination, prepared in Los Angeles for a 30-minute speech to be televised nationally this evening.

Morton, 61, is a former Republican national chairman and commerce secretary and was most recently a White House counselor. He replaces Howard H. "Bo" Callaway, who resigned from the $42,500-a-year job amid controversy.

As he quit, Callaway declared he had done nothing wrong and would be exonerated in government probes of his role in seeking expansion on federal land of a Colorado ski resort in which he owns controlling interest.

Ford said Morton would officially take over the campaign post on Friday.

Reagan taped the speech, which aides said the candidate wrote himself, in Hollywood on Tuesday. After the taping session, he chatted briefly with reporters but wouldn't talk about the speech.

The former motion picture and television actor, who won his first primary election in North Carolina last week, canceled a week of campaign appearances to prepare for the program.

"I just have been frustrated that I am not getting the message to enough people," Reagan said of his decision to go on national television. The Reagan campaign paid $98,000 for 30 minutes of air time on nearly 200 NBC stations at 10:30 p.m. on the East and West coasts and 9:30 p.m. in Central and Mountain time zones.

Neither Wallace nor Jackson was harmed by the hecklers. It was in Madison a week ago that former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, another Democratic candidate in Wisconsin's April 6 primary election, was sprinkled with peanuts. Carter is a peanut farmer.

Wallace appeared to ignore demonstrators, who shouted, "Wallace go home" as he arrived at a Madison restaurant for a speech. They carried placards which read: "George, stand up and be counted" and "Free Artie Bremer."

One demonstrator shouted, "You racist pig" at Wallace and another followed the Alabama governor's party into the restaurant, singing an anti-Wallace tune and trying to approach the speakers' table. Secret Service agents removed him.

The incident prompted an apology from Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, but Wallace said that wasn't necessary.

"The governor doesn't owe me an apology because the people here have been good to me for many years," Wallace said later in Janesville. He referred to heavy votes he got in previous Wisconsin primaries.

Later, as Jackson approached an airport fence lined with spectators, moisture struck him in the face and Secret Service personnel hustled away a young man.

"Water, Junk," Jackson remarked. His news secretary, Brian Corcoran, said it was spit.

It was not clear whether the same demonstrators were involved in the Carter, Wallace and Jackson incidents. The Wallace and Carter heckling was in the same neighborhood a few blocks from the University of Wisconsin.

Jackson's airport detractors shouted slogans critical of the military aircraft industry in his home state of Washington.

Jackson, during a Madison news conference, also was questioned repeatedly by a young man who said he represented a homosexual publication about Monday's U.S. Supreme Court ruling upholding state laws regulating private sexual conduct among consenting adults.

"I am opposed to the practice you say you are engaged in," Jackson told the questioner, and the candidate added, "I don't want your vote. What other answer do you want?"

In Milwaukee, Jackson said he expects to make a good showing in Wisconsin, while Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., predicted he would win the same day in New York.

Carter, in Bloomington, Minn., said it is unlikely he will win New York's primary. But he said he will reach the Democratic National Convention this summer with 1,000 or more delegates — of the 1,500 needed — and will win the nomination on the first ballot. There were these other developments on the political

—The House in Washington approved and sent to the Senate a measure to allow government employees to participate in partisan political activities. The House then took up a bill to restore the Federal Election Commission's power to disburse public funds for presidential campaigns.

—A judge in Lincoln, Neb., ruled that Sons of Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, despite their disclaimers, will not be able to remove their names from the ballot for Nebraska's May 11 Democratic primary.

—Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., former chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said he will not run for re-election this year. The 75-year-old Hebert is the fourth-ranking House member in seniority.

—Reagan apparently lost a bid to run a statewide slate of delegate candidates for the Republican convention delegates in Ohio's June 8 primary. Harold Holzworth, chairman of the Franklin County Board of Elections, said the board eliminated 263 signatures from Reagan's delegate petitions, putting the number of eligible signers under the required 1,000.

Twenty-eight delegates to next summer's GOP convention will be elected in statewide voting in Ohio, with another 87 elected in congressional district races. Reagan has slates entered in many of the congressional districts, and they apparently were not affected.

WALLACE DEMONSTRATION: Here are two of about 10 demonstrators who greeted Democratic presidential candidate George Wallace outside a Madison, Wis. restaurant Tuesday wearing masks of Arthur Bremer, the man who shot and crippled Wallace in 1972, and holding onto wheelchairs. South Haven Hassle Hinges On 'Plan'

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Most local businessmen and governmental leaders agree that South Haven's central business district (CBD) needs a shot in the arm, but factions have developed in recent weeks over how the community should go about doing it.

At the center of the controversy is a question over how much professional planning is needed to get a project plan done.

A committee of businessmen feels that minimal planning is necessary to implement a beautification project in a four-block area in the core of the CBD. The businessmen, located at a Kalamazoo landscape architect willing to develop a plan similar to one he recently did for Holland for approximately $8,000.

The city planning commission on the other hand feels that a study of traffic patterns and parking needs should be done by a professional planner. The more comprehensive plan has been estimated to cost $35,000 to $40,000.

The businessmen and politicians were further split last month when Mayor Richard Lewis questioned the extent to which the business community was committed to financing the project. He further criticized some businessmen for their negative attitudes toward the shopping public.

Lewis' comments drew a sharp rebuttal from Chamber of Commerce President Donald Peterson.

The threat of construction of a shopping center away from South Haven's downtown area has been a main influence in getting businessmen behind a beautification program.

Donald Braschler, vice president of MacKenzie's Bakeries and a proponent of the beautification project, notes that construction of a shopping center in the South Haven is "imminent."

"I have seen blueprints for a 20-store shopping center," Braschler said. "They (the developers) are in the process of justifying it."

Describing himself as a man of action, Braschler says there isn't any need to expend thousands of dollars for plans.

"We need a business district that is attractive to the shopper, something that will compel them to shop in South Haven," he says. "I'm not discounting the need for more parking and better traffic flow, but beautification is a priority."

Mayor Lewis and Planning Commission Chairman Paul Peters disagree, noting that "trees in the CBD won't bring in shoppers."

"The thing that bothers me is that everyone involved has the best interests of the city in mind," observes Peters. "We are supposed to be grownups, but no one is willing to sit down and talk about it."

Peters admits that the stalemate boils right down to the selection of a planner. Peters and most members of the planning commission would like to see the city retain Villan-Lehman Associates of Southfield, the firm that recently completed the city's comprehensive plan.

Peters claims that the businessmen were not interested in participating in discussions when the comprehensive plan phase of the CBD was being discussed. The planner subsequently recommended creation of a mall in the CBD. The planning commission's next meeting drew approximately 70 businessmen who expressed their concerns.

"Our planner has done things in a constructive way, but because he has told them (the businessmen) how it is, they hate him," claims Peters.

Braschler says the businessmen are in the process of conducting a survey of all affected businesses to determine the merchants' financial commitment.

"I guess that if we want anything done we are going to have to jump on the mayor's bandwagon," he said.

For survey purposes Lewis has outlined a $100,000 project and projected the cost per business on a front foot basis.

Braschler said the survey results will be presented to the city council.

Ford Promises

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is promising to redouble efforts to reach a Middle East peace settlement as he prepares for a second round of talks with King Hussein of Jordan.

In toasts at a White House state dinner Tuesday night, both Ford and Hussein emphasized difficulties involved in Middle East negotiations but declared their willingness to try to surmount the obstacles.

Donald Braschler, vice president of MacKenzie's Bakeries and a proponent of the beautification project, notes that construction of a shopping center in the South Haven is "imminent."

"I have seen blueprints for a 20-store shopping center," Braschler said. "They (the developers) are in the process of justifying it."

Describing himself as a man of action, Braschler says there isn't any need to expend thousands of dollars for plans.

"We need a business district that is attractive to the shopper, something that will compel them to shop in South Haven," he says. "I'm not discounting the need for more parking and better traffic flow, but beautification is a priority."

Mayor Lewis and Planning Commission Chairman Paul Peters disagree, noting that "trees in the CBD won't bring in shoppers."

"The thing that bothers me is that everyone involved has the best interests of the city in mind," observes Peters. "We are supposed to be grownups, but no one is willing to sit down and talk about it."

Peters admits that the stalemate boils right down to the selection of a planner. Peters and most members of the planning commission would like to see the city retain Vilcan-Lehman Associates of Southfield, the firm that recently completed the city's comprehensive plan.

Peters claims that the businessmen were not interested in participating in discussions when the comprehensive plan phase of the CBD was being discussed. The planner subsequently recommended creation of a mall in the CBD. The planning commission's next meeting drew approximately 70 businessmen who expressed their concerns.

"Our planner has done things in a constructive way, but because he has told them (the businessmen) how it is, they hate him," claims Peters.

Braschler says the businessmen are in the process of conducting a survey of all affected businesses to determine the merchants' financial commitment.

"I guess that if we want anything done we are going to have to jump on the mayor's bandwagon," he said.

For survey purposes Lewis has outlined a $100,000 project and projected the cost per business on a front foot basis.

Braschler said the survey results will be presented to the city council.

Ford Promises

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is promising to redouble efforts to reach a Middle East peace settlement as he prepares for a second round of talks with King Hussein of Jordan.

In toasts at a White House state dinner Tuesday night, both Ford and Hussein emphasized difficulties involved in Middle East negotiations but declared their willingness to try to surmount the obstacles.

MASSACHUSETTS

Here's Where It All Began In 1775

By GLENN BRIERE
SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (NEA) — "The Bicentennial begins here." So goes the slogan of the Massachusetts Bicentennial Commission.

Maybe it was a promotional subway, basketball, volleyball, no-fault insurance and the computer.

There were the Brahmins — the Adamses, the Ludgess, the Lowells, the Chisholms. And the Irish — Curley, McCormack.

Of course, there wasn't much action in Massachusetts after 1775, and none after July 4, 1776. By that time, the British had already been run out of Boston.

That wasn't unusual. Things have always been a little different in Massachusetts, from Samuel Adams' revolutionary agitation to the national presidential election of 1972.

Sam Adams was the prototypical, rabble-rousing revolutionary. A Harvard man who couldn't make it in business or law, Adams got some financial backing from John Hancock and became a top-shelf subversive in the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Indeed, the British played right into his hands with the Sugar and Stamp Acts. The Boston "Massacre" gave him and his Sons of Liberty even more fodder.

In 1774, the call was issued for the First Continental Congress.

The Massachusetts Legislature met behind locked doors to elect its delegates, with royal governor Thomas Gage angrily and futilely shouting through the keyhole that he had dissolved the legislature and it could conduct no more business. Massachusetts was different in that it had one of the genuine unsung heroes of the Revolution. Col. Henry Knox. He led volunteers and 60 tons of artillery from Fort Ticonderoga, N.Y. to Boston, where George Washington's army had the British under siege.

When the cannons appeared on the hills surrounding Boston, the British wisely left town on March 17, 1775. "Evacuation Day" is now a legal holiday in Suffolk County.

The Bay State has always been known for its political wheeling and dealing. That tradition goes back to 1787, when an honest-to-goodness deal resulted in Massachusetts' ratification of the new national constitution.

The big municipal interests in Boston, anxious to see a constitution, offered John Hancock the governorship in return for his support. And once Hancock came around, so did some of the poorer dissident elements. Nothing like a little honest skull-duggery to get things done.

The Bay State's contribution to education, the arts and industry notwithstanding, it is just that kind of politicking that evokes the image of Massachusetts.

Everybody has heard of the term "gerrymandering" — the practice of drawing grotesquely shaped congressional or legislative districts to preserve incumbencies. It was Elbridge Gerry, governor from 1810-1812, who drew a district shaped like a salamander. Hence, "gerrymandering."

When it comes to national issues, Massachusetts has always had a mind of its own. The Bay State wisely wanted no part of the war of 1812, yet the abolitionist movement in Massachusetts was so strong Bay Staters gladly marched off to preserve the Union. During U.S. involvement in Vietnam, Massachusetts became the nation's most militantly antiwar state. The legislature even passed a law, which didn't hold up in higher courts, that no sons of Massachusetts should be compelled to fight in Vietnam.

But one of the state's earliest contributions to government, the town meeting, stubbornly persists in Massachusetts.

After the influx of uprooted Irishmen in the mid-19th century, there evolved some legendary political battles between the Yankee Republicans — embodied by the Ludgess and Saltonstalls — and the Irish Democrats, embodied by James Michael Curley.

Those battles no longer exist — the Republican Party is practically a splinter now — but there will always be some kind of political action in Massachusetts. That's where it all began.

Maybe you're taking St. Joseph for granted

What kind of a town would you like to live in? The term "pleasant people" comes to mind, of course. Good neighbors, excellent schools, fine churches. Police and fire protection of unusually competent quality. Snow-free streets in February; clean, tree-shaded and tranquil in June. Men and women with common sense and a real dedication paid to run the big business of a small town. No garbage pile-ups; a splendid library; orderly and quiet parks. A definite and pleasant place in the sun for kids and Senior Citizens — and everyone in between.

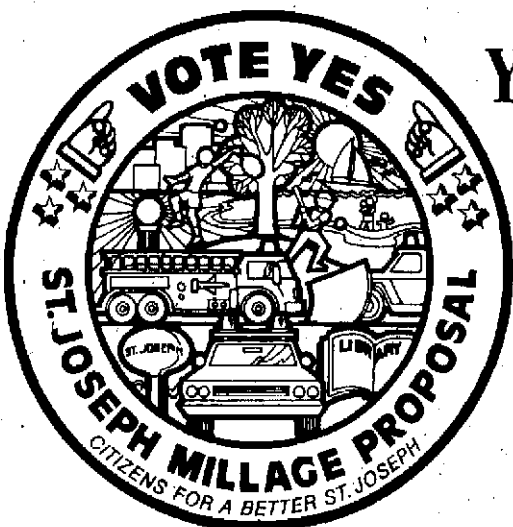

Isn't that pretty much what we have here in St. Joseph? We think so. That's why we're spending time and money to tell the need for your YES vote next Monday.

So if you admit to yourself that you may be taking life in St. Joe a little for granted, admit it! Vote YES next Monday to insure that we keep our city in order.

A YES vote will raise the tax limit to 20 mills — but not the tax. The City Commission is on record that this year's tax will not be raised more than one mill!! The 20 mill ceiling is meant only to protect our taxing structure in the years to come.

Your YES vote will mean your tax will increase only $10.00 if your home is assessed at $10,000.00 value ($15.00 if assessed at $15,000.00 etc.) But your YES vote is the only currently available means to keep St. Joe a good place to live; to insure that essential housekeeping services continue. Inflation has devastated our city's finances. Street lighting costs, park maintenance, gasoline for snow-plows, police and fire vehicles — everything it takes to keep a city in order costs much, much more today.

Your Citizens For A Better St. Joseph urges your YES vote on this critical issue.

Israeli Police Patrolling Tense Arab Villages In Wake Of Riots

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli police patrolled in force in tense but calm Arab villages in Galilee today as villagers in northern Israel prepared to bury six Arabs killed by police and army gunfire.

There were fears that the funerals would ignite new rioting. But Police Minister Shlomo Hillel ordered security forces not to shoot unless lives were threatened and lifted a curfew imposed on villages north of Nazareth.

Police reported that Arab youths stoned police in four villages during the night but said there was no serious violence.

Five of the Arabs were killed Tuesday during riots that accompanied a 24-hour strike by Arab citizens of Israel which the Israeli Communist party called to protest government purchase of some 1,800 acres of arid Arab land for housing and development projects. Another Arab was killed in a pre-strike riot Monday night.

Suit Seeks Overturn Of Millage

Authorities reported that 31 Israeli Arabs and about 50 police and soldiers were injured during the riots and that at least 285 persons were rounded up for investigation.

The semi-official Israeli state radio said fewer than 20 per cent of the Israeli Arabs joined in the strike and that it was generally regarded as a failure. But in a dozen Arab villages, most of them in Galilee, rioters battled police, throwing stones and flaming kerosene bombs, and even fired guns in the village of Tabiya.

Tewfik Zayad, the Communist mayor of Nazareth and the leader of the strike, charged the clashes came only "when police provoked the people." He claimed police "ran after people and shot at them."

Zayad is also a member of the Knesset, the Israeli parliament. Rukah, the Communist party, introduced a motion of no confidence accusing Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's government of aggression against Israel's 500,000 Arab citizens.

The fighting was the first between Israeli troops and Arab citizens of the Jewish state since Israel became a state in 1948.

The Arabs who chose Israeli citizenship rather than joining the Palestinian exodus to Lebanon, Syria and Jordan and their children now make up 16 per cent of the population of Israel. They have equal rights with Jews under the constitution and enjoy the highest Arab standard of living in the Middle East.

But they have not been allowed to form their own political parties, and the younger generation has turned away from Israel's ruling Labor party to the anti-Zionist Communist party and to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

A group of voters in this Detroit suburb has filed suit seeking to overturn recent passage of a millage proposal by a single vote — one which was first disqualified and later admitted.

The Wayne County Circuit Court suit said original results were announced as 1,931 votes for the nine-mill renewal, with a like number against it. Twenty-eight of the punch-card ballots were ruled spoiled and were tossed out.

The Wayne County Board of Canvassers later declared one of the "spoiled" ballots was usable and certified the millage had passed by a one-vote margin.

Twelve plaintiffs who had opposed the renewal filed suit, contending the board of canvassers exercised undue discretion in certifying the ballot which previously had been rejected.

HE'S BITTER: Ken Kesey, author of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," won $5 bet that the movie version of the book would win Academy Award as best picture. But he says he's bitter because he received $20,000 for movie rights in 1963 and the film has earned $50 million so far. His screenplay was rejected by producers. (AP Wirephoto)

Indian State Would Jail, Sterilize Parents With 'Too Many Children'

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The government of one Indian state has introduced a bill making parents subject to prison sentences and compulsory sterilization if they refuse to be sterilized after having too many children.

The bill, sponsored by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Congress party in the Maharashtra state legislature, does not specify how many children a couple can have before being required to undergo sterilization. It empowers the state government to set the number. Officials have repeatedly said two would be the permitted maximum.

The Maharashtra government is a leader in the movement to curb population growth in India and already has adopted measures denying loans, free medical care, maternity leave and government housing to couples who have more than three children.

Mrs. Gandhi's central government has decreed similar regulations for New Delhi and the federal district around it, but the punitive provisions of the new Maharashtra bill go further. For couples with more than the legal number of children who refuse to undergo sterilization, the bill sets a minimum penalty of six months in prison and a maximum of two years and compulsory sterilization. However, men over 55 and women over 45 are exempt.

A statement accompanying the bill said the strong measure was introduced because population growth was detrimental to the development plan for the west coast state of 50 million people. It includes the teeming city of Bombay.

The Congress party controls 211 of the 271 seats in the state legislature, and passage of the bill is assured. It is to be debated Friday, but the legislature adjourns this weekend for several months and may wait until after the recess to act on it.

Mrs. Gandhi is using the state governments rather than the federal government in her campaign to prevent India's population of 800 million from continuing to grow at the present rate and reaching 1 billion by 1990. The goal is to cut back the birth rate of 37 per thousand population by one per cent in each of the next five years.

Paw Paw Woman Is Bound Over

By DENNIS COGSWELL

Paw Paw Bureau — A Paw Paw woman was bound over to Van Buren circuit court yesterday on three charges following Seventh district court action.

Robin Burke, 22, also known as Robin Stanfill, 214 Drew, was bound over to circuit court on two counts of larceny in a building following preliminary examinations. She was also bound over to circuit court on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses after waiving a hearing.

The larceny charges accuse Miss Burke of taking $200 from a wallet belonging to Steven Arendt of Paw Paw, Nov. 21, and of taking $80 from a purse at the Dyckman House hotel, Paw Paw, on March 15.

She is also charged with obtaining $120 under false pretenses by cashing a welfare check to which she was not entitled.

Bound over to circuit court following preliminary examinations were:

Dolly Tuell, 18, Hartford, on a charge of forging a check for $47 March 2 in Hartford.

Terry Nelson, 28, Oshtemo, on a charge of breaking and entering a Bloomingdale township home July 16.

Ronald Sikes, 20, Bangor, was bound over to circuit court after waiving preliminary examination on charges of larceny in a building and perjury. Sikes is accused of falsely swearing to information to obtain a driver's license in South Haven last May, and of taking $500 worth of tools Jan. 7 from the Duffy-Mott company, Hartford.

Anthony W. Graham, 19, Idlewild, Mich., demanded preliminary examination on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a .22-caliber pistol. He stood mute on a charge of possession of marijuana.

Graham was taken into custody Monday evening by state police near Paw Paw after they had stopped a car for speeding. Graham was released on his own recognizance.

European Railroads Have Woes

BONN, West Germany (AP) — State-run railways in Western Europe, which remained models of reliability and travel comfort while passenger service deteriorated in the United States, are now bogged down in deep financial woes.

Few of them had been profitable in recent years and they eliminated thousands of miles of road and cut down on their work force.

Even greater reductions in passenger service and personnel are being planned.

Burdened by inflated work forces and debt-ridden passenger services on rural lines, European railways have managed to stave off bankruptcy only with the help of multibillion dollar government subsidies each year.

And now vast new investments are needed for 165 m.p.h. "supertrains" and other high speed equipment.

West Germany's railway, which has a staggering deficit of $10 billion, has proposed closing nearly half its 17,400 miles of track and eliminating 130,000 jobs over the next 10 years in an effort to concentrate passenger and freight services on profitable main lines.

British Rail reduced its track network from 18,000 to 11,000 miles and slashed its payroll from 600,000 to 250,000 workers over the last 30 years without solving its massive financial problems.

Sweden's national railroad claimed a $25 million operating profit in 1975 after years of deficits, the payoff for eliminating 2,100 miles of unprofitable tracks since the early 1960s.

Belgium's railway, which lost $1.2 million in 1974, has cut some 280 miles of secondary tracks over the last decade and substituted economical commuter buses in these rural areas.

Automation has allowed Norway to reduce its railroad payroll from 28,000 to 18,000 in the last 20 years, and 1,000 more jobs will be trimmed in the next five years.

Sister Lakes Postal Station Moving

SISTER LAKES — A Dowagiac post office substation located here will be moved to a new location along M-152, some 2½ miles southwest of Sister Lakes, Dowagiac Postmaster Dan Brosnan has announced.

The new substation will begin operations April 12 in Miller's Midway Supermarket, formerly the Midway Marina, he said.

The present substation operations are located in the Sister Lakes Hardware store owned and operated by Henry Smith. It serves about 100 families who pick up their mail at post office boxes they rent at the substation.

Brosnan said the branch office was relocated when post office officials were unable to come to a contract settlement with Smith.

He said G. Edward Miller, owner of the supermarket, will be paid $3,800 to provide space for and personnel to operate the substation this year.

"Consideration was given to closing the rural branch at Sister Lakes and serving the customers by rural routes (delivery)," Brosnan said.

"Happily, a decision to keep the branch open was made but the location will be different," he added.

He said Sister Lakes postal patrons who do not want delivery made to the new rural branch can receive mail from rural letter carriers.

No Year-Round Shipping?

DETROIT (AP) — The Great Lakes may not have year-round winter shipping after this year. Officials are recommending that Congress provide money to carry future winter shipping through only the end of January, Detroit sources indicate. An $8.5 million federal study program has been underway to test the feasibility of extending the shipping season on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway. Study officials say that a future year-round program should be considered more fully before being started. Traditionally, the Great Lakes shipping season runs from mid-April to mid-December. But the federal winter navigation program gave help for ice-breaking and other needs, allowing a few boats to operate for a full 12 months during the past two winters.

Fly Cheaply If You Have The Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price you pay to fly first class will increase between 4 per cent and 7.3 per cent on all domestic flights on April 1, but travelers who have more time than money still can find some airline bargains.

In addition to the first class rate increases, coach class fares may rise by 3 per cent on some routes, mostly in the South and Midwest.

But airlines still are offering a variety of discounts that can cut anywhere from 20 per cent — for late night flights — to 30 and 35 per cent off the cost of a coach seat ticket. To qualify for larger discounts, passengers must abide by certain restrictions, such as making reservations 14 days in advance.

The increase in first class fares is the second of three hikes ordered by the Civil Aeronautics Board two years ago after it decided that were not high enough the actual costs of passenger service. The third increase into effect next year. The coach fare increase some routes is expected as airlines that did not raise fares earlier this year catch up with airlines that

Gobles Slates Red Cross Bloodmobile Fund Drive

GOBLES — A Red Cross door-to-door fund drive will be held in Gobles the week of April 2-9, to seek funds to help maintain the Red Cross' bloodmobile operation in Van Buren county, according to Mrs. Donald (Marlene) Lipp, fund drive chairman.

Mrs. Lipp said $15,000 is needed to operate the bloodmobile in the county for the coming year. Community fund drives throughout the county are being planned she said.

Travel Film To Focus On Smokies

The season's finale of the Twin City Camera club's Travel and Adventure series will be Joe Adair's "Kentucky-Tennessee Experience" to be presented

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in St. Joseph high school auditorium. The travelogue will be presented at 2:30 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday. Adair focuses on the Great Smoky mountains, Cade's cave, Gatlinburg, Lookout mountain and Cumberland Gap and falls. Adair, is a midwesterner who has worked or traveled in nearly 50 countries. A graduate of Georgetown university, Washington, D.C., he has followed the midnight sun across Iceland; traced and retraced Africa's grasslands to photograph people and game; sailed aboard whaling expeditions in the Arctic and has visited Muslims in Kuwait.

Adair was a member of America's first Peace Corps. He was sent to Ethiopia where he adopted a young Ethiopian orphan. The young man traveled much of the world with Adair and now is seeking a college degree in preparation for returning to his own land to work in Ethiopia's development programs.

Adair has high regard for the inhabitants of the lands he visits and records. In "Kentucky-Tennessee Experience" he focused on people at every stop as they worked on mountain crafts or enjoyed country music. The film has been described as having "warmth, humor and fun."

REJECTS VIEW

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson says he totally rejects the view of Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn that Britain has declined to a position of little importance in the world. "I respect Mr. Solzhenitsyn's right to say whatever he pleases," Wilson told the House of Commons on Tuesday.

KENTUCKY-TENNESSEE ACTION: Horse races and horsey places are among the features of Joe Adair's "Kentucky-Tennessee Experience" to be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday as the final presentation of

Catholic, Bridgman Seniors Winners In Elks Contest

Lita Helene Masini, a senior at Lake Michigan Catholic high school, and Neil Gordon Smith, a senior at Bridgman high school, have been named winners of the scholarship competition sponsored by St. Joseph Elks Lodge 511.

Each received a $50 savings bond and they will be entered in the State Elks association scholarship competition. State awards range up to $3,000 a year for four years of college. The competition is based on a "most valuable student" concept with students presenting evidence of high school scholarship, achievements and extra-curricular activities. Miss Masini is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Masini, 757 Tucker drive, St. Joseph. Neil Smith is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Dale L. Smith, Baldwin road, Bridgman.

Travel Film To Focus On Smokies

The season's finale of the Twin City Camera club's Travel and Adventure series will be Joe Adair's "Kentucky-Tennessee Experience" to be presented

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in St. Joseph high school auditorium. The travelogue will be presented at 2:30 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday. Adair focuses on the Great Smoky mountains, Cade's cave, Gatlinburg, Lookout mountain and Cumberland Gap and falls. Adair, is a midwesterner who has worked or traveled in nearly 50 countries. A graduate of Georgetown university, Washington, D.C., he has followed the midnight sun across Iceland; traced and retraced Africa's grasslands to photograph people and game; sailed aboard whaling expeditions to the Arctic and has visited Moslems in Kuwait.

Adair was a member of America's first Peace Corps. He was sent to Ethiopia where he adopted a young Ethiopian orphan. The young man traveled much of the world with Adair and now is seeking a college degree in preparation for returning to his own land to work in Ethiopia's development programs.

Adair has high regard for the inhabitants of the lands he visits and records. In "Kentucky-Tennessee Experience" he focused on people at every stop as they worked on mountain crafts or enjoyed country music. The film has been described as having "warmth, humor and fun."

REJECTS VIEW

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson says he totally rejects the view of Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn that Britain has declined to a position of little importance in the world. "I respect Mr. Solzhenitsyn's right to say whatever he pleases," Wilson told the House of Commons on Tuesday.

KENTUCKY-TENNESSEE ACTION: Horse races and horsey places are among the features of Joe Adair's "Kentucky-Tennessee Experience" to be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday as the final presentation of

Catholic, Bridgman Seniors Winners In Elks Contest

Lita Helene Masini, a senior at Lake Michigan Catholic high school, and Neal Gordon Smith, a senior at Bridgman high school, have been named winners of the scholarship-leadership contest sponsored by St. Joseph Elks Lodge 541.

Each received a $50 savings bond and they will be entered in the State Elks association scholarship competition. State awards range up to $3,000 a year for four years of college.

The competition is based on a "most valuable student" concept with students presenting evidence of high school scholarship, achievements and extra-curricular activities.

Miss Masini is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Masini, 757 Tucker drive, St. Joseph. Neal Smith is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Dale L. Smith, Baldwin road, Bridgman.

JERRY RUBIN
Knocking on doors.

By John Roche

By RICHARD SALTUS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jerry Rubin is preaching revolution again. Well, sort of. It's not the violent rebellion of his Yippie "Do It!" days. After what Rubin calls a "poignant journey," the former anti-racist and Chicago Seven defendant places his hopes for society in a "spiritual" movement. Higher consciousness. Personal openness. The family. Love.

And though he claims to have exercised an addiction to fame, Rubin is knocking on every media door to publicize the book that tells his inner story: "Growing (Up) at 37." It is a statement about self-acceptance that seems inevitable, yet slightly sad, in light of a vow from his earlier book, "Do It!" There he said: "Our message: Don't grow up. Growing up means giving up your dreams." If Rubin is a bearded, costumed, one-man guerrilla theater, was a highly visible symbol of the Protest '60s, the new Jerry Rubin seems to typify the introspective '70s with his Zen, EST, yoga, health foods and therapies. "I'm a reflector of consciousness," he says. "I believe I went through the exact changes everybody went through from 1970 to 1975: the confusion, the discouragement, the despair and all that..." It was the disintegration of the protest movement and the sudden breakup of a five-year love affair which he says led him into an "orgy" of self-examination. Unlike Adam Smith, whose recent book "Powers of Mind" describes an odyssey through the Human Potential movement with a detached cynicism, "I did these things out of pain — the book is a story of my pain," said Rubin. The therapies of a number of gurus — Werner Erhard, originator of Erhard Seminars Training or EST; Bob Hoffman, whose psychic therapy put Rubin in touch with invisible spiritual guides, swamis and rollers — wrenched apart lifelong attitudes. A paroxysm of anger at his parents freed him from them, he says. Confronting his male chauvinism put him in touch with the feminine side of his personality. "In the '60s I stressed one part of my being — the traditionally 'masculine' part — the achieving 'do-er' — while underemphasizing the other part — the 'feminine,' accepting 'be-er.' While he says he is disappointed that so many people are still not interested in the old Jerry Rubin of the '60s — he fears he is a "museum piece" of the era — he remembers those days with fondness and pride. "The people who tried to jail us have been discredited and indicted," he said. "The crazies of 1968 now look like the patriotic and sane people."

Rubin says that the current devotees of spiritualism and therapy are "very self-indulgent, very, very apolitical and almost reactionary at times." Still, he says the "spiritual revolution is the key to the '70s."

The news that an alumnus of the University of Rochester, one of the Eastman-Kodak pioneers, left over $25 million to that institution must have sent shudders through college and university administrators from Maine to California. $25 million! And what's more, he did not leave instructions to build a pyramid in his memory. The income is to be employed in general university maintenance. No one unequipped with the pinch on our institutions of higher learning — public and private — can fully appreciate the value of such a pile not tagged for a monument.

Unfortunately most schools lack donors of such generosity, and state legislatures have been busy chopping away at the budgets of public colleges and universities. Given the fact that education is, next to the infantry, the most labor-intensive operation to be found, most cuts have to take the form of firing teachers and administrative personnel and closing down academic programs.

Presidents, provosts, deans and faculty can all agree on the first priority: buildings and grounds. So the number of custodians, electricians, carpenters, security guards and other members of the general work force are dismissed. The faculty and administration congratulate themselves on this consensus — until events suggest that perhaps the downgraded, non-academic group, the invisible men and women as far as the curriculum is concerned, has more utility than the elite ever imagined. The library roof is not repaired; a nor'easter does $100,000 worth of damage to the books.

At this point, the faculty and administration begin circling each other, knives in hand. The faculty position is that there is all kinds of fat hidden in the administration. What do all these vice presidents do? They are usually right: The 1990s saw a geometrical increase in administrators. No president, provost, dean of faculty, dean of the graduate school, or dean of students feels existentially fulfilled unless he or she has a troupe of flunkies. This process is often hidden by naming as an assistant professor an assistant dean, but carrying him for financial purposes on the academic table of organization. If faculty have a good case for trimming the administration — as I think they generally do — there are some sweet academic pockets where presidents and provosts can get the professors in their cross-hairs. At the top of the list are superfluous graduate programs. Of course, to the faculty involved, their graduate offerings are pearls without price. Given the academic marketplace for at least the next 10 years, they are also pearls without purchasers. With a Ph.D. in a number of fields and 50 cents, you can ride the subway.

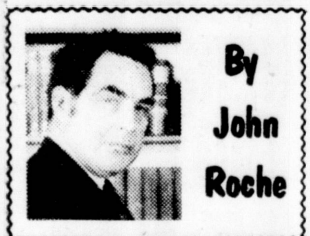

At this point in the argument the deluge of high rhetoric begins. (The possibility of closing the City University of New York's Graduate Center has created a Niagara Falls.) The main line of resistance is that you can not have a good undergraduate program without graduate studies, that teaching graduate students provides teachers with an elixir that spills over to their undergraduate offerings.

The real targery of faculty cuts merits separate treatment, namely how to maintain the principle of tenure and still keep young, vital teachers who are the first victims of retrenchment. I will return to this at a later date.

40,000 Orchids To Be Shown

SOUTH HAVEN — The Dunes Orchid society will sponsor its annual open house at the Black River Orchids greenhouses, 77th street, South Haven, this Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The open house, open to the public free of charge, features the largest display of orchids in Michigan. Harold Larson, owner of Black River Orchids, said more than 40,000 orchid blooms will be on display. The open house will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day. Larson noted that in the past Friday has not been as crowded as the weekend days. Members of the Dunes Orchid society will be on hand to answer questions.

Bainbridge Bicentennial Session

The Bainbridge township Bicentennial committee will meet Saturday, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Bainbridge township hall, according to Mrs. Marian Nichols, committee secretary. Mrs. Nichols said plans will be reviewed for the nearly complete township Bicentennial booklet publication, which will be mailed to all township residents later this year. In addition to the report, Mrs. Nichols said another "show and tell" gathering will be conducted during the meeting. People attending the gathering will be able to show old articles of interest and give a brief history of them. Any Bainbridge township resident, having an article of historic value to display, or interested in the township's history may attend the meeting, Mrs. Nichols said.

COLOMA TOWNSHIP POLICE Complaints Rise; Arrests Drop

COLOMA — The Coloma township police department handled 30 per cent more cases in 1975 than in 1974, but had about 10 per cent fewer arrests, according to the department's annual report.

Township Police Chief Robert Cottier said the number of complaints went up from a 1974 figure of 2,536 to 3,301 last year.

The total number of arrests dropped, from 424 in 1974 to 381 in 1975, because of investigation of cases in which no arrests were required, the chief said.

Areas showing increases from 1974 to 1975, Cottier said, included felony arrests, juvenile arrests, traffic fatalities, traffic accidents with injuries and in traffic tickets issued.

Areas with reported increases, with 1974 figures in parentheses, were: felony arrests 6 (39); juvenile arrests, 62 (45); traffic fatalities 5 (1); traffic accidents with injuries 40 (27); and traffic tickets issued, 1,111 (674).

The felony arrests were: breaking and entering 14, narcotics 31, statutory rape 2, strong armed robbery 2, resisting a police officer 2, extortion 2, unlawfully driving away an auto 1, larceny over $100 1 and receiving and concealing stolen property over $100 1.

There were 102 property damage accidents in 1975, compared to 112 in 1974.

Other categories covered in the annual report showed arrests for high misdemeanors were down from 42 in 1974 to 31 in 1975, and drunk driving arrests decreased from 52 in 1974 to 45 in 1975. The department recovered $11,006 in stolen property during the past year, the chief said.

Seminar Billed On Treatment Of Near-Drowning Victims

A seminar on how to treat near-drowning victims will be held April 28, beginning at 8:30 a.m., at the Grand Haven Community center.

Sponsored by the Lake Michigan Society for Health Manpower Education and Training, the program will be presented by Dr. Martin J. Nentoff, assistant professor of Internal Medicine at the University of Michigan medical school.

Katy Tans, a registered nurse at the North Ottawa Community hospital in Grand Haven, said the one-day seminar will be of particular interest to physicians, nursing personnel, emergency medical technicians, and personnel from law enforcement agencies and fire departments in western Michigan.

Registration for the seminar,

which should be made by April 9, can be made by contacting

Mrs. Tans. Cost of the seminar is $10.

Scuba, Swimming Classes Offered

The Twin City YMCA is sponsoring scuba diving and adult swimming classes, according to Dick Sharkey, YMCA physical director.

Scuba diving classes, offering national YMCA certification, will begin Monday and will be offered from 7 to 10 p.m. every Monday for 12 weeks.

Adult swimming classes for men and women will be from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. every Tuesday for 10 weeks beginning April 13.

Both classes will be offered at the central YMCA in Benton Harbor, and registration can be made by calling the Benton Harbor office.

40,000 Orchids To Be Shown

SOUTH HAVEN — The Dunes Orchid society will sponsor its annual open house at the Black River Orchids greenhouses, 77th street, South Haven, this Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The open house, open to the public free of charge, features the largest display of orchids in Michigan. Harold Larson, owner of Black River Orchids, said more than 40,000 orchid blooms will be on display. The open house will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day. Larson noted that in the past Friday has not been as crowded as the weekend days. Members of the Dunes Orchid society will be on hand to answer questions.

Bainbridge Bicentennial Session

The Bainbridge township Bicentennial committee will meet Saturday, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Bainbridge township hall, according to Mrs. Marian Nichols, committee secretary. Mrs. Nichols said plans will be reviewed for the nearly complete township Bicentennial booklet publication, which will be mailed to all township residents later this year. In addition to the report, Mrs. Nichols said another "show and tell" gathering will be conducted during the meeting. People attending the gathering will be able to show old articles of interest and give a brief history of them. Any Bainbridge township resident, having an article of historic value to display, or interested in the township's history may attend the meeting, Mrs. Nichols said.

COLOMA — The Coloma township police department handled 30 per cent more cases in 1975 than in 1974, but had about 10 per cent fewer arrests, according to the department's annual report.

Township Police Chief Robert Cottier said the number of complaints went up from a 1974 figure of 2,536 to 3,301 last year.

The total number of arrests dropped, from 424 in 1974 to 381 in 1975, because of investigation of cases in which no arrests were required, the chief said.

Areas showing increases from 1974 to 1975, Cottier said, included felony arrests, juvenile arrests, traffic fatalities, traffic accidents with injuries and in traffic tickets issued.

Areas with reported increases, with 1974 figures in parentheses, were: felony arrests 6 (39); juvenile arrests, 62 (45); traffic fatalities 5 (1); traffic accidents with injuries 40 (27); and traffic tickets issued, 1,111 (674).

The felony arrests were: breaking and entering 14, narcotics 31, statutory rape 2, strong armed robbery 2, resisting a police officer 2, extortion 2, unlawfully driving away an auto 1, larceny over $100 1 and receiving and concealing stolen property over $100 1.

There were 92 property damage accidents in 1975, compared to 112 in 1974.

Other categories covered in the annual report showed arrests for high misdemeanors were down from 42 in 1974 to 31 in 1975, and drunk driving arrests decreased from 52 in 1974 to 45 in 1975.

The department recovered $11,006 in stolen property during the past year, the chief said.

Seminar Billed On Treatment Of Near-Drowning Victims

A seminar on how to treat near-drowning victims will be held April 28, beginning at 8:30 a.m., at the Grand Haven Community center.

Sponsored by the Lake Michigan Society for Health Manpower Education and Training, the program will be presented by Dr. Martin J. Nemiroff, assistant professor of Internal Medicine at the University of Michigan medical school.

Katy Tans, a registered nurse at the North Ottawa Community hospital in Grand Haven, said the one-day seminar will be of particular interest to physicians, nursing personnel, emergency medical technicians, and personnel from law enforcement agencies and fire departments in western Michigan.

Registration for the seminar,

which should be made by April 9, can be made by contacting

Mrs. Tans. Cost of the seminar is $10.

Scuba, Swimming Classes Offered

The Twin City YMCA is sponsoring scuba diving and adult swimming classes, according to Dick Sharkey, YMCA physical director.

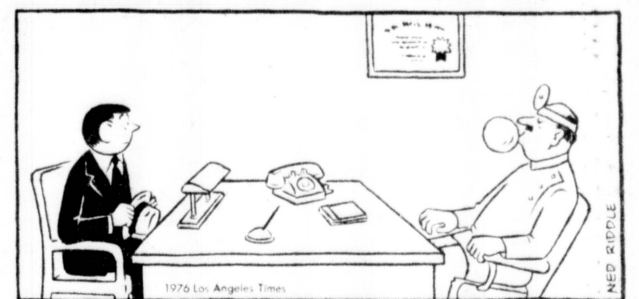

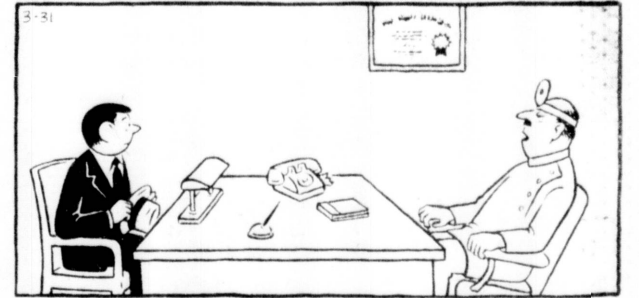

Scuba diving classes, offering national YMCA certification, will begin Monday and will be offered from 7 to 10 p.m. every Monday for 12 weeks.

Adult swimming classes for men and women will be from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. every Tuesday for 10 weeks beginning April 13.

Both classes will be offered at the central YMCA in Benton Harbor, and registration can be made by calling the Benton Harbor office.

Wayland Blaze Chars Equipment

WAYLAND — Fire of an undetermined cause gutted an Allegan county road commission garage here last night and damaged eight pieces of road equipment parked inside, according to Fred Neils, manager of the road department.

Neils said he estimated the damage at about $50,000 to $75,000. He said it is not known yet how many of the vehicles can be repaired.

The fire was reported at 7:05 p.m. by a Wayland resident who spotted a glow over the one-story wooden frame garage at Cherry and Railroad streets in Wayland, police said.

Neils said the fire had been burning about 20 minutes when Wayland firemen arrived, and they were unable to remove any of the vehicles because of the heat.

A state fire marshal was at the garage this morning attempting to determine the cause, Neils said.

Damaged equipment in the garage included two scraper trucks, two dump trucks, two tractors, a road grader and an excavating machine, Neils said. The garage had been locked up for the night before the blaze started, Neils said.

Rural Cass Man In Sheriff Race

CASSOPOLIS — A rural Cassopolis man who has been arrested on a series of drug-related charges within the past two years has announced plans to run as an American Independent party candidate for Cass county sheriff.

Terry LeMunyon, 28, Crooked Creek road, Calvin township, has reportedly charged incumbent sheriff James Northrop with continuously harassing himself and his brothers Jan and Dan because of their "different lifestyle" in announcing his plans.

According to a friend of LeMunyon's who is also a party member and a candidate for county board of commissioners, LeMunyon has faced nine felony charges in the past two years and has yet to be convicted.

The friend, Arthur Myers, 28, route 2, Breck Church road, Cassopolis, is a candidate for the district commission post under the American Independent banner.

Myers said he and LeMunyon will hold a meeting Saturday to organize a slate of AIP candidates to be entered on the May primary ballot.

Myers said the AIP party had been almost non-existent in Cass county for the past several years.

LeMunyon has been arrested several times on charges of possession of large amounts of marijuana, and was arrested June 9, 1975, on federal charges of illegally manufacturing bootleg whiskey.

1,043 Students Gone

DETROIT (AP) — A total of 1,043 students have left the city school system since a court-ordered desegregation plan went into effect Jan. 26, school officials reported Tuesday. School Superintendent Arthur Jefferson said 503 white students and 54 black students have left city public schools for private and parochial schools since leaving the city. Jefferson said 247 white students and 50 blacks have moved from the city to attend suburban public or private schools. An additional 178 students are staying out of school, Jefferson said. There was no racial breakdown on this category. The figures reflect all students who were enrolled in the Detroit school system on Jan. 26, when court-ordered busing in the city began. The figures do not reflect students who might have left the city before Jan. 26 to avoid busing. School enrollment in the city is 240,183. The Detroit system is 76.2 per cent black, up from 75.2 per cent in September, school officials said. White students make up 21.7 per cent of the city's enrollment, down from 22.8 per cent in September.

First Of Three

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The first of three budget-balancing measures Gov. William Milliken says he must have is headed for Milliken's desk. The House Tuesday approved 94-12 with immediate effect a measure allowing the state to borrow $20 million from the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund. Still before the House awaiting debate is a second bill allowing the state to borrow $30 million from the Veterans Trust Fund. A third bill, extending the fiscal year three months to Sept. 30, is stalled in the House Appropriations Committee. Budget Director Gerald Miller says this bill would bring the state an extra $80 million. A $280 million deficit has been projected for the fiscal 1976-77 budget. Last year Milliken ordered $124 million in spending cuts to chip away at that gap. But he says he needs the three-bill package to wipe out the deficit.

Fewer Medics In Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The number of private practice doctors in Michigan dropped in 1975 from previous years, according to the Michigan Health Council. The drop was the first to occur since World War II, said executive vice president John A. Doherty. American Medical Association figures showed 7,130 medical doctors in office-based practice in Michigan in January, 154 fewer than a year ago. Figures showed 1,390 general practitioners, a drop of 62. The number of osteopathic doctors also dropped by 14 from 2,281 last year. Doherty attributed the losses in part to the high cost of malpractice insurance, the new state single business tax and legislation requiring 50 hours of graduate medical education for Michigan physicians.

Handicapped Bill Gets Nod

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Senate on Tuesday approved a bill to protect the physically handicapped from discrimination in employment, housing and other areas of life. The bill, passed 32-0 and sent to the house, gives the Civil Rights Commission responsibility for investigating alleged discrimination against the handicapped. Under the measure, if a handicapped person meets the qualifications of a job and can attain performance levels required within a reasonable amount of time, that person must be given the same opportunity as other applicants for the job. Backers of this bill, sponsored by Sen. John Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, said the measure means the handicapped must be judged and accepted on ability.

BLACKSMITH POET: Clifton Schelhaus, Allegan county's blacksmith poet, files hoof of one of his horses in preparation for shoeing. Schelhaus has agreed to rare public reading of his poetry, at Western Michigan university's Knauss hall in Kalamazoo on April 1.

Poet From Allegan To Read At WMU

ALLEGAN — The past of Clifton Schelhaus is not necessarily a key that can unlock all the enigmas of the man today. A former strike-breaker and one-time state police trainee, Schelhaus today is a used car salesman, has a fondness for horses and does his own blacksmith work. He is also a poet.

Big, burly, and 42 years old, with craggy profile and clean-shaven head, Schelhaus' appearance speaks of brute force, but his poetry has both subtlety and sensitivity — enough so to have been described as "beautiful" by Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Gwendolyn Brooks.

And at the invitation of Western Michigan university's Honors College Director Dr. Sam Clark, Schelhaus has agreed to give a rare public reading of his works at 8 p.m. April 1 in Room 3700 of Knauss hall on WMU's Kalamazoo campus.

Following the reading, Schelhaus will be guest of honor at a reception in the lobby.

While the event is open to the public at no charge, seating capacity of the room reserved for the event is limited to 150 people on a first-come, first-served basis.

Despite his unpoetic features and past, poetry in the last few years has really been one of very few consistent things in Schelhaus' varied life.

Born in Baltimore, he has lived in Allegan all but a few years of his life, barely graduating from Allegan High School where it was his department rather than his academic ability that was in question.

He attended, but never graduated from Western Michigan university, Michigan State university, and the Michigan state police academy.

On top of his somewhat varied academic record, he piled an even more varied work record, having at one time or another been a guard at Jackson prison, a deckhand on a sea-going freighter, private detective, strike-breaker, union organizer, restaurateur, real estate promoter, and the ubiquitous used car salesman.

In his spare time (which he always sees that he has plenty of), Schelhaus raises, ride, shoes, and judges horses, which along with poetry and practical joking, is one of the few things in his life that has ever long held his interest.

And, of course, he writes, but not enough, according to his fans and at least one publisher who has been waiting a decade for Schelhaus to accumulate enough of his poetry to bind up in one volume of respectable size.

A key point in the talks with Trucking Employers Inc., representing 16,000 firms as the industry's bargaining agent, has been the Teamsters' demand of no ceiling in the next contract.

On other issues, the Teamsters now want $1.75 in hourly salary increases and an additional $17 a week in pension and health-welfare benefits over three years.

TEI has based its offer on 30-month figures, proposing increased benefits of $11 a week. Sources said the employers also have raised their wage-hike offer from 85 cents to $1 an hour.

Drivers earn from $7.18 to $7.31 an hour under the existing contract.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Transit Authority and its workers were reportedly locked in unmovable positions over productivity issues today as talks continued to avert a midnight strike that could leave three million subway and bus riders stranded. "Things don't look good at all," said Mayor Abraham D. Beame as corporations booked blocks of hotel rooms for employees and the city made emergency plans to cope with a strike that could bring New York to a grinding halt. The 34,000 bus and subway workers are demanding cost-of-living raises and other increases for which the Transit Authority insists it has no money. Productivity gains — eliminating such things as paid lunch hours — could provide money for raises, the Transit Authority said. But the transit workers' union responded it would give up nothing won in past contracts. "The reality of the situation is that at the moment there is no answer," said State Mediation Board Chairman Vincent D. McDonnell.

City Employees Strike In Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some 1,800 city workers, faced with pay cuts, struck here early today, posting pickets at the municipal bus depot and shutting down service. The city immediately obtained a temporary restraining order against the strike by streetsweepers, electricians, carpenters and other building trades workers.

Mayor George Moscone said he hoped the court order would prevent disruptive picketing around city buildings, but there were indications other city unions that have accepted new contracts with the city would honor the picket lines.

The walkout could eventually affect more than 18,000 city workers, plus longshoremen who would probably honor the picket lines.

Policemen, firemen and the bus drivers themselves were not involved in the strike.

The city trade union workers ordered the pickets to march at 12:01 a.m. to protest pending pay cuts for workers in certain categories.

Fifteen minutes later, city officials told Superior Court Judge Henry Ralph the strike was illegal. He granted the temporary injunction. No union representatives were present.

But hours later pickets were still at the bus depot, and photographers at the scene said "nothing is moving, not a single bus."

Late Tuesday night, Mayor George Moscone told reporters that he could give no assurances that city buses would be running, hinting that citizens had better find other modes of transportation to work.

Later, Moscone said he hoped the court order would prevent disruptive picketing around city buildings today.

Strike leaders said they planned to expand the work stoppage to other public facilities, however, in hopes of finding widespread support from other workers.

The strike began shaping up Tuesday morning when the Board of Supervisors refused to join Moscone in an emergency declaration to suspend the April 1 deadline for passage of the 1976-77 pay ordinance.

As things stand, Moscone is required to sign or veto the salary ordinance by the Thursday deadline. Wage settlements already have been reached with unions representing 16,500 city workers, but the city has not yet signed contracts with another 1,800 workers — the building trades "crafts" unions such as electricians and carpenters.

So far, the settlements represent $2.3 million in salary hikes, but the remaining unions that have not signed are hotly denouncing wage cuts proposed by the board.

The board claims that voters' endorsement of a proposition last fall amounted to a vote to cut pay for plumbers, streetsweepers and other "crafts" groups back into line with annual pay for the same workers in private industry and other cities.

The unions are charging that the supervisors reneged last Monday on an agreement to move the pay deadline back to July 1, continue bargaining and, at the least, grant raises that come due in private industry, plus $1.20 hourly raises for the city's machinists.

The crafts workers say they

MAYOR MOSCONE
Tells of strike

stand to lose about $4.5 million in wages if they accept the board's offer.

The board's proposal would reduce carpenters from $21,900 a year to $17,240, electricians from $21,630 to $16,620, and streetsweepers from $17,300 to a range of $12,000 to $14,450.

Restrictions On Rights Barred

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court says two lower courts erred when they issued decisions restricting the rights of defendants in criminal trials. The court Tuesday overturned lower court decisions that had limited the access of a defendant to his lawyer and had barred defense counsel from seeing some prosecution notes.

The high court ruled that a defendant has a constitutional right to consult with his attorney during an overnight recess after giving testimony on which he will be cross-examined.

And, the court said, a prosecutor's notes on his interviews with a government witness, if approved by the witness, are subject to a demand by the defense to see them.

In another decision, the court ruled 5 to 3 that redistricting plans that improve political power of minorities may not be struck down under the Voting Rights Act on grounds that they do not go far enough, unless the new plan itself embodies constitutional violations.

The court also ruled that persons defrauded in securities transactions may not recover their losses from auditors who negligently fail to detect the fraud.

The decision on a defendant's conferences with his lawyer arose from the trial of John A. Gedeis in a federal court in Florida on marijuana charges. When the court recessed for the day immediately following Gedeis' testimony, the prosecutor asked the judge to order the defendant not to discuss the case overnight with anyone.

The judge granted the request over objections by Gedeis' lawyer. Gedeis was convicted and sentenced to three years in prison. The charges stemmed from an alleged conspiracy to fly marijuana into the country from Colombia.

Federal judges have broad power to keep witnesses under wraps in order to prevent them from being coached about what to say under cross-examination, the Supreme Court said. But it pointed out that Gedeis was "not simply a witness; he was also the defendant."

"Such recesses are often times of intensive work, with tactical decisions to be made and strategies to be reviewed," Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said for the court.

Gedeis' conviction was reversed on grounds that the order, which prevented him from consulting his lawyer "about anything" during the 17-hour recess, violated his constitutional right to counsel.

The court said other precautions could be taken to assure that the lawyer did not coach the witness.

Justice John Paul Stevens did not vote on the case because the court heard arguments on it before his appointment.

And, of course, he writes, but not enough, according to his fans and at least one publisher who has been waiting a decade for Schelhaus to accumulate enough of his poetry to bind up in one volume of respectable size.

At least four persons who witnessed the incident said Anliker had walked down the corridor to Lueth's office, pulled the gun from beneath his sport coat, said, "I got you" to Lueth and shot him, authorities said.

Police said the two men had known each other for about 20 years.

NYC Faces Transit Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The Transit Authority and its workers were reportedly locked in immovable positions over productivity issues today as talks continued to avert a midnight strike that could leave three million subway and bus riders stranded. "Things don't look good at all," said Mayor Abraham D. Beame as corporations booked blocks of hotel rooms for employees and the city made emergency plans to cope with a strike that could bring New York to a grinding halt. The 34,000 bus and subway workers are demanding cost-of-living raises and other increases for which the Transit Authority insists it has no money. Productivity gains — eliminating such things as paid lunch hours — could provide money for raises, the Transit Authority said. But the transit workers' union responded it would give up nothing won in past contracts. "The reality of the situation is that at the moment there is no answer," said State Mediation Board Chairman Vincent D. McDonnell.

City Employees Strike In Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some 1,900 city workers, faced with pay cuts, struck here early today, posting pickets at the municipal bus depot and shutting down service. The city immediately obtained a temporary restraining order against the strike by streetsweepers, electricians, carpenters and other building trades workers.

Mayor George Moscone said he hoped the court order would prevent disruptive picketing around city buildings, but there were indications other city unions that have accepted new contracts with the city would honor the picket lines.

The walkout could eventually affect more than 18,000 city workers, plus longshoremen who would probably honor the picket lines.

Policemen, firemen and the bus drivers themselves were not involved in the strike.

The city trade union workers ordered the pickets to march at 12:01 a.m. to protest pending pay cuts for workers in certain categories.

Fifteen minutes later, city officials told Superior Court Judge Henry Rolph the strike was illegal. He granted the temporary injunction. No union representatives were present.

But hours later pickets were still at the bus depot, and photographers at the scene said "nothing is moving, not a single bus."

Late Tuesday night, Mayor George Moscone told reporters that he could give no assurances that city buses would be running, hinting that citizens had better find other modes of transportation to work.

Later, Moscone said he hoped the court order would prevent disruptive picketing around city buildings today.

Strike leaders said they planned to expand the work stoppage to other public facilities, however, in hopes of finding widespread support from other workers.

The strike began shaping up Tuesday morning when the Board of Supervisors refused to join Moscone in an emergency declaration to suspend the April 1 deadline for passage of the 1976-77 pay ordinance.

As things stand, Moscone is required to sign or veto the salary ordinance by the Thursday deadline. Wage settlements already have been reached with unions representing 16,500 city workers, but the city has not yet signed contracts with another 1,900 workers — the building trades "crafts" unions such as electricians and carpenters.

So far, the settlements represent $2.3 million in salary hikes, but the remaining unions that have not signed are hotly denouncing wage cuts proposed by the board.

The board claims that voters' endorsement of a proposition last fall amounted to a vote to cut pay for plumbers, streetsweepers and other "crafts" groups back into line with annual pay for the same workers in private industry and other cities.

The unions are charging that the supervisors reneged last Monday on an agreement to move the pay deadline back to July 1, continue bargaining and, at the least, grant raises that come due in private industry, plus $1.20 hourly raises for the city's machinists.

The crafts workers say they

MAYOR MOSCONE
Tells of strike

stand to lose about $4.5 million in wages if they accept the board's offer.

The board's proposal would reduce carpenters from $21,800 a year to $17,240, electricians from $21,620 to $16,620, and streetsweepers from $17,300 to a range of $12,000 to $14,460.

Restrictions On Rights Barred

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court says two lower courts erred when they issued decisions restricting the rights of defendants in criminal trials. The court Tuesday overturned lower court decisions that had limited the access of a defendant to his lawyer and had barred defense counsel from seeing some prosecution notes.

The high court ruled that a defendant has a constitutional right to consult with his attorney during an overnight recess after giving testimony on which he will be cross-examined.

And, the court said, a prosecutor's notes on his interviews with a government witness, if approved by the witness, are subject to a demand by the defense to see them.

In another decision, the court ruled 5 to 3 that restricting plans that improve political power of minorities may not be struck down under the Voting Rights Act on grounds that they do not go far enough, unless the new plan itself embodies constitutional violations.

The court also ruled that persons defrauded in securities transactions may not recover their losses from auditors who negligently fail to detect the fraud.

The decision on a defendant's conferences with his lawyer arose from the trial of John A. Gedeers in a federal court in Florida on marijuana charges. When the court recessed for the day immediately following Gedeers' testimony, the prosecutor asked the judge to order the defendant not to discuss the case overnight with anyone.

The judge granted the request over objections by Gedeers' lawyer. Gedeers was convicted and sentenced to three years in prison. The charges stemmed from an alleged conspiracy to fly marijuana into the country from Colombia.

Federal judges have broad power to keep witnesses under wraps in order to prevent them from being coached about what to say under cross-examination, the Supreme Court said. But it pointed out that Gedeers was "not simply a witness; he was also the defendant."

"Such recesses are often times of intensive work, with tactical decisions to be made and strategies to be reviewed," Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said for the court.

Gedeers' conviction was reversed on grounds that the order, which prevented him from consulting his lawyer "about anything" during the 17-hour recess, violated his constitutional right to counsel.

The court said other precautions could be taken to assure that the lawyer did not coach the witness.

Justice John Paul Stevens did not vote on the case because the court heard arguments on it before his appointment.

1,043 Students Gone

DETROIT (AP) — A total of 1,043 students have left the city school system since a court-ordered desegregation plan went into effect Jan. 26, school officials reported Tuesday. School Superintendent Arthur Jefferson said 503 white students and 56 black students have left city public schools for private and parochial schools since busing began. Jefferson said 247 white students and 59 blacks have moved from the city to attend suburban public or private schools. An additional 178 students are staying out of school, Jefferson said. There was no racial breakdown on this category. The figures reflect all students who were enrolled in the Detroit school system on Jan. 26, when court-ordered busing in the city began. The figures do not reflect students who might have left the city before Jan. 26 to avoid busing. School enrollment in the city is 240,183. The Detroit system is 76.2 per cent black, up from 75.2 per cent in September, school officials said. White students make up 21.7 per cent of the city's enrollment, down from 22.8 per cent in September.

First Of Three

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The first of three budget-balancing measures Gov. William Milliken says he must have is headed for Milliken's desk. The House Tuesday approved 94-12 with immediate effect a measure allowing the state to borrow $20 million from the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund. Still before the House awaiting debate is a second bill allowing the state to borrow $50 million from the Veterans Trust Fund. A third bill, extending the fiscal year three months to Sept. 30, is stalled in the House Appropriations Committee. Budget Director Gerald Miller says this bill would bring the state an extra $90 million. A $280 million deficit has been projected for the fiscal 1975-76 budget. Last year Milliken ordered $124 million in spending cuts to chip away at that gap. But he says he needs the three-bill package to wipe out the deficit.

Fewer Medics In Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The number of private practice doctors in Michigan dropped in 1975 from previous years, according to the Michigan Health Council. The drop was the first to occur since World War II, said executive vice president John A. Doherty. American Medical Association figures showed 7,130 medical doctors in office-based practice in Michigan in January, 154 fewer than a year ago. Figures showed 1,390 general practitioners, a drop of 62. The number of osteopathic doctors also dropped by 14 from 2,281 last year. Doherty attributed the losses in part to the high cost of malpractice insurance, the new state single business tax and legislation requiring 50 hours of graduate medical education for Michigan physicians.

Handicapped Bill Gets Nod

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Senate on Tuesday approved a bill to protect the physically handicapped from discrimination in employment, housing and other areas of life. The bill, passed 32-0 and sent to the house, gives the Civil Rights Commission responsibility for investigating alleged discrimination against the handicapped. Under the measure, if a handicapped person meets the qualifications of a job and can attain performance levels required within a reasonable amount of time, that person must be given the same opportunity as other applicants for the post. Backers of this bill, sponsored by Sen. John Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, said the measure means the handicapped must be judged and accepted on ability.

Ross Field Grant Has Been Spent

The Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation Tuesday confirmed what has been going on for several years at Ross field.

The department announced that the Michigan Aeronautics Commission has granted Ross field $21,050 in state funds toward seven projects.

Ronald Mommany, airport manager, said the projects totaled $612,550, and all have been completed except for some land clearance in the east clear zone.

Other projects were security fencing, purchase of a fire-crash-rescue vehicle, fencing, land acquisition, lighting and pavement marking. Bulk of the costs was from federal funds disbursed by the state, Mommany said.

begin, but dissident Teamsters have threatened wildcat strikes if such a back-to-work order is imposed.

The labor secretary told reporters that a cost-of-living allowance is "certainly one of the more serious issues now."

Rank-and-file Teamsters lost some 50 cents hourly in 1974-75 wages because of a cost-of-living ceiling under the existing contract, according to union officials.

A key point in the talks with Trucking Employers Inc., representing 16,000 firms as the industry's bargaining agent, has been the Teamsters' demand of no ceiling in the next contract.

On other issues, the Teamsters now want $1.75 in hourly salary increases and an additional $17 a week in pension and health-welfare benefits over three years.

TEI has based its offer on 39-month figures, proposing increased benefits of $11 a week. Sources said the employers also have raised their wage-hike offer from 85 cents to $1 an hour.

Drivers earn from $7.18 to $7.33 an hour under the existing contract.

House Downs Bargaining By Employees

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House has turned thumbs down on collective bargaining for any state employees and defeated two proposed constitutional amendments on the question.

But supporters of the measures said they will ask to have the Tuesday votes reconsidered next week.

One unsuccessful measure, sponsored by Rep. Thaddeus Slopezyński, D-Detroit, would have extended collective bargaining rights to the State Police only. The other, sponsored by Rep. Joseph Young, D-Detroit, would have given these rights to all state employees.

The State Police say they rank 75th statewide in terms of salaries for law enforcement personnel.

Last week the secretary of the Michigan State Police Troopers Association, Carl Coats, said in a television interview that a strike by state troopers is "quite possible" if nothing is done to upgrade pay.

Proposed constitutional amendments require two-thirds legislative approval, plus voter approval at the polls.

The Michigan Constitution now prohibits collective bargaining for the state's 58,000 employees. Last month, the Civil Service Commission said it did not have the power to change that and that only the voters could do so by amending the Constitution.

The House voted 72-33 for the State Police proposal — two votes short of the 74 votes needed.

Representatives gave the other proposal only a 68-38 vote, six votes short of the necessary amount.

The House amended the State Police proposal before voting to delete a provision that would have let them resolve unsettled disputes through binding arbitration.

Gov. William Milliken has said he feels collective bargaining for Civil Service employees might undermine the merit system.

Rep. Roy Spencer, R-Allen, who opposed both measures, said "I think we should learn to work within the framework of the Civil Service."

If the measures are passed, Spencer said, "we'll be dealing in a game of leapfrog."

For example, he said, if State Police could bargain collectively, they might have salaries higher than some city policemen. City policemen and firemen now have collective bargaining with binding arbitration.

Spencer said that through binding arbitration local policemen could "leapfrog" their salaries using the State Police salaries for comparison. Several lawmakers who said they supported the concept of collective bargaining said they did not want to vote for the State Police proposal because they did not feel it was fair to single out one group.

The House amended both proposals to delete the commission's guarantee of receiving a sum fixed by formula for personnel services each fiscal year.

Instead, under the amendments, the legislature each year would determine independently how much the commission should get for personnel services. Some say this will make the Civil Service commission more accountable for its actions.

The Friars, a vocal octet of the University of Michigan's Men's Glee Club, will provide music on the lighter side during the Glee Club's concert Friday at 8 p.m. in St. Joseph high school auditorium.

The Friars' repertoire encompasses pop, rock, folk songs of today, timeless standards of yesteryear and a collection of unusual novelty numbers.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students through high school age and will be available at the box office the night of the concert or in advance by contacting Mrs. John Pielmeier, St. Joseph.

The Friars, who are celebrating their 20th anniversary, have appeared on CBS national television and sung at Rose Bowl functions. In recent years the group has performed at the 22nd Annual Congressional Dinner of the U-M Club of Washington, D.C., Carnegie Hall and with the Glee Club on concert tours of the East and West coasts.

Phil Smith, a graduate student at U-M and son of Dr. and Mrs. John Smith, Dowagiac, is a member of the Friars and, during his senior year, acted as business manager for the group.

The Glee club is the second oldest such club in America, having been organized in 1859, and has toured extensively throughout the United States and Europe and has made one round-the-world concert tour.

The Glee Club is composed of both graduate and undergraduate members from every college in the university.

Other area students in the Glee Club are: Fred Iamelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Iamelli, Coloma; Frank "Steep" Linn, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Linn, St. Joseph; and Michael Upton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Upton, St. Joseph.

Accompanist for the group will be Fred Welby, formerly of Buchanan.

Edwardsburg Woman Seeks Strang's Post

An Edwardsburg woman has become the latest candidate for the state legislator's seat now held by Republican DeForest Strang of Sturgis. Mrs. Dixie Almasi, 33, announced today that she is a Democratic candidate for the seat that the 74-year-old Strang has held for 10 years.

Three Republicans have also announced they are seeking their party's nomination in the August primary election.

Strang has not announced yet whether he intends to seek reelection to the 42nd district seat.

Mrs. Almasi and her husband, Richard, have four children. She works at CTS corporation in Elkhart, Ind., where she is also a union steward in UAW local 941.

She is also on the executive board of the Cass county Democratic committee and a delegate to the Democratic state central committee.

Republicans who have already announced they are seeking Strang's House seat are Paul Brady, 35, a superintendent at Essex International in Three Rivers where he lives; Fred R. Charlton, 62, Sturgis, a former city commissioner and for a brief time, an assistant to U.S. Congressman Edward Hutchinson (R-St. Joseph); and Denton VanDerWeele, 52, a

Area Policeman's Accused Slayer Jailed In Detroit

DETROIT — Richard Frederick Dixon, accused slayer of South Haven Patrolman Michael McAllister, was arraigned yesterday before U.S. Magistrate Barbara Hackell here on a federal charge of air piracy. A spokesman for the U.S. marshal's office in Detroit said Dixon stood mute to the charge and was returned to jail in Detroit where he is being held without bond. A plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

No trial date has been set on the air piracy charge stemming from the October, 1972 hijacking of a commercial airliner from Detroit to Cuba.

Allegan Prosecutor Fred "Rick" Hunter said today that a trial date for Dixon on the charge of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of McAllister has been tentatively set for May 10-13.

Dixon stood mute to the murder charge when arraigned Feb. 6 before Allegan Circuit Judge George Corsiglia. A plea of innocent was entered for him by the court at that time and he was ordered held without bond.

Judge Corsiglia last Friday approved admitting Chicago attorneys Michael Deutsch and Jeffrey Haas of the Peoples Law firm, Chicago, to represent Dixon on the murder charge, without Michigan co-counsel present.

Dixon, 35, formerly of Detroit, was arrested in the basement of a house about an hour after Patrolman McAllister was gunned down along North Shore drive, just north of South Haven in Allegan county the morning of Jan. 9.

The Friars, who are celebrating their 20th anniversary, have appeared on CBS national television and sung at Rose Bowl functions. In recent years the group has performed at the 22nd Annual Congressional Dinner of the U-M Club of Washington, D.C., Carnegie Hall and with the Glee Club on concert tours of the East and West coasts.

Phil Smith, a graduate student at U-M and son of Dr. and Mrs. John Smith, Dowagiac, is a member of the Friars and, during his senior year, acted as business manager for the group.

The Glee club is the second oldest such club in America, having been organized in 1859, and has toured extensively throughout the United States and Europe and has made one round-the-world concert tour.

The Glee Club is composed of both graduate and undergraduate members from every college in the university.

Other area students in the Glee Club are: Fred Iannelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Iannelli, Coloma; Frank "Skip" Linn, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Linn, St. Joseph; and Michael Upton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Upton, St. Joseph.

Accompanist for the group will be Fred Weldy, formerly of Buchanan.

Area Policeman's Accused Slayer Jailed In Detroit

DETROIT — Richard Frederick Dixon, accused slayer of South Haven Patrolman Michael McAllister, was arraigned yesterday before U.S. Magistrate Barbara Hackett here on a federal charge of air piracy. A spokesman for the U.S. marshal's office in Detroit said Dixon stood mute to the charge and was returned to jail in Detroit where he is being held without bond. A plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

No trial date has been set on the air piracy charge stemming from the October, 1972 hijacking of a commercial airliner from Detroit to Cuba.

Allegan Prosecutor Fred "Rick" Hunter said today that a trial date for Dixon on the charge of first degree murder in connection with the shooting death of McAllister has been tentatively set for May 10-13.

Dixon stood mute to the murder charge when arraigned Feb. 6 before Allegan Circuit Judge George Corsiglia. A plea of innocent was entered for him by the court at that time and he was ordered held without bond.

Judge Corsiglia last Friday approved admitting Chicago attorneys Michael Deutsch and Jeffrey Haas of the Peoples Law firm, Chicago, to represent Dixon on the murder charge, without Michigan co-counsel present.

Dixon, 35, formerly of Detroit, was arrested in the basement of a house about an hour after Patrolman McAllister was gunned down along North Shore drive, just north of South Haven in Allegan county the morning of Jan. 9.

MSU Slush Fund Major Reason For Stolz' Dismissal

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A slush fund in excess of $100,000 was the major reason behind the recent dismissal of Michigan State University football Coach Denny Stolz, according to the State News, the MSU student newspaper.

In a copyrighted story in today's editions, the newspaper said it had learned a slush fund has existed since the mid-1950's and has been used for the recruiting of athletes for the university.

Rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Association prohibit such funds.

Stolz was asked to resign March 16.

Quoting former members of the MSU athletic department, the State News said knowledge that a slush fund existed was presented to the university's Select Committee the week prior to Stolz' dismissal. The committee is investigating alleged wrongdoing in the Spartans' grid program.

Ken Erickson, an avid Spartan booster and the son-in-law of former MSU athletic director Burt Smith, was the person who revealed that a slush fund existed, one source told the newspaper.

"Ken was mad as hell at MSU for the way they got rid of Smith," said the unidentified source. "Burt heard of his removal from office indirectly and when Erickson found out about this he went to bat for Burt."

Smith's resignation was requested by MSU at the same time as Stolz', but Smith refused and turned the matter over to his lawyer. The matter is still pending.

Smith was eased out of his athletic director's post last October, however and reassigned as coordinator of special projects. No reason was given for MSU for that move.

Erickson is recovering from surgery and was unavailable for comment.

Erickson's wife, reached at her Brighton home Tuesday night, said in a telephone interview it was "totally inconceivable that he (Ken) would do something like that (talk to the Select Committee)."

"We were very upset at what happened to my father," Mrs. Erickson said. "Our recreation room is covered with program covers from MSU from the last 12 years. His concern for the school is a very intense one."

Mrs. Erickson said her husband has been hospitalized in Lansing since March 15 and in Detroit for 10 days prior to that.

Another source, also a former member of the Spartans' athletic staff, corroborated the story of the first, the student newspaper reported.

"Ken threatened the university that he would turn over all his evidence about the fund and he finally did it. He wanted Denny out of there," the second source told the newspaper.

"It (the fund) was begun during Duffy Daugherty's tenure as coach. The mechanism was set up then and continued into Stolz' career, but Denny really didn't have knowledge of the fund or its use," the source said.

The second source continued, "After the Century Club (an illegal fund-raising group whose discovery earned MSU two-year probation in the 1950's) fiasco, the boosters moved the basis of their operation to the Detroit area. They held gatherings at several restaurants around the city and the way the money was collected, it couldn't be traced. For example, someone would buy the liquor for the meeting and then donate it to the boosters," he said. "Only they didn't know this and a cash bar was set up where everybody paid for their drinks. But the money went into the fund."

The informant said another manner for collecting funds was through "raffles" which nobody ever won.

"Gifts, used equipment — that sort of thing — would be raffled. But nobody would ever receive the gifts. They would be donated back and raffled again. This type of set up made the money nearly impossible to trace. But I know that over $100,000 has been collected over the years," he said.

Erickson's disclosure of the fund and its uses by the football staff culminated a five-month disagreement between him and MSU, the source told the State News.

"Ken finally got fed up with MSU's handling of the affair and turned his books over to the Select Committee. After they looked at the fund's figures, every head coach in the department was called in and asked if they had anything to do with this. All the coaches passed (the committee's screening process)," the source said.

"Then Denny, Duffy and Burt went before that group, and Erickson had the goods, so Stolz was asked to resign," the source said. "What else could the university do?"

Smith, who denied any knowledge of the fund, said Tuesday night that he first met Erickson in 1971 and that his daughter, Kathy, married Erickson in 1974.

"We've never been close, socially, and to my knowledge Ken didn't make any threats or reveal any facts about any fund to the Select Committee," Smith said.

Assistant Big Ten Commissioner John Dewey refused to comment on the matter, saying, "We can't say anything about that until the investigation is complete."

McKay Drafts Son For Tampa

New Teams Stocked

NEW YORK — Tampa Bay's John McKay called it "just another day of recruiting." Seattle's Jack Patera called it "a numbers game." But the coaches of the National Football League's two expansion franchises finally have some players to put into their bright new uniforms.

Now it's a matter of seeing if these guys can get together, become teams instead of individuals and maybe win a few games.

As McKay put it: "It was just another day of recruiting. We'll go home now, sit down, put the players' names on a blackboard and say, 'Here they are, now what do we do?'"

"We picked a good basic roster and we got our share of good football players. Seattle did, too."

Or, as Patera, referring to the 26 teams that gave up the players to stock the Buccaneers and his Seahawks, said: "These teams have their own reasons for putting players up. At times you get into a numbers game."

What they have is 39 names apiece. More will come next week when the NFL conducts its annual collegiate draft.

But what kind of names do the Buccaneers and Seahawks have now? They have tested veterans (but are they over the hill?) and unproven youngsters (but will their promise ever be fulfilled?).

Each of the 26 veteran teams was permitted to protect 32 players in all. Each time a player was picked from the available list, that team was permitted to pull back another player and protect him. Eventually, each old club gave up three players.

Among the "name" players picked by Tampa Bay were McKay's son, J.K., a wide receiver with the University of Southern California when his dad was the Trojans' coach; former Southern Cal star running back Anthony Davis; Oakland running back Harold Hart and tight end Bob Moore, Miami linebacker Doug Swift (who says he's retiring to enter medical school), Kansas City safety Jim Kearney and Buffalo defensive end Pat Toomay.

Seattle gobbled up Baltimore linebacker Mike Curtis and running back Bill Olds, Miami tackle Norm Evans, Los Angeles linebacker Ken Geddes and cornerback Eddie McMillan, Pittsburgh defensive back Dave Brown and Detroit tight end John Makin. The Seahawks also picked the only two quarterbacks — New England's Neil Gaff and St. Louis' Gary Keithley.

Both Davis and the younger

McKay chose the World Football League over the NFL a year ago, each signing with the Southern California Sun before the Sun — and the entire WFL — sank slowly into bankruptcy.

Davis was the second-round selection by the New York Jets, McKay a 16th-round pick by the Cleveland Browns. When the WFL went under, both went north — Davis to the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, McKay to a coaching position at Oregon State University.

Davis is under contract to the Argos, but that doesn't seem to bother the elder McKay.

Reds' Coach Sets Lofty Goal For Nolan

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

If the New York Mets can't come to terms with 1975 Cy Young Award winner Tom Seaver, perhaps they can trade him to Cincinnati for 1976 Cy Young winner Gary Nolan.

What, you didn't know Nolan had won the 76 Young Award? Oh, it won't be announced officially until after the season; but pitching coach Larry Shepard of the Reds has set that as a goal for Nolan.

"Last year, I wanted Nolan to be Comeback Pitcher of the Year," Shepard said. But Seaver won that along with the Cy Young. "In my book he was. This year, my goal for him is the Cy Young Award."

Nolan's outing Tuesday didn't disappoint Shepard. The 28-year-old right-hander hurled three scoreless innings, allowing two hits and fanning three, as the Reds got home runs from Ken Griffey, Ed Arnsbrister and George Foster and trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 7-1.

Nolan, who missed the 1973 and 1974 seasons with shoulder problems, came back last year with a 15-9 record.

Luis Tiant, another former arm case who made it all the way back, allowed one run and four hits in five innings as the Boston Red Sox beat the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3.

COTTON FITZSIMMONS

Atlanta Players Surprised Over Fitzsimmons' Firing

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Atlanta Hawks' players expressed shock Tuesday night at Cotton Fitzsimmons' firing as head coach, adding they had known for some time he had planned to resign after the National Basketball Association season.

M.B. "Bud" Seretean, the Hawks' president and general manager, announced Fitzsimmons' dismissal in a short news release distributed just prior to the Hawks' 130-126 overtime defeat by the Milwaukee Bucks Tuesday night.

It was the Hawks' 11th successive defeat over-all and 18th in a row on the road. They had led the Central Division early in the season, winning 10 of their first 17 games, but are 11-33 since Jan. 1. They currently are 28-47 and doomed to a last place finish.

Gene Tormohlen, promoted from assistant coach to interim head coach, said he had been informed of the change while on a scouting trip Monday, but that club officials could not reach Fitzsimmons until Tuesday.

Fitzsimmons was named Hawks' coach in 1972 after having been the Phoenix Suns' coach two seasons. His over-all record with the Hawks was 112-134, and his six-year NBA record was 237-247.

Atlanta's best finish under Fitzsimmons was second in its division in 1972-73.

Injured Wilkerson 'Out' In Big Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Indiana's Bobby Wilkerson, head of Tuesday from his hospital bed, he didn't remember much about winning the national basketball championship.

The 21-year-old Wilkerson, a starting guard for the Hoosiers, suffered a cerebral concussion only two minutes and 43 seconds into Indiana's Monday night 86-68 victory over Michigan in the NCAA title game.

The 6-foot-7 Wilkerson was still woozy after spending the night at Temple University Hospital. "I remember now Coach (Bobby) Knight coming in last night and telling me that we won," Wilkerson said slowly.

He took a blow on the head from the elbow of Michigan's Wayman Britt as Britt drove for a layup. Wilkerson lay under the basket for several minutes, then was taken from the court on a stretcher. His face is swollen and he has a

Caps Top Red Wings In Game, Fight Vancouver Staggers To Tie

Going into Tuesday night's game against the California Seals, the Canucks were only one win out of sole possession of first place in the National Hockey League's Smythe Division. Maloney figured his club would come up big in front of a home crowd.

But Vancouver had to score a pair of goals with less than two minutes remaining to salvage a 4-4 tie against the Seals, the last-place club in the Adams division.

The Canucks now are tied with the Chicago Black Hawks for the lead in their division. Chicago has three games remaining and the Canucks have two.

In other games, Boston tied Buffalo 4-4. St. Louis dumped Minnesota 5-3. Washington beat Detroit 5-3 and Los Angeles outgunned Kansas City 8-6.

Don Lever and Dennis Verbergert scored within 24 seconds to give the Canucks their tie. Verbergert's tally came with just 1:15 remaining in the game.

Mike Walton and Bob Dalley completed Vancouver's scoring, while the Seals' marksmen were Charlie Stummer, Al MacAdam, Wayne Merriek and Fred Alern.

After their triumph in front of a surprised hometown crowd, Capitals Coach Tommy McVie said his club did all right in the game — and in the fights that delayed the contest by 25 minutes.

McVie said his club's pride is increasing and that it showed in the way they played. Eighty-six minutes in penalties were assessed after a third-period brawl emptied both benches.

Mike Larquan scored two unassisted goals to lead Washington to its 10th victory of the season, with a pair being added by Gerry Meehan.

Reine Robert, Rick Martin and Gil Perreault scored for the Sabres.

Two goals by defenseman Bruce Affleck lifted St. Louis over Minnesota. Rookie Tim Young scored his 17th goal of the year to give the North Stars a brief early lead.

Tom Williams scored three times in the Kings' win over the Scouts. It was the 24th consecutive winless contest for Kansas City, one short of the NHL record of 26 games without a win set by Washington earlier this season.

K-Wings Fall In Overtime

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pat DeMarchi and Brian Derksen scored first-period goals just 38 seconds apart Tuesday night and the Muskegon Mullys skated to a 4-3 victory over Saginaw in the first game of their best-of-seven quarterfinal series of the International Hockey League's Turner Cup Playoffs.

In Dayton, Bill Riley scored the winning goal at 8:34 into an overtime period to give the Gems a 3-2 victory over Kalamazoo in the southern division playoffs. It was the first game in the best-of-seven-games series.

Meanwhile, Robbie Laird rifled three goals as the Ft. Wayne Komets beat the Toledo Gullbangers, 8-5.

Ian McPhee slammed in three goals for the losers.

Tiger Boxers Post 3 Wins

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Benton Harbor's boxing team posted three wins in four events Sunday in a meet with South Bend.

Sam Williams posted a third-round TKO over South Bend's Joe McDaniels. Bennett Moore collected a unanimous decision over Charles Parker of Elkhart. Jo Jo Wilburn also gained a unanimous decision over South Bend's Frank Knight.

The only Benton Harbor loser was Robert Smith, who dropped a split decision to South Bend's Dave Brintley.

Benton Harbor will face Kendallville, Ind. at 7:30 p.m. April 17 at Lake Michigan College.

AAU State Swim Championships held over the weekend at Royal Oak.

Worthington, swimming in the 15-18 division, won the 100 butterfly in 54.2 seconds. He was also third in the 200 backstroke, fifth in the 200 individual medley, 10th in the 1000 freestyle and 11th in the 100 freestyle.

In relay competition, Worthington teamed with Tim Munany, Randy Chiuery and TomStarks for a fifth in the 800 freestyle, sixth in the 400 freestyle and ninth in the 400 medley.

The other Aquatics swimmer placing in the top three was Mike Kolenda with a second in the 50 freestyle and a third in the 50 butterfly in the 11-12 class.

Other Aquatics placing were Dave Johnson, James Grandy, Tim Bambrick, Charlie Grandy, Peter Song, Blair Bowser, Dave Song, Kevin Brown, Dave Worthington, Sean Bambrick and Chris Munany.

Wiese Tops SAC All-League Team

Kurt Wiese, Decatur's 6-4 hot shooting guard, was the only repeat selection on this season's Southwestern Athletic Conference all-league team announced today by the conference coaches.

The junior won the league scoring battle with a 17.8 average and field a 21.6 average overall. He helped the Raiders post a 22-3 mark, including a district championship.

Decatur also landed Jim Overley, a 5-11 senior, on the first team. Overley held a 13.5 league average and 12.0 overall mark.

Marcellus, which tied Decatur for the league title at 11-1, placed 6-4 junior Lonnie Lewis and 6-0 junior Steve Bradley on the elite team. Lewis led the Wildcats in scoring with a 13.8 conference average while Bradley was the number two man at 13.1. Lewis also averaged 10.5 rebounds per game and hit 37 per cent from the floor.

The other first team member is Robert Vandenberg, a 6-2 senior from Martin. Vandenberg averaged 12.8 in 12 league games for the Clippers and pulled down 12 rebounds per game.

While three of the five first-team members are juniors, four of the second team cagers are three-year players. Just Goldman Greene of Bloomingdale is a senior while John Lopley of Lawton, Marcellus' Dave Mason, Steve Groendyk of Decatur and Lawrence's Jim Mason are juniors.

Caps Top Red Wings In Game, Fight Vancouver Staggers To Tie

Going into Tuesday night's game against the California Seals, the Canucks were only one win out of sole possession of first place in the National Hockey League's Smythe Division. Maloney figured his club would come up big in front of a home crowd.

But Vancouver had to score a pair of goals with less than two minutes remaining to salvage a 4-4 tie against the Seals, the last-place club in the Adams division.

The Canucks now are tied with the Chicago Black Hawks for the lead in their division. Chicago has three games remaining and the Canucks have two.

In other games, Boston tied Buffalo 4-4; St. Louis dumped Minnesota 5-3; Washington beat Detroit 5-3 and Los Angeles outgunned Kansas City 8-6.

Don Lever and Dennis Ver-vergaert scored within 24 seconds to give the Canucks their tie. Ververgaert's tally came with just 1:15 remaining in the game.

Mike Walton and Bob Dailey completed Vancouver's scoring, while the Seals' marksmen were Charlie Simmer, Al MacAdam, Wayne Merrick and Fred Ahern.

After their triumph in front of a surprised hometown crowd, Capitals Coach Tommy McVie said his club did all right in the game — and in the fights that delayed the contest by 25 minutes.

McVie said his club's pride is increasing and that it showed in the way they played. Eighty-six minutes in penalties were assessed after a third-period brawl emptied both benches.

Mike Lampman scored two unassisted goals to lead Washington to its 10th victory of the season, with a pair being added by Gerry Meehan.

Jean Ratelle collected his 34th goal and a pair of assists to top the 100-point mark for the second time in his career, leading the Bruins to their 19th consecutive game without a loss on home ice.

Rene Robert, Rick Martin and Gil Perreault scored for the Sabres.

Two goals by defenseman Bruce Affleck lifted St. Louis over Minnesota. Rookie Tim Young scored his 17th goal of the year to give the North Stars a brief early lead.

Tom Williams scored three times in the Kings' win over the Scouts. It was the 24th consecutive winless contest for Kansas City, one short of the NHL record of 25 games without a win set by Washington earlier this season.

K-Wings Fall In Overtime

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pat DeMarchi and Brian Derksen scored first-period goals just 38 seconds apart Tuesday night and the Muskegon Mohawks skated to a 4-3 victory over Saginaw in the first game of their best-of-seven quarterfinal series of the International Hockey League's Turner Cup Playoffs.

In Dayton, Bill Riley scored the winning goal at 6:34 into an overtime period to give the Gems a 3-2 victory over Kalamazoo in the southern division playoffs. It was the first game in the best-of-seven-games series.

Meanwhile, Robbie Laird rifled three goals as the Ft. Wayne Komets beat the Toledo Goaldiggers, 9-5.

Ian McPhee slammed in three goals for the losers.

Worthington Tops In AAU Swimming

John Worthington of the St. Joseph Aquatics club captured a first place in the Michigan

Tiger Boxers

Post 3 Wins

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Benton Harbor's boxing team posted three wins in four events Sunday in a meet with South Bend.

Sam Williams posted a third-round TKO over South Bend's Joe McDaniels. Bennett Moore collected a unanimous decision over Charles Parker of Elkhart. Jo Jo Wilburn also gained a unanimous decision over South Bend's Frank Knight.

The only Benton Harbor loser was Robert Smith, who dropped a split decision to South Bend's Dave Brintley.

Benton Harbor will face Kendallville, Ind. at 7:30 p.m. April 17 at Lake Michigan College.

AAU State Swim Championships held over the weekend at Royal Oak.

Worthington, swimming in the 15-18 division, won the 100 butterfly in 54.2 seconds. He was also third in the 200 backstroke, fifth in the 200 individual medley, 10th in the 1650 freestyle and 11th in the 100 freestyle.

In relay competition, Worthington teamed with Tim Momany, Randy Chimery and TomStarks for a fifth in the 800 freestyle, sixth in the 400 freestyle and ninth in the 400 medley.

The other Aquatics swimmer placing in the top three was Mike Kolenda with a second in the 50 freestyle and a third in the 50 butterfly in the 11-12 class.

Wiese Tops SAC All-League Team

Kurt Wiese, Decatur's 6-1 hot shooting guard, was the only repeat selection on this season's Southwestern Athletic Conference all-league team announced today by the conference coaches.

The junior won the league scoring battle with a 17.8 average and held a 21.6 average overall. He helped the Raiders post a 22-3 mark, including a district championship.

Decatur also landed Jim Overley, a 5-11 senior, on the first team. Overley held a 13.5 league average and 12.0 overall mark.

Marcellus, which tied Decatur for the league title at 11-1, placed 6-1 junior Lonnie Lewis and 6-0 junior Steve Bradley on the elite team. Lewis led the Wildcats in scoring with a 13.8 conference average while Bradley was the number two man at 13.1. Lewis also averaged 10.3 rebounds per game and hit 57 per cent from the floor.

The other first team member is Robert Vandenberg, a 6-2 senior from Martin. Vandenberg averaged 12.8 in 12 league games for the Clippers and pulled down 12 rebounds per game.

While three of the five first-team members are juniors, four of the second team cagers are three-year players. Just Goldman Greene of Bloomingdale is a senior while John Lepley of Lawton, Marcellus' Dave Mason, Steve Groendyk of Decatur and Lawrence's Jim Mason are juniors.

WMU's Dilley Stars In Costly Scrimmage

KALAMAZOO — Tight end Dennis Dilley, a senior-to-be from St. Joseph, was a standout in Western Michigan's spring football scrimmage last Saturday.

But the scrimmage was a costly one for the Broncos, who lost their first string quarterback Pepper Powers — a former Marcellus high school standout — and starting guard Bill Ingraham with injuries.

After the scrimmage, Uzelac cited the "fine improvement on the part of tight end Dennis Dilley." Dilley was a starter last year and earned "most improved" honors at the end of the season.

Meanwhile, Powers and Ingraham suffered a broken ankle and a knee injury, respectively, and will be out the balance of spring drills.

Junior-to-be Dan Memmen of Waukegan, Ill., will now move to the No. 1 signal calling spot with freshman Kevin Kahl of Crown Point, Ind., as the backup, while another freshman, Muskegon's Lou Kollar, takes over Ingraham's guard post.

The event, sponsored by the Lawton Lions Club, will be held 2.1 miles east of the Lawton bank. There will be admission prices of $2 for spectators and $3 for racers. Children under 12 with adults will be admitted free.

More information may be obtained by calling 824-3721.

Hot McAdoo Burns Boston

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Neither contingent was what you expect the Boston Celtics to be as the Buffalo Braves rode the hot hand of Bob McAdoo to a 93-83 victory and moved into sole possession of second place in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division, one-half game ahead of the Philadelphia.

In other action, the Phoenix Suns flattened the New York Knicks 113-97, the Cleveland Cavaliers downed the Houston Rockets 95-86, the Milwaukee Bucks shaded Atlanta 136-126 in overtime after the Hawks fired Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, the Portland Trail Blazers tipped the Kansas City Kings 114-113 and the Golden State Warriors topped the Chicago Bulls 94-94.

McAdoo hit his first four shots en route to a 29-point performance and got Buffalo off to a flying start against Boston. He finished with 13-for-24 shooting after connecting on five of six shots and scoring 12 points in the opening period, pacing Buffalo to a 25-16 lead. It was 49-40 at halftime and the Celtics, who have clinched the Atlantic Division crown, played most of the second half with their top five players — Havlicek, Cowens, Scott, White and Paul Silas — on the bench.

Stacom was high for the Celtics with 12 points, Scott had 11 and Silas 10, the only Boston players in double figures. Paul Westphal scored 29 points to lead surging Phoenix to its seventh consecutive victory while mathematically eliminating the Knicks from the playoffs for the first time since 1966. By winning, Phoenix gained sole possession of second place in the Pacific Division.

Campy Russell scored seven points to keep Cleveland alive in a slow-moving fourth quarter. The Cavaliers trail Washington by one game in the Central Division and need one more victory — or a loss by the Rockets — to make the playoffs for the first time in their history.

Rhodes Smith scored four of his 31 points in overtime as the Bucks beat Atlanta in Game Turmohlen's first game as the Hawks' interim coach. Cotton Fitzsimmons was fired shortly before the game.

Sidney Wicks scored the last five of his game-high 34 points in the final two minutes to give Portland a sweep of the five-game series between the two teams, the first in their six-year history.

Kick Barry and Phil Smith led a fourth-quarter charge that enabled the Warriors to win their 55th game of the year.

Marshall Goes To Court

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Arguments will be heard tonight in a suit filed by Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Mike Marshall, charging harassment by Michigan State University in a dispute about the men's intramural building.

Marshall's complaint accused the university of arbitrarily changing its rules about the baseball player's use of the building for pitching practice. He asked for a permanent injunction against such changes in the future.

Marshall is expected to attend the hearing in the courtroom of Ingham County Circuit Judge

Ray Hotchkiss.

The pitcher, who is studying for a physiology doctorate at MSU, contends an agreement several years ago gives him an automatic reservation time to use the building and pitching net in the intramural building.

But, he claims, university officials advised him by letter last month that because of overcrowding, the rules had been changed and he must now reserve space a day in advance like everyone else.

Marshall asked Judge Hotchkiss to issue a preliminary injunction ordering the university to restore the original agreement and bar the university permanently from changing rules "arbitrarily" without due process and a "fair play" hearing.

Earlier, MSU had filed a complaint against Marshall, and he was arraigned on four misdemeanor counts charging him with trespassing, disrupting a scheduled tennis game and two counts of malicious destruction of university property.

Marshall stood mute to the charges, and a June 15 pre-trial hearing was set in East Lansing District Court.

Hot McAdoo Burns Boston

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Neither contingent was what you expect the Boston Celtics to be as the Buffalo Braves rode the hot hand of Bob McAdoo to a 93-83 victory and moved into sole possession of second place in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division, one-half game ahead of idle Philadelphia.

In other action, the Phoenix Suns flattened the New York Knicks 113-97, the Cleveland Cavaliers downed the Houston Rockets 95-86, the Milwaukee Bucks shaded Atlanta 130-126 in overtime after the Hawks fired Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, the Portland Trail Blazers nipped the Kansas City Kings 114-113 and the Golden State Warriors topped the Chicago Bulls 94-84.

McAdoo hit his first four shots en route to a 29-point performance and got Buffalo off to a flying start against Boston. He finished with 13-for-24 shooting after connecting on five of six shots and scoring 12 points in the opening period, pacing Buffalo to a 25-16 lead. It was 49-40 at halftime and the Celtics, who have clinched the Atlantic Division crown, played most of the second half with their top five players — Havlicek, Cowens, Scott, White and Paul Silas — on the bench.

Stacom was high for the Celtics with 12 points, Scott had 11 and Silas 10, the only Boston players in double figures.

Paul Westphal scored 29 points to lead surging Phoenix to its seventh consecutive victory while mathematically eliminating the Knicks from the playoffs for the first time since 1966. By winning, Phoenix gained sole possession of second place in the Pacific Division.

Campy Russell scored seven points to keep Cleveland alive in a slow-moving fourth quarter. The Cavaliers trail Washington by one game in the Central Division and need one more victory — or a loss by the Rockets — make the playoffs for the first time in their history.

Elmore Smith scored four of his 31 points in overtime as the Bucks beat Atlanta in Gene Tormohlen's first game as the Hawks' interim coach. Cotton Fitzsimmons was fired shortly before the game.

Sidney Wicks scored the last five of his game-high 34 points in the final two minutes to give Portland a sweep of the five-game series between the two teams, the first in their six-year history.

Rick Barry and Phil Smith led a fourth-quarter charge that enabled the Warriors to win their 55th game of the year.

Marshall Goes To Court

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Arguments will be heard tonight in a suit filed by Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Mike Marshall, charging harassment by Michigan State University in a dispute about the men's intramural building.

Marshall's complaint accused the university of arbitrarily changing its rules about the baseball player's use of the building for pitching practice. He asked for a permanent injunction against such changes in the future.

Marshall is expected to attend the hearing in the courtroom of Ingham County Circuit Judge

Ray Hotchkiss.

The pitcher, who is studying for a physiology doctorate at MSU, contends an agreement several years ago gives him an automatic reservation time to use the hitting and pitching net in the intramural building.

But, he claims, university officials advised him by letter last month that because of overcrowding, the rules had been changed and he must now reserve space a day in advance like everyone else.

Marshall asked Judge Hotchkiss to issue a preliminary injunction ordering the university to restore the original agreement and bar the university permanently from changing rules "arbitrarily" without due process and a "fair play" hearing.

Earlier, MSU had filed a complaint against Marshall, and he was arraigned on four misdemeanor counts charging him with trespassing, disrupting a scheduled tennis game and two counts of malicious destruction of university property.

Marshall stood mute to the charges, and a June 15 pre-trial hearing was set in East Lansing District Court.

SAVE $41 TO $62 per set of four Goodyear 'POLYSTEEL' RADIALS

You've seen them advertised on TV — Custom Polysteel® radials are built to help avoid hydroplaning — a loss of control that can occur when tires ride up on a slippery film of water instead of the road. Eight wide tread grooves channel the water through, instead of letting it build up. With 'Polysteel', you get gas-saving radial construction too — steel cord belts for handling stability, polyester cord body for ride. Buy now and save.

Angels Switch To Power Attack

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — California's Angels tried the speed concept a year ago and their rabbits met the same misfortune as the fabled hare against the tortoise. So now they're going to power.

The Angels stole bases in 1975 but finished last in the American League West.

This time General Manager Harry Dalton has gone to the trading marts and landed outfielder Bobby Bonds from the New York Yankees and third baseman Bill Melton from the Chicago White Sox.

Both were acquired during an eight-hour period last Dec. 11 and last season the two accounted for 47 home runs, only eight fewer than the entire Angel squad.

To get Bonds and Melton, the Angels gave up Mickey Rivers, the league stolen base leader with 70 swipes, 16-game winning pitcher Ed Figueroa, outfielder Morris Nettles and former 20-game winner Bill Singer. The latter was sent to Texas for Jim Spencer who then was used in the Melton trade.

Now Manager Dick Williams, who didn't worry about starting pitchers a year ago, must assemble a new rotation. He also has to settle on a shortstop.

For pitching he has 22-year-old left-hander Frank Tanana, a 16-game winner last year who was the major league strikeout king with 208.

Right-hander Nolan Ryan, beset with arm miseries a year ago, underwent surgery to remove bone chips from his elbow after an injury shortened 14-12 record last season when he lost his three-year strikeout crown to Tanana.

A wide open battle exists for the remaining spots. Don Kirkwood, the bullpen-leader a year ago with seven saves, bids to become a starter. So do Steve Dunning and Gary Ross who were top pitchers last season in the American Association and Pacific Coast League respectively.

Other candidates include Dick Lange, Gary Wheelock from the Salt Lake City roster and Andy Hassler who went from the league's third best ERA in 1974 to a 4-12 record last year.

Andy Etchebarren, the veteran catcher, gets the shot to be the starter. Another veteran, Ed Herrmann, could win the job. The Angels bought him from the Yankees.

Shortstop is a battle between youngsters Mike Miley, Orlando Ramirez and Billy Smith. All saw action with the Angels at times during 1975.

In addition, to Melton, Williams has young infield talent in Bruce Buchte at first, Jerry Remy at second and Dave Chalk at third. Remy is 23, Buchte and Chalk each 25.

Bonds will open in right field, with Lee Stanton, the club's top power man of 1975 with 14 home runs and 82 RBI moving to either center or left.

Dave Collins and Rusty Torres battle for the third starting spot. Torres, who has had trials with New York and Cleveland, batted .306 at Salt Lake and .206 with the Angels last year.

Joe Lahoud and Adrian Garret, both left-handed hitters, provide bench strength and the Angels acquired first base candidate Ed Karpis from Detroit. Dan Briggs and Gil Flores each hit better than .300 at Salt Lake City.

Experience And Trades Should Make Phils Stronger

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — All of major sports' All-Star games, were scheduled for Philadelphia this Bicentennial year, so why not the National League playoffs and maybe even the World Series?

"Why not indeed," agrees Manager Danny Ozark of the Philadelphia Phillies. Ozark has a team he believes capable of winning the National League East, the playoffs and the World Series.

The Phillies battled the Pittsburgh Pirates into the last week of the 1975 season before being eliminated from the East Division race. Ozark figures the additional year of experience for his club, especially the young pitchers, plus two offseason trades, should be enough to end the Pirates' domination of the division.

Phillies personnel director Paul Owens acquired 20-game winner Jim Kaat from the Chicago White Sox and right-hander Ron Reed from the St. Louis Cardinals without giving up a regular player. Reed won 13 games for Atlanta and St. Louis.

Along with Reed and Kaat, the Phillies have, as starters, Steve Carlton, a 15-game winner last year despite a sore elbow; Tommy Underwood, a 14-game winner as a rookie; Larry Christenson, who won 11 after being recalled from Toledo of the International League; and Jim Lonborg, who won eight before succumbing to an injured shoulder from which he has recovered.

The Phillies appear solid in the bullpen with Tug McGraw and Gene Garber, each with 14 saves in 1975, and Tom Hugenford, a tough long and short reliever. The fight for the 10th spot on the staff is among Ron Schueler, Wayne Twitchell and John Montague.

Ozark has an infield with power on each end and speed and bunt consistency in the middle. Mike Schmidt at third hit 38 home runs to lead the major for the second straight year. And at first, Dick Allen, healthy and sharp, is banging the ball in the old Allen lap measure style.

Shortstop Larry Bowa and second baseman Dave Cash produced 391 hits between them, each averaging .305, the first keystone combination to hit over .300 since 1948. Defensively the unit is among the league's best.

The outfield is led by Greg Luzinski, who topped the league with 120 RBI in 1975, hit an even .300 and had 34 homers. Garry Maddox, a Golden Glove winner, is in center field. Jay Johnstone (.329), Ollie Brown (.300) and the recently acquired Bobby Tolan are available in right field.

If the Phillies have a weakness, it would appear to be in the catching department. Bob Boone is an excellent receiver but hit only .246, and often was at odds with Ozark.

Johnny Oates hit .282, but is not rated highly as a receiver and handler of pitchers. Since

Candidates Are 'In The Dark'

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — It was unclear Tuesday what campaign finance laws will regulate Michigan political candidates in this year's elections.

In other areas besides finance, an Ingham County Circuit Court judge said the overturning of Michigan's new political ethics law leaves the state under several old laws which experts say do little to regulate political activity.

Judge Donald Reisig said older laws will govern in the areas of conflict of interest and other issues, including the 1973 law establishing a board of ethics. But he did not rule on what campaign finance laws apply.

Reisig's order followed a ruling by the state Supreme Court that the new political reform law passed last year was unconstitutional.

The court made the ruling on Monday in an advisory opinion requested by the state House. On Tuesday, Reisig followed that ruling by entering a judgment in favor of those challenging the reform law in his court.

The court suit was filed by local officials and lobbyist groups which protested sections of the new law requiring disclosure of financial interests by public officials and reporting of expenditures by lobbyists.

Reisig had blocked the implementation of the law — due Wednesday — until the Supreme Court had a chance to rule.

Reisig said his action confirms the Supreme Court ruling of the day before. But he did not rule on the fate of the 1974 campaign reform law.

Meanwhile, the attorney general's office began studying which law would take effect now that the 1974 reform law was overturned. Some observers felt the 1974 law would fill the void.

While the 1975 reform law included such issues as partial public funding of gubernatorial campaigns, financial disclosure, lobbyist regulation and campaign funding, the 1974 law dealt only with campaign financing.

Senate Panel Wants State To Pay

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to reimburse local governments for the cost of the May 18 presidential primary was approved by a Senate committee Tuesday in an effort to meet legal challenges to the election.

The bill was reported to the full Senate by a 9-0 vote in the Appropriations Committee. It would commit the state to pay the cost of the presidential primary vote. But the state would not have to pay the cost of local issues which are on the same ballot.

Meanwhile, the state Court of Appeals began considering a legal challenge to the primary. The attorney general has appealed to the court a circuit court restraining order blocking the election. Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Ray Hotchkiss last week issued the order, directing local clerks to halt preparation of ballots and spending public funds for the primary.

Hotchkiss indicated his final decision whether to lift the order or issue a permanent injunction against the primary depended in large part on whether the legislature agreed to pay the cost as it did in 1972.

The bill approved in committee Tuesday does not contain actual dollars — that would be inserted in the 1976-77 budget. But the cost is expected to be more than $2 million. Local officials filed suit challenging the primary, arguing the state could not direct them to hold the election and then order them to pay for it.

Appropriations committee members discussed putting a maximum "cap" on the money to be spent, to prevent local governments from "getting a free ride" on local issues placed on the ballot. Such language may be added on the Senate floor.

The House already has before it a reimbursement bill, but has postponed further consideration until April 27. That delay was criticized by Hotchkiss when he issued his restraining order. Gov. William Milliken said last week he opposes full state funding of the primary, and said he hoped some "cost-sharing" arrangement could be worked out with local units of government.

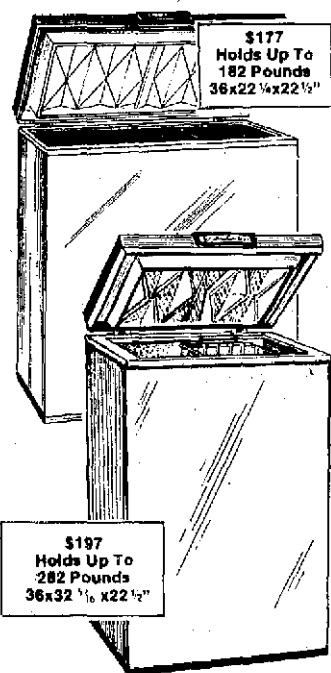

Officials at the Court of Appeals, meanwhile, said it was not known when a three-judge panel would rule on Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley's request for leave to appeal Hotchkiss' order. Kelley also sought immediate consideration of the case, a stay of the restraining order and the takeover of the entire case by the appeals court.

Legislation On Charities Advances

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has approved legislation exempting several types of charitable organizations, including various service clubs, from the state's charitable organizations law.

The law requires organizations raising money by charity to register with the state and obtain a license. They also are required to make various reports about their fund-raising activities and how they spend the money.

The law was passed in an attempt to get at fly-by-night and fraudulent charities which have been set up to bilk the public. But several groups protested the requirements of the law and rules established by the attorney general's office.

The bill, passed 36-0 by the Senate on Tuesday and returned to the House, would exempt from the law's provisions service clubs, veterans organizations, hospitals and groups raising less than $8,000 a year through charity.

It also would exempt organizations which benefit from charity dollars but do not raise money themselves — such as a facility getting money from the United Way.

Candidates Are 'In The Dark'

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — It was unclear Tuesday what campaign finance laws will regulate Michigan political candidates in this year's elections.

In other areas besides finance, an Ingham County Circuit Court judge said the overturning of Michigan's new political ethics law leaves the state under several old laws which experts say do little to regulate political activity.

Judge Donald Reisig said older laws will govern in the areas of conflict of interest and other issues, including the 1973 law establishing a board of ethics. But he did not rule on what campaign finance laws apply.

Reisig's order followed a ruling by the state Supreme Court that the new political reform law passed last year was unconstitutional.

The court made the ruling on Monday in an advisory opinion requested by the state House. On Tuesday, Reisig followed that ruling by entering a judgment in favor of those challenging the reform law in his court.

The court suit was filed by local officials and lobbyist groups which protested sections of the new law requiring disclosure of financial interests by public officials and reporting of expenditures by lobbyists.

Reisig had blocked the implementation of the law — due Wednesday — until the Supreme Court had a chance to rule.

Reisig said his action confirms the Supreme Court ruling of the day before. But he did not rule on the fate of the 1974 campaign reform law.

Meanwhile, the attorney general's office began studying which law would take effect now that the 1975 reform law was overturned. Some observers felt the 1974 law would fill the void.

Ex-FTC Chief Would Reduce Federal Agencies

By PIET BENNETT
Associated Press Writer
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — For the first time since his college days, Lewis Engman is on the campaign trail.

Michigan Republican primary for the U.S. Senate because "I came to the conclusion there were some problems that were best or only addressed by Congress."

He speaks of cynicism and alienation from government because "the process for some reason isn't open enough. Government hasn't been doing a very good job. America is no longer a fair society."

After nearly five years in Washington, Engman insists, "I think it's important to open up every system and that was what I tried to do at the FTC. It's a healthy thing to have somebody looking over your shoulder. Otherwise, we tend to get a little lazy and self-satisfied."

He says the Nixon Administration toppled because it was "too much of a closed society, which tends to get people in trouble whether they're in business or in government or anywhere else."

Despite being one of the principle aides to Nixon advisor John Ehrlichman, Engman says, "I went through the whole Watergate business without being tainted by it. In fact, I had nothing to do with and knew nothing about it. My whole area of involvement was in the economic area."

With his background in economics, including graduate work at the London School of Economics before obtaining a law degree, Engman believes lack of business competition is one reason for the current cynicism among voters.

"It's one of the things that is sort of causing the cynicism because people have a feeling that somehow the regulated industry is sort of in bed with the regulators...and the public takes what is left."

Betty Sees Book As 'Fiction'

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford says she believes a controversial new book on Richard M. Nixon's last days in the White House will eventually be regarded as fiction, not fact.

Mrs. Ford also said portions of "The Final Days," by Washington Post reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein, "could have been omitted."

"I have a great deal of sympathy not only for Mrs. Nixon but for the whole family," Mrs. Ford commented during an appearance in New York Monday.

"I feel badly that things that are in the past and gone are still coming out."

The book claims that both Nixon and his wife drank heavily during the Watergate scandal that led to Nixon's resignation in August 1974. It also depicts a distraught, suicidal Nixon on the eve of his departure who wept during a meeting with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and pounded the carpet as he asked, "What have I done? What has happened?"

Kissinger said Monday that excerpts he has seen from the book were distorted and insensitive.

These excerpts "contain too much gossip, too many inaccuracies, distortions and misrepresentations to be dealt with," Kissinger said through a spokesman. He added that they show "an indecent lack of compassion and lack of essential human understanding on the part of the authors."

The spokesman said Kissinger was not a source for the book, but the secretary acknowledged he and an aide were interviewed by the authors.

Charles Colson, a former Nixon aide who served seven months in jail for obstructing justice in the Daniel Ellsberg case, said in Dallas, "I don't believe Mr. Nixon was the kind of man who could lose control of himself." Nixon "never drank to excess," Colson added.

Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, who also served in Nixon's cabinet, said in Sacramento, Calif., he did not know whether the allegations about Nixon's behavior were true.

He said he was disturbed about any accounts based on rumor, but he said he does not know if "The Final Days" falls into that category.

So, he advocates dropping some federal agencies as part of an overall cutback in federal spending. "There's a lot of fat all around," he says. "I think you can squeeze almost everywhere."

Engman also staunchly opposes installation of Project Seafarer until questions about its safety are resolved. The U.S. Navy has the Upper Peninsula as one site under consideration for the proposed Project Seafarer, a controversial underground antenna system that would be used to contact submerged submarines.

Engman left a lucrative partnership in one of Grand Rapids' major law firms to go to Washington because of a belief the governmental process required "an interest."

"If we don't take an interest in it, we aren't in a very good position to complain about the things that happen when we don't like it," he says.

But those years in Washington cost the fruit grower's son money which might have financed his campaign. "I don't have a lot of financial

Famed Rail Names Lost In Corporate Reorganization

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — When seven financially weak railroads are merged into a new government-backed railroad today in the largest corporate reorganization in U.S. history, such well-known railroads as the Penn Central and the Erie Lackawanna will cease operating.

The other carriers whose names will disappear are the Reading (of Monopoly game fame), the Central of New Jersey, Lehigh and Hudson River, Lehigh Valley and the Ann Arbor.

Taking their place is a railroad known as Consolidated Rail Corp., or ConRail, a private corporation supported by a government investment of nearly $2.1 billion. ConRail will be the largest railroad in the nation in terms of revenues and the second largest in terms of route miles.

A special three-judge federal reorganization court began signing the numerous legal documents necessary for the takeover Tuesday and was scheduled to complete its work today. The actual change of ownership was to take place at midnight tonight.

However, legal battles are expected to continue for several years over the value of the property taken over by ConRail. The reorganization will culminate more than a year and a half of government planning and substantially change the pattern of rail freight service in 17 states in the Northeast and Midwest.

The new railroad will own a streamlined route system 37,000 miles in length. It also will operate its trains over another 3,100 miles of uneconomic routes under federal and local subsidy agreements. About 3,000 miles of track now owned by the seven carriers will be abandoned. In addition, 19 private railroads and several states in the Northeast and Midwest have purchased sections of track owned by the seven ailing railroads and will start operating those new routes Thursday. It will employ about 100,000 workers, or nearly one-fourth of all railroad workers in the United States. The seven railroads had about 103,000 employees. The new railroad's planner, the U.S. Railway Association, is predicting a bright future for the new corporation and says the line could have a large and favorable impact on the nation's economy. USRA, a federal agency created to plan and oversee the reorganization process, has predicted ConRail will lose $332 million in its first year, compared with the $500 million annual losses sustained by the seven carriers.

It says ConRail should turn a profit of $36 million in 1979 as track and equipment improvements begin to have a favorable effect on the railroad's efficiency and that ConRail should make a profit of nearly $400 million by 1983.

Arthur D. Lewis, chairman of USRA, said the reorganization will mean that "for the first time in nearly a decade the people of the region can anticipate improved and revitalized rail service and the benefits which an efficient, reliable and economically healthy rail system will provide."

Walkout At 2 Plants Is Averted

DETROIT (AP) — A strike at two General Motors metal casting plants in Saginaw was averted early today when negotiators from GM and United Auto Workers Local 688 settled a dispute over production standards.

A GM official said employees are expected to be on the job today with no break in production.

The Grey Iron and nodular iron plants employ 7,500 workers. GM officials had said a strike at those two facilities could force extensive shutdowns of other operations.

The strike deadline had been set for 9 a.m. today.

The plants make engine blocks, transmissions and engine, brake, drive train and suspension components.

Meanwhile, Ford Motor Co. said it will resume production today at its Dearborn, Mich., assembly plant, which had been idled for two days by a UAW strike at a nearby axle plant.

Famed Rail Names Lost In Corporate Reorganization

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — When seven financially weak railroads are merged into a new government-backed railroad today in the largest corporate reorganization in U.S. history, such well-known railroads as the Penn Central and the Erie Lackawanna will cease operating.

The other carriers whose names will disappear are the Reading (of Monopoly game fame), the Central of New Jersey, Lehigh and Hudson River, Lehigh Valley and the Ann Arbor.

Taking their place is a railroad known as Consolidated Rail Corp., or ConRail, a private corporation supported by a government investment of nearly $2.1 billion. ConRail will be the largest railroad in the nation in terms of revenues and the second largest in terms of route miles.

A special three-judge federal reorganization court began signing the numerous legal documents necessary for the takeover Tuesday and was scheduled to complete its work today. The actual change of ownership was to take place at midnight tonight.

However, legal battles are expected to continue for several years over the value of the property taken over by ConRail. The reorganization will culminate more than a year and a half of government planning and substantially change the pattern of rail freight service in 17 states in the Northeast and Midwest.

The new railroad will own a slimmed-down route system 17,000 miles in length. It also will operate its trains over another 3,100 miles of uneconomic routes under federal and local subsidy agreements. About 3,000 miles of track now owned by the seven carriers will be abandoned.

In addition, 19 private railroads and several states in the Northeast and Midwest have purchased sections of track owned by the seven ailing railroads and will start operating those new routes Thursday.

It will employ about 100,000 workers, or nearly one-fourth of all railroad workers in the United States. The seven railroads had about 103,000 employees.

The new railroad's planner, the U.S. Railway Association, is predicting a bright future for the new corporation and says the line could have a large and favorable impact on the nation's economy.

USRA, a federal agency created to plan and oversee the reorganization process, has predicted ConRail will lose $332 million in its first year, compared with the $500 million anual losses sustained by the seven carriers.

It says ConRail should turn a profit of $36 million in 1979 as track and equipment improvements begin to have a favorable effect on the railroad's efficiency and that ConRail should make a profit of nearly $400 million by 1985.

Arthur D. Lewis, chairman of USRA, said the reorganization will mean that "for the first time in nearly a decade the

BICENTENNIAL FACTS
Contrary to popular belief, Ethan Allen and the Green Mountain Boys did not originally organize to fight the British during the Revolutionary War. They had actually banded together some years before to fight settlers from New York. Boundary lines between New York and New Hampshire were so ill-defined that both colonies were granting land patents to settlers for the same land. The dispute became so hot that New York put a price on Allen's head. The World Almanac notes!

Walkout At 2 Plants Is Averted

DETROIT (AP) — A strike at two General Motors metal casting plants in Saginaw was averted early today when negotiators from GM and United Auto Workers Local 688 settled a dispute over production standards.

A GM official said employees are expected to be on the job today with no break in production.

The Grey Iron and Nodular Iron plants employ 7,500 workers. GM officials had said a strike at those two facilities could force extensive shutdowns of other operations.

The strike deadline had been set for 9 a.m. today.

The plants make engine blocks, transmissions and engine, brake, drive train and suspension components.

Meanwhile, Ford Motor Co. said it will resume production today at its Dearborn, Mich., assembly plant, which did begin idled for two days by a UAW strike at a nearby axle plant.

Moslem Nations Have Own Cast For 'Mohammad'

Q: Did they ever complete that film they were going to make on the life of the Arab prophet Mohammad? — G.Z., Provo, Utah.

A: After some seven years of effort and $17 million, producer-director Mostapha Akkad, a Syrian-American from Los Angeles, announces that he is within weeks of finishing the movie to be called "Mohammad — the Messenger of God." The project was mainly financed through bank credits arranged in the U.S., Britain, Morocco, Libya and Kuwait. There was considerable opposition among Moslems to the use of non-Arab actors in the film version of their religious leader's life so the picture was shot with two casts. Moslem nations will see Arab actors in leading roles while the rest of the world will see Anthony Quinn, Irene Papas and Michael Ansara.

Q: Is Brigitte Bardot making TV commercials? — E.V., Cheyenne, Wyo.

A: Indeed she is and, at 41, the fabulous B.B. is finding her new career just as lucrative as the one that made her the sex kitten of world cinema. Like her compatriot Catherine Deneuve, she Q: I read that Lucie Arnaz, the daughter of Desi and Lucille Ball, was co-starring in a musical in Miami but what about Desi Jr.? — D.C., Atlanta, Ga.

A: Desi Jr. lives in Los Angeles and is a member of a brand new rock group called "The Beverly Hills Blues Band." And what a good group it is; the others include Dean Martin Jr., Tony Martin Jr. and Terry Melcher, Doris Day's son.

Q: We're all drawing in Watergate books but I've yet to see one from Archibald Cox, the special prosecutor who was fired by former President Nixon. — T.P., Chevy Chase, Md.

A: Cox turned down all offers from publishers to do a book on the Watergate incident. He felt it would be too commercial. However the Cox episode will be in print because James Doyle, who was the special prosecutor's assistant, is doing a book.

Q: I was wondering if Alfred Hitchcock had any trouble making his latest film because of the heart pacemaker he wears. — A.Q., Memphis, Tenn.

A: There were no reports of any difficulty as Hitchcock "wrapped" his 53rd movie, "Family Plot," recently. The round director simply checks with the doctor monthly via a telephone device to make sure that his heart and pacemaker are doing fine. Then, of course, Hitchcock was never one of your more athletic-type directors. He is noted for planning everything in advance, running the bare minimum of film through the camera and not being interested in giving acting lessons on the set. In "Hitch's" case the director's chair gets a good workout during shooting, which may be one reason why he is still making movies at 76.

Q: Is the so-called "casting couch" practice still hanging on in the new Hollywood? — O.I., Natchez, Miss.

A: You'd think the current permissiveness would have rendered that old gambit obsolete, but it apparently hasn't. A Moral Complaints Committee formed by the Screen Actors Guild is presently taking evidence from those who were promised work in return for bedroom favors by film and TV executives. So far four women and two men have come forward with complaints.

His First Goal Was $100; Now It's $1 Billion

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Having earned a B.A. degree from the University of Minnesota in his native Minneapolis, Curtis Carlson became a salesman for Procter & Gamble, with the goal of making $100 a week. That was in 1937.

Now, approaching age 62, Carlson still holds goals before him, goals that he says "are just as exciting, and on a much bigger scale." His current goal is to achieve $1 billion in sales by 1981.

After one year of selling soap for P&G, Carlson founded Gold Bond Stamp Co. His immediate goal, he said at breakfast the other day, was to be in five states in five years.

That goal was met. Now ones were set and met. Gold Bond spread to Canada, Europe, Japan, the Caribbean, South America. One goal led to another. First store stamps led to broader consumer and business incentives.

With stamps being offered in 70 per cent of food stores, Carlson set diversification as a goal in the early 1960s. He entered the hotel business, then property development, finance, food retailing, manufacturing, restaurants.

Names such as Radisson Hotel Corp., Carlson Properties, the May Co., Ardan Wholesale Inc., North American Financial Corp., Superior Fiber Products Inc., and T.G.I. Friday's Restaurants joined Gold Bond.

As the number of individual concerns pyramided within Carlson companies Inc., amazingly, Carlson retained private control of every one of them: No partners, no outside shareholders, no public financing.

With sales of nearly $300 million a year, Curt Carlson has now decided on the billion dollar goal. And it is unlikely that any of his 8,000 employees has not at some time heard or read about that goal.

"If you don't have goals in front of your people all the time you'll find petty distractions developing," he said, recalling his own early days, when goals were written on pieces of paper and folded into his wallet.

Attempting to draw lessons from his experience, Carlson said: "You've got to get a stake. And then you must set goals and not get distracted."

Later: "The best advice I can give young fellows is not to let time slip away with petty distractions. For five days' work you stay even. It's on the sixth day, on Saturday, that you get ahead."

"Work hard to get that nest-egg. You've got to get that little stake besides the return on your own labor, so that something's going on night and day. When half your dough is coming from investments, it's possible to start growing."

By then you'll probably have an organization working for you, allowing you to enjoy other pursuits, including your family, in Carlson's case a wife, two daughters and sons-in-law and eight grandchildren.

Carlson is a relaxed looking man, in his opinion a family man and not a "workaholic." He seems to enjoy work as a creative expression, as an extension of his personal philosophy, as an outlet.

Unlike a public company, in which the shareholders join in the risks and profits and losses, Carlson observes that "in my case, every dollar I lose is my dollar and my people are conscious of it." His philosophy sets the pace.

The widely diversified companies are organized into eight groups — premiums, hotels, real estate, retail, food, financial, manufacturing, restaurants — with the head of each reporting directly to him.

"They report to me on the upstream matters," said Carlson, noting that upstream was the future, new ventures, opportunities, risks, "and they take care of the downstream affairs — their own operations — themselves."

These group heads, and the directors of administration, finance, legal, personnel, planning and development, and public relations, constitute the top advisers to the boss, who works out of headquarters in Plymouth, Minn.

Once a year they come before the entire group, to be measured on their accomplishments, their goals, how well they've performed their functions, how creatively they've worked to build the entire business.

Like him, they are committed to growth. They have goals and they try not to be distracted, and sometimes they succeed handsomely where others have failed.

"You've got to have objectives, a clear mind," Carlson explained. "Happy people are those who have made a commitment to something." It reduces their options in life, he concedes, but he insists "when you're committed you're happier."

And where do Carlson's business and many other commitments lead? "There's no destination," he said, speaking of himself. "In my lifetime I'm probably certain to do the same things."

And where do Carlson's business and many other commitments lead? "There's no destination," he said, speaking of himself. "In my lifetime I'm probably certain to do the same things."

Carlson is a relaxed looking man, in his opinion a family man and not a "workaholic." He seems to enjoy work as a creative expression, as an extension of his personal philosophy, as an outlet.

Unlike a public company, in which the shareholders join in the risks and profits and losses, Carlson observes that "in my case, every dollar I lose is my dollar and my people are conscious of it." His philosophy sets the pace.

The widely diversified companies are organized into eight groups — premiums, hotels, real estate, retail, food, financial, manufacturing, restaurants — with the head of each reporting directly to him.

"They report to me on the upstream matters," said Carlson, noting that upstream was the future, new ventures, opportunities, risks, "and they take care of the downstream affairs — their own operations — themselves."

These group heads, and the directors of administration, finance, legal, personnel, planning and development, and public relations, constitute the top advisers to the boss, who works out of headquarters in Plymouth, Minn.

Once a year they come before the entire group, to be measured on their accomplishments, their goals, how well they've performed their functions, how creatively they've worked to build the entire business.

Like him, they are committed to growth. They have goals and they try not to be distracted, and sometimes they succeed handsomely where others have failed.

Defense Budget Gaining Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's record defense budget is picking up initial support in Congress, with some congressional defense critics expressing concern over Soviet military buildups.

The Senate Budget Committee approved by voice vote a $113-billion defense spending target for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, which it said is only $300 million less than Ford wants.

The House Budget Committee, by a vote of 13 to 12, set a target of $112 billion, rejecting a proposal by its own chairman, Rep. Brock Adams (D-Wash.), that the figure be cut to $107.7 billion.

Ford threatened Monday to veto any defense bill that is cut to the point that it would "shortchange the future safety of the American people." He said, "I am deeply disturbed that some members of our own Congress, apparently oblivious to the realities of today's world, now seek to make sizeable reductions in the defense budget."

But the budget committee defense targets close to Ford's request are the latest indication that Congress might be ready to reverse its trend in sharply cutting defense requests. Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said Tuesday he knew of no organized move in Congress to cut the defense budget and suggested that Ford seemed to be "tipping at a windmill or knocking down a straw man."

Rep. Robert M. Glinism, D-Conn., a critic of some defense spending in the past, said it is clear from hearings this year that the Soviets are significantly expanding their military might, especially their navy, "and you have to ask yourself, 'What are the Russians up to?'"

Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., said, "I came to the conclusion that if the Russians really want peace, they're going about it in a damned peculiar manner." But Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., who had tried to cut the defense budget target down to $103.5 billion, called Ford's contention that severe cuts might endanger the country "absurd."

"I think this is an attempt by the Pentagon to use a lot of empty words to scare us into doing something that is unnecessary," she said.

Adams said that Ford was not living in "the real world" of fiscal responsibility by threatening to veto a trimmed defense bill. "Right now there is some $44 billion in unexpended funds sitting over at the Pentagon," he said. In the Senate committee, Alan Cranston, D-Calif., leading the outnumbered liberals, said the United States needs only to be strong enough to deter a Soviet attack and to prevent the United States or its allies from being "chained by any potential enemy."

Charter Township Bill Over Hurdle

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has approved a bill making it easier for a township to incorporate and raise taxes without a vote of the people.

Under a bill passed 26-7 Tuesday and returned to the House, a township of more than 5,000 residents could incorporate and become a charter township by a simple vote of the township board. A township now can become a charter township only through a vote of the residents.

Charter townships have the power to raise taxes without a vote of the people.

Under the new scheme, residents of the township could petition to place the issue on the ballot if they disagreed with the action of the township board. But if not enough petition signatures are obtained to place the question before the voters, the board's action would stand. As a charter township, a township's governing board can levy up to five mills of taxation without a vote of the people.

Townships now get about one mill of the 15-mill limit, although residents can vote in special millages for police, fire protection and other services.

"WHEN EVERYONE ELSE FORGETS, ROGER REMEMBERS!"

That Describes Roger — One Who Remembers!

We never thought of it just that way, but the simple act of "remembering" is what makes a good friend — or a good newspaper carrier.

For the present it's part of Roger's job — to remember the names and addresses of a hundred or more customers — and to prove he remembers them six times a week by bring the HERALD-PALLADIUM. Right now he gets paid for it. But, 10 years from now (ask any old newsboy) he'll still remember your house, and probably your name!

We'll spare you a discourse on firm and fickle friends and just say, "When you count the people who remember you, count Roger!"

His First Goal Was $100; Now It's $1 Billion

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Having earned a B.A. degree from the University of Minnesota in his native Minneapolis, Curtis Carlson became a salesman for Procter & Gamble, with the goal of making $100 a week. That was in 1937.

Now, approaching age 62, Carlson still holds goals before him, goals that he says "are just as exciting, and on a much bigger scale." His current goal is to achieve $1 billion in sales by 1981.

After one year of selling soap for P&G, Carlson founded Gold Bond Stamp Co. His immediate goal, he said at breakfast the other day, was to be in five states in five years.

That goal was met. New ones were set and met. Gold Bond spread to Canada, Europe, Japan, the Caribbean, South America. One goal led to another. Food store stamps led to broader consumer and business incentives.

With stamps being offered in 70 per cent of food stores, Carlson set diversification as a goal in the early 1960s. He entered the hotel business, then property development, finance, food retailing, manufacturing, restaurants.

Names such as Radisson Hotel Corp., Carlson Properties, the May Co., Ardian Wholesale Inc., North American Financial Corp., Superior Fiber Products Inc., and T.G.I. Friday's Restaurants joined Gold Bond.

As the number of individual concerns pyramided within Carlson companies Inc., amazingly, Carlson retained private control of every one of them: No partners, no outside shareholders, no public financing.

With sales of nearly $500 million a year, Curt Carlson has now decided on the billion dollar goal, and it is unlikely that any of his 8,000 employees has not at some time heard or read about that goal.

"If you don't have goals in front of your people all the time you'll find petty distractions developing," he said, recalling his own early days, when goals were written on pieces of paper and folded into his wallet.

Attempting to draw lessons from his experience, Carlson said: "You've got to get a stake. And then you must set goals and not get distracted."

Later: "The best advice I can give young fellows is not to let time slip away with petty distractions. For five day's work you stay even. It's on the sixth day, on Saturday, that you get ahead."

"Work hard to get that nest-egg. You've got to get that little stake besides the return on your own labor, so that something's going on night and day. When half your dough is coming from investments, it's possible to start growing."

By then you'll probably have an organization working for you, allowing you to enjoy other pursuits, including your family, in Carlson's case a wife, two daughters and sons-in-law and eight grandchildren.

Carlson is a relaxed looking man, in his opinion a family man and not a "workaholic." He seems to enjoys work as a creative expression, as an extension of his personal philosophy, as an outlet.

Unlike a public company, in which the shareholders join in the risks and profits and losses, Carlson observes that "in my case, every dollar I lose is my dollar and my people are conscious of it." His philosophy sets the pace.

The widely diversified companies are organized into eight groups — premiums, hotels, real estate, retail, food, financial, manufacturing, restaurants — with the head of each reporting directly to him.

tions, how creatively they've worked to build the entire business.

Like him, they are committed to growth. They have goals and they try not to be distracted, and sometimes they succeed handsomely where others have failed.

"You've got to have objectives, a clear mind," Carlson explained. "Happy people are those who have made a commitment to something." It reduces their options in life, he concedes, but he insists "when you're committed you're happier."

And where do Carlson's business and many civic commitments lead? "There's no destination," he said, speaking of himself. "In my lifetime I'm probably certain to do the same things."

It's Strictly Tentative

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young have announced a tentative agreement aimed at helping the financially plagued city. The two emerged Tuesday from a four-hour meeting which extended into the evening to disclose they have reached a "preliminary understanding" on a one-year package of steps to produce some $35 million for the city. The package includes a three-mill garbage tax, but Milliken reportedly offered the city a proposal last week which would produce that much money.

Promise War On Terrorism

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Jorge Videla, in an outline of his new military government's goals, gave first priority to a war on terrorism to achieve the stability necessary for reconstruction of the Argentine economy. Videla, making his first speech since he and other military leaders ousted President Isabel Peron a week ago, said Tuesday night that his government "will monopolize the use of force." "We will use that force as many times as necessary to ensure the full observance of social peace. Toward this goal we will combat, without truce, subversive delinquency in any of its manifestations until it is totally annihilated," the 50-year-old general said in a radio-television address.

New Moslem Leaders Found

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Military success has put the initiative in the hands of Kamal Junblatt and other leftist Moslem leaders who were mostly ignored in past attempts to end the Lebanese civil war. Their forces have advanced steadily in the past 10 days of fighting in Beirut, in the foothills to the east of the capital and in the northern part of the country. This success has increased the leftist appetite for radical changes in the political system under which the Maronites, Lebanon's largest Christian sect, dominated the country's political and economic life.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Market Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, leveling off after two sessions of losses.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose nearly a point in the early going, but losters held a slight edge over all edge on gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market seemed to be probing for new direction after a month of narrow fluctuations.

They said some investors apparently had stepped aside to await March wholesale price index figures from the government later in the week.

Today's early prices included: Pittsburgh, unchanged at 34 1/2; Waco Chemical, off 1/4 at 27 1/4; Metville Shoe, down 1/4 at 23 1/4; and General Cable, up 1/4 at 11 1/4.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average declined 5.27 to 992.13 to extend its loss for the last two days to 11.33 points.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 5-4 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index was off 21 at 54.43.

Big Board volume remained fairly quiet at 17.93 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost .64 to 103.65.

'Fat-Free' Bread Is Introduced

Increasing consumer interest in reducing fat intake has led Kreamo Bakers, Inc., of South Bend, to introduce a new line of 87 per cent fat-free white bread that has no cholesterol, according to William E. Busse, the bakery's general manager.

The new Kreamo bread, which is now available at retail stores throughout Indiana and Michigan, is made with all-vegetable shortening, unbleached flour, and contains no artificial preservatives. The vitamin-enriched bread contains about 70 calories per slice, Busse said.

The Clout of the Dairy Co-ops
(Third of four columns)

When the scandals over illegal campaign contributions by the dairy co-ops broke a few months back, were you fully aware of the reasons behind the co-ops' political generosity? Are you familiar with the costly and outdated federal regulations that help keep the prices of milk and of milk products high?

If so, you were (and are) the exception. Few Americans know the vital part the federal government and the milk cooperatives play in deciding milk and milk product prices — and why the system is coming increasingly under attack.

The milk co-ops are business organizations which, for a fee, act as bargaining agents for dairy farmers. They arrange the delivery of farm supplies; provide expert agricultural advisers; run educational programs for farmers; manage milk-drinking promotions; and most important, bring their members' milk to market for the best possible price they can get from the government and processors.

Until 1922, dairy farmers were at an extreme disadvantage in bargaining with large processing corporations. In that year, though, the Capper-Volstead Act and passage of Section 6 of the Clayton Act exempted co-ops from certain anti-trust restrictions. In recent years, too, the number of co-ops has dwindled while the remaining few have become much bigger and more powerful.

Today, experts estimate major co-ops control more than half the fluid milk sold under federal regulation. In some regulated markets, smaller co-ops control most of the milk production. In about 90 per cent of the federal order markets, co-ops are able to charge milk processors a "premium" on top of the reasonable minimum price set for most of the country by the Department of Agriculture.

These premiums, which are above the price the U.S. government believes is necessary to maintain an adequate supply of milk, enable co-ops to get the price they want for their milk. In fact, averaging about 65 cents per 100 pounds of milk during the first 11 months of last year, these premiums cost consumers "at the very minimum, an additional $175 million," according to a report by Peter Hutt, a Washington lawyer and dairyman's son.

The big co-ops bring pressure against milk processors in other ways, research by my associate, Brooke Shearer, discloses. Co-ops often force processors to buy only from them to get any

No-Fault Bill Given Best Chance

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Senate backers of a national no-fault auto insurance bill say it has its best chance of enactment this year because states are failing to enact their own no-fault plans.

Senate debate was in resume today on a bill that would give states four years to enact no-fault legislation and require motorists to buy such insurance.

A motorist insured under no-fault collects benefits from his own insurance company when he has an accident, regardless of blame.

In debate Tuesday, Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said that while 18 states have enacted no-fault laws since 1970, only North Dakota did so within the last 1 1/2 years. He blamed a strong lobbying campaign by trial lawyers for producing "a virtual cessation of no-fault progress at the state level" and said that without federal action it is unlikely many more states will adopt no-fault on their own.

Moss said he hopes this look of state activity convinces the Ford administration to reverse its opposition to the legislation. The administration has said it favors the concept of no-fault insurance but believes the states should make up their own minds on it.

Backers of the bill said that despite opposition to the bill by the Association of Trial Lawyers and the possibility of a Senate filibuster by opponents, they feel it has a good chance of passage.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, which wrote the bill, said the chance of passage has been enhanced because many major insurance companies are now backing it.

Prudential said last week it was reversing its position and backing the bill, citing problems from the current bodge-podge of state laws. State Farm, the nation's largest automobile insurance firm, has long backed no-fault, but Allstate, the second-largest, has opposed it.

"Without significant insurance industry support, I don't think the trial lawyers can stop this bill, try as they may," Magnuson said.

The Senate bill would establish nationwide no-fault standards, but states would institute their own plans. The transportation secretary would administer a federal plan in

Under proposed standards, all motor vehicle owners would buy the insurance. Insurance companies would pay unlimited medical expenses and $15,000 or more in lost wages of accident victims.

Claims would be paid within 30 days. Accident victims would give up the right to sue for "pain and suffering" except in extreme cases.

However, victims could sue for economic losses exceeding the amount they received under the no-fault plan. The plan would also apply to medical and related expenses and not to property damage to vehicles. Originally, backers of no-fault said there would be substantial savings in premiums because of reduced legal expenses needed to obtain payment of claims, but there have been contrasting statistics on savings from the states where no-fault now is in effect.

And there is disagreement within the industry. State Farm, for instance, predicts the bill would result in a net, nationwide average savings of 10 per cent on premium costs. But Allstate officials contend it could cause premiums to rise as much as 4.4 per cent.

family. These schools are very precious as far as I'm concerned, and if they are closed, the community will lose a great thing.

The City of St. Joseph has many respectable families whose children go to these schools, and with the loss of these schools, St. Joseph will also lose these families.

I have lived and been in many different cities but as far as I'm concerned, St. Joseph is one of the best and most respected in my book.

Millon and Jefferson schools should remain open for as long as they stand, because they are the "last of the best."

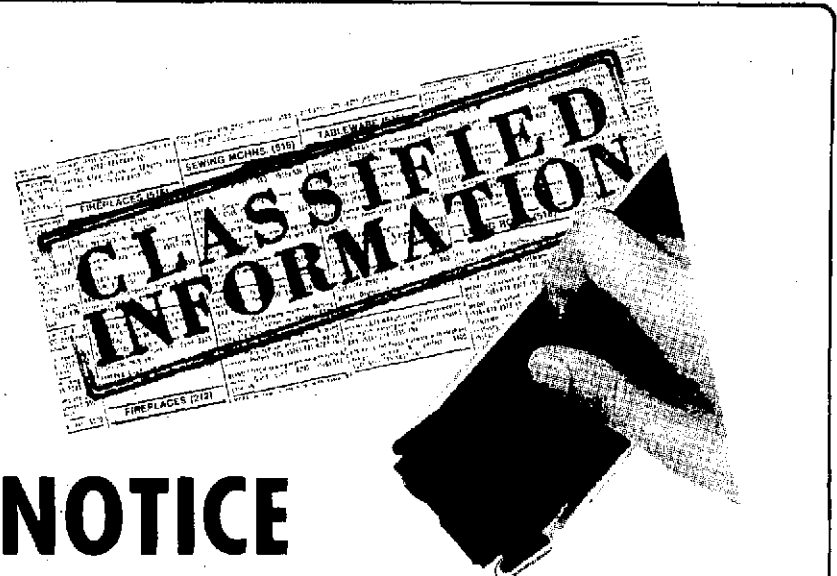

I sincerely hope they will remain open and that more parents oppose this closing.

The Clout of the Dairy Co-ops
(Third of four columns)

When the scandals over illegal campaign contributions by the dairy co-ops broke a few months back, were you fully aware of the reasons behind the co-ops' political generosity? Are you familiar with the costly and outdated federal regulations that help keep the prices of milk and of milk products high?

If so, you were (and are) the exception. Few Americans know the vital part the federal government and the milk cooperatives play in deciding milk and milk product prices — and why the system is coming increasingly under attack.

The milk co-ops are business organizations which, for a fee, act as bargaining agents for dairy farmers. They arrange the delivery of farm supplies; provide expert agricultural advisers; run educational programs for farmers; manage milk-drinking promotions; and most important, bring their members' milk to market for the best possible price they can get from the government and processors.

Until 1922, dairy farmers were at an extreme disadvantage in bargaining with large processing corporations. In that year, though, the Capper-Volstead Act and passage of Section 6 of the Clayton Act exempted co-ops from certain anti-trust restrictions. In recent years, too, the number of co-ops has dwindled while the remaining few have become much bigger and more powerful.

Today, experts estimate major co-ops control more than half the fluid milk sold under federal regulation. In some regulated markets, smaller co-ops control most of the milk production. In about 90 per cent of the federal order markets, co-ops are able to charge milk processors a "premium" on top of the reasonable minimum price set for most of the country by the Department of Agriculture.

These premiums, which are above the price the U.S. government believes is necessary to maintain an adequate supply of milk, enable co-ops to get the price they want for their milk. In fact, averaging about 65 cents per 100 pounds of milk during the first 11 months of last year, these premiums cost consumers "at the very minimum, an additional $175 million," according to a report by Peter Hutt, a Washington lawyer and dairyman's son.

The big co-ops bring pressure against milk processors in other ways, research by my associate, Brooke Shearer, discloses. Co-ops often force processors to buy only from them to get any milk at all. As described in Justice Department lawsuits and testimony before Congress, if a processor won't agree, big co-ops have been known to charge the processor a higher price for raw milk or deny him milk from allied co-ops in other regions of the country.

Co-ops also operate what is known as a "standby pool" to keep milk from moving from an area of surplus to an area of shortage. The pool, run by co-op groups, pays farmers in the productive Minnesota-Wisconsin dairy region not to ship their milk into other (usually Southern) regions of the country without co-op approval.

Originally set up to assure that milk supplies would move into areas where the supplies were needed, the pool now prevents processors from buying milk from alternative, cheaper sources which don't charge premium prices.

Just recently, the Justice Department prosecuted the largest cooperative in the U.S. — the Associated Milk Producers, Inc. (AMPI) — for violation of anti-trust regulations. AMPI signed a consent order, agreeing to stop actions designed to maintain or increase the cooperative's monopoly. Moreover, two other suits against co-ops are pending.

Even Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz has acknowledged that some co-ops have abused their legal advantages "and been aided and abetted by the USDA."

In a startling outburst of candor, Butz told the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives this past January. "This has not been done for good marketing but for monopolistic price enhancement. I'm firmly convinced we have done that."

Co-op abuses, Butz added, "turn consumers off on us. Let's not kid ourselves, they're the majority."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air pollution from the massive Kaiparowits power project being planned for southern Utah would waft into portions of several national parks, according to a study by the National Park Service.

No-Fault Bill Given Best Chance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate backers of a national no-fault auto insurance bill say it has its best chance of enactment this year because states are failing to enact their own no-fault plans.

Senate debate was to resume today on a bill that would give states four years to enact no-fault legislation and require motorists to buy such insurance.

A motorist insured under no-fault collects benefits from his own insurance company when he has an accident, regardless of blame.

In debate Tuesday, Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said that while 16 states have enacted no-fault laws since 1970, only North Dakota did so within the last 1 1/2 years. He blamed a strong lobbying campaign by trial lawyers for producing "a virtual cessation of no-fault progress at the state level" and said that without federal action it is unlikely many more states will adopt no-fault on their own.

Moss said he hopes this lack of state activity convinces the Ford administration to reverse its opposition to the legislation. The administration has said it favors the concept of no-fault insurance but believes the states should make up their own minds on it.

Backers of the bill said that despite opposition to the bill by the Association of Trial Lawyers and the possibility of a Senate filibuster by opponents, they feel it has a good chance of passage.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, which wrote the bill, said the chance of passage has been enhanced because many major insurance companies are now backing it.

Prudential said last week it was reversing its position and backing the bill, citing problems from the current hodge-podge of state laws. State Farm, the nation's largest automobile insurance firm, has long backed no-fault, but Allstate, the second-largest, has opposed it.

"Without significant insurance industry support, I don't think the trial lawyers can stop this bill, try as they may," Magnuson said.

The Senate bill would establish nationwide no-fault standards, but states would institute their own plans. The transportation secretary would administer a federal plan in

Under proposed standards, all motor vehicle owners would buy the insurance. Insurance companies would pay unlimited medical expenses and $15,000 or more in lost wages of accident victims.

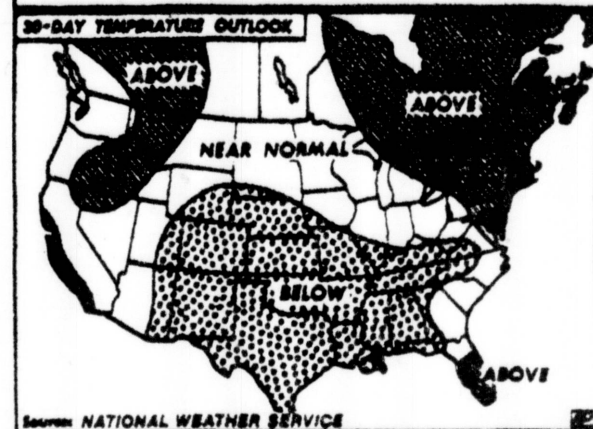

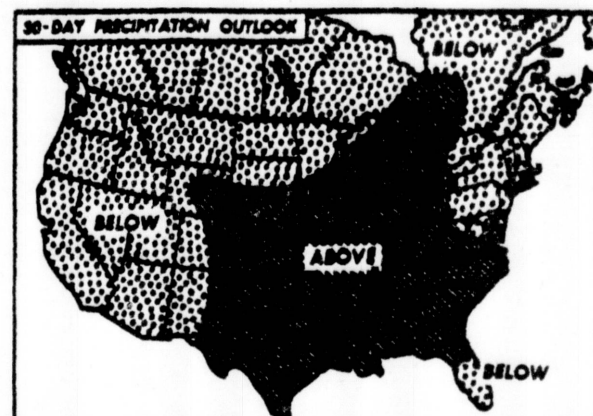

Claims would be paid within 30 days. Accident victims would give up the right to sue for "pain and suffering" except in extreme cases.

However, victims could sue for economic losses exceeding the amount they received under the no-fault plan. The plan would only apply to medical and related expenses and not to property damage to vehicles.

Originally, backers of no-fault said there would be substantial savings in premiums because of reduced legal expenses needed to obtain payment of claims, but there have been contrasting statistics on savings from the states where no-fault now is in effect.

And there is disagreement within the industry. State Farm, for instance, predicts the bill would result in a net, nationwide average savings of 10 per cent on premium costs. But Allstate officials contend it could cause premiums to rise as much as 4.4 per cent.

family. These schools are very precious as far as I'm concerned, and if they are closed, the community will lose a great thing.

The City of St. Joseph has many respectable families whose children go to these schools, and with the loss of these schools, St. Joseph will also lose these families.

I have lived and been in many different cities but as far as I'm concerned, St. Joseph is one of the best and most respected in my book.

Milton and Jefferson schools should remain open for as long as they stand, because they are the "last of the best."

I sincerely hope they will remain open and that more parents oppose this closing.

Two Ask Drug Charge Hearings

Two Chicago men demanded preliminary hearings Tuesday in Berrien District court on charges of possession of four grams of heroin and possession with intent to deliver two ounces of cocaine. Jailed in lieu of $100,000 bonds were Michael G. Barber, 22, and Barrett Diggs, 25.

The men were in an auto stopped by police yesterday morning in Coloma township. A computer check showed that the car was stolen, but auto theft charges were not authorized because the drug counts carry longer prison sentences, according to Prosecutor John Smetanka.

Also demanding examination was Jeffrey D. Qualls, 22, of 2238 Joni lane, Stevensville, charged with larceny of cameras and jacket lighters in a building, Belscot Department store, Benton township, March 12 and 18. He failed to post $1,000 bond.

Bound over to Circuit court were: James G. Johnson Jr., 26, of 560 Warwick terrace, Benton Harbor, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, a gun, against Jesse Vaughn March 18 in Benton township. He continued free on $5,000 bail.

In Ann Reese, 21, of 1759 Crystal court, Benton township, accused of carrying a concealed pistol in Benton township March 18. She was released on $5,000 bond.

Arthur L. Brown, 39, of 789 Thresher, Benton Harbor, on a charge of larceny from a building, a Benton Harbor home, filed in connection with the theft of an adding machine, a typewriter, a television, a radio, jewelry, a coat, $97 in cash and $5 in food stamps. He waived examination and was jailed under $1,000 bond.

Sentenced were: Willie McClinton, 37, and Albert Smith, 31, both of Gary, Ind., fine and costs of $105 each for possession of unregistered pistols March 5 in Benton township.

Allen L. Gardner, 36, of Coloma, $75 for impaired driving Nov. 8 in Benton township. Michael L. Webber, 24, of 1380 Silverbrook, Niles, $153 for impaired driving in Bertrand township Feb. 15.

Donald A. Pietz, 17, of 465 South Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, $122 for petty larceny of a bracelet Dec. 17 at Goldblatt's, Benton township.

BH Man Loses In Lawsuit

A rural Benton Harbor man seeking $50,000 from the state for injuries allegedly caused by a hit-and-run driver was denied any monetary damages by a Berrien Circuit court jury.

Jurors deliberated about one hour late Monday before returning a "no cause for action" verdict against the plaintiff in the case, Joseph B. Wheeler, 38. The verdict went in favor of the state.

Wheeler had sued the state, specifically Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, under the motor vehicle claims act for broken ribs and bruises allegedly sustained when an unidentified motorist pulled on to US-41 near Monte road in Benton township from the road shoulder.

Wheeler contended he hit the unidentified car and then collided with one operated by Karen Hickmott, who was not part of the suit. The accident claims act says when the identity of a vehicle and driver can't be established, a person who otherwise would have had a claim against the driver may bring action against the state. The accident occurred April 7, 1970.

Atty. Charles La Sala, special assistant attorney general representing the state, argued there was no hit-and-run driver who caused the accident, while Atty. Elden Butzbaugh Sr. contended the unidentified motorist made the accident happen. The three-day trial was held before visiting Judge Sam Street Hughes of Lansing.

BH Man Loses In Lawsuit

A rural Benton Harbor man seeking $50,000 from the state for injuries allegedly caused by a hit-and-run driver was denied any monetary damages by a Berrien Circuit court jury.

Jurors deliberated about one hour late Monday before returning a "no cause for action" verdict against the plaintiff in the case, Joseph B. Wheeler, 38. The verdict went in favor of the state.

Wheeler had sued the state, specifically Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, under the motor vehicle claims act for broken ribs and bruises allegedly sustained when an unidentified motorist pulled on to US-31 near Monte road in Benton township from the road shoulder.

Wheeler contended he hit the unidentified car and then collided with one operated by Karen Hickmott, who was not part of the suit. The accident claims act says when the identity of a vehicle and driver can't be established, a person who otherwise would have had a claim against the driver may bring action against the state. The accident occurred April 7, 1970.

Atty. Charles La Sata, special assistant attorney general representing the state, argued there was no hit-and-run driver who caused the accident, while Atty. Elden Butzbaugh Sr. contended the unidentified motorist made the accident happen. The three-day trial was held before visiting Judge Sam Street Hughes of Lansing.

Shooting Suspect Pleads Guilty

A Benton Harbor man pleaded guilty Tuesday in Berrien Circuit court to assault with intent to murder stemming from a February shooting of a woman.

Remanded to the county jail in lieu of $50,000 bond by Judge Julian E. Hughes following arraignment was Ray Allen Bender, 43, of 406 Territorial road. He faces a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Shooting Suspect Pleads Guilty

A Benton Harbor man pleaded guilty Tuesday in Berrien Circuit court to assault with intent to murder stemming from a February shooting of a woman.

Remanded to the county jail in lieu of $50,000 bond by Judge Julian E. Hughes following arraignment was Ray Allen Bender, 43, of 496 Territorial road. He faces a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Bender was accused of shooting Elnora Harris with a 12-gauge shotgun Feb. 21 outside the Elks Timber lodge No. 1367, at 112 North Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, after a reported argument. Mrs. Harris, of 1575 Highland avenue, Benton township, sustained a wound to the shoulder.

FOR TWO SCHOOL YEARS

Lawton Budgets Approved

LAWTON — The Lawton school board Monday night adopted two budgets, one for the present school year and a preliminary budget for the 1976-77 school year.

The budget adopted for this school year amounts to $1,380,493, some $133,000 above the expenditures for the previous school year.

Approval of a budget for this school year was delayed by a financial pinch at the school which in turn delayed final settlement of a teacher pay raise until earlier this month. Teachers got a 5.5 per cent increase.

The superintendent said the school will probably have a $30,000 cash shortage when the budget expires June 30.

"For that reason, he said, the board also voted to apply for state permission to obtain an $80,000 tax anticipation loan to

Lifespan Increasing

NEW YORK (AP) — American life expectancy has increased by 25 years since the beginning of the century, according to the Institute of Life Insurance.

The institute says a person born now can expect to live meet the projected cash deficit and to get the school a surplus for the coming school year.

The second budget adopted was a preliminary one of $1,114,283 for the coming school year.

The budget would be financed by the proposed renewal of 15 property tax mills that expired this year, but does not depend on any additional millage for operations. Board action to seek the renewal is expected soon, according to school officials.

The board also voted to layoff one part-time teacher at the high school and two teachers who are reading instructors under a federally funded reading program, Dannecker said.

STATUARY HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Statuary Hall in the U.S. Capitol occupies the original quarters of the House of Representatives. It was created in 1864 and each state was invited to contribute not more than two statues of distinguished people. In 1933 the number was limited to one statue from each state. To date a total of 91 statues have been contributed by the 50 states.
